GREEN INDUCED TO STAY DEATH OF WAGE BILL

Sees Roosevelt, Then Asks Passage.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 30.—[Special.]—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who held the fate of the administration's minimum wage and maximum hour bill in his hands, was induced by President Roosevelt to give it a lukewarm reprieve today, but the senate opposition still insisted the vote on a motion to recommit would be close.

President Roosevelt summoned Green to the White House when he learned that the wage and hour bill, key to adjournment of congress and the administration's four other "must" bills, was in danger of going the way of the court packing bill by permanent burial in a senate committee.

Prefer to Take Chance.

The A. F. of L. president emerged from the White House with a statement saying labor did not approve the senate wage and hour bill, but would prefer to take its chances in the house rather than having the measure sent back to committee.

Some senators said the President "sold Green a bill of goods," while others said it was a "sheriff's sale."

Meanwhile the end of the senate assault on the wage and hour bill was not in sight, and there were indications that it would be emasculated by amendments exempting all kinds of workers, if not ultimately sidetracked by a motion to recommit.

Stop Debate at 3 P. M. Today.

By unanimous consent the senate agreed to limit debate tomorrow and begin voting on all amendments and motions at 3 p. m.

Senator Pat Harrison, chairman of the finance committee and heretofore a party wheelhorse second only to the late Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson in his loyalty to President Roosevelt, went completely off the administration reservation for the first time. In an impromptu, sarcastic speech such as Harrison has not made since the days of President Hoover's administration, he excoriated the bill and ridiculed its proponents, particularly "Madam" Perkins, the secretary of labor.

If this legislation would be so beneficial for industry, Harrison wanted to know, why were so many senators anxious to exempt all activities relating even remotely to agriculture? "If the provisions of the bill are so bad for agriculture, what is there about industry that we might look at as unfair and be prejudiced against?" he asked.

Vote Getting Demagogy.

Senator Ellison D. [Cotton Ed] Smith of South Carolina, chairman of the agriculture committee, also made it plain that the south is fed up with the "more abundant life" by denouncing the "whole miserable, philanthropic, and eleemosynary psychology" of the Roosevelt administration as a species of vote getting demagogy.

While Green took a public stand against recommitting the bill, half a dozen senators said he was privately urging them to vote otherwise. Four representatives of the A. F. of L., including John P. Frey, president of the metal trades department, were on the scene buttonholing senators, exhorting them to vote against the proposal of fixing minimum wages and maximum hours by a five man bureau in Washington.

Fears Administration.

Harrison said he was opposed to the pending legislation because of the background of the national labor relations board and the sitdown strikes. He also said he was afraid of the bill because "Madam Perkins would have too much to say about its administration."

An amendment to exempt employers of ten or less persons from provisions of the bill was passed, reconsidered, and finally defeated when charges were made that employers would break their businesses up into a number of small plants to escape the law.

The senate adopted by voice votes an amendment to exempt persons delivering farm products to markets, and one to apply any minimum wage and maximum hour provisions to WPA employes.

U. S. Halts Old Age Cash for Illinois

ORDER SLASHES RELIEF CHECKS TO $8.50 MONTH

Reforms Demanded in State System.

In a surprise order, the federal social security board in Washington yesterday summarily suspended further federal financial contributions for old age pensions in Illinois. The drastic action, the first of its kind since forty-four states, including Illinois, qualified for federal pension assistance, was taken because of alleged inefficiency in the state administration of the pensions.

The order provoked a bitter exchange between state and federal officials last night. Gov. Horner condemned it as "tyrannical, unfair, unjust, and wholly unreasonable." He said it discriminated against both taxpayers and pensioners. He promised that pensioners would not be allowed to suffer as a result of the government action.

Each Contributes Half.

Under the present federal-state pension setup the federal government and the state each contribute equal amounts toward the pensions. Since July, 1936, when the state pension law went into effect, the federal government has given $9,500,000—an amount matched by the state. There are 115,000 pensioners in the state, 36,000 of them in Cook county.

The maximum pension in Illinois is $30 a month. The average July check was $17. With federal support withdrawn the average will be reduced to $8.50 unless the state can find more funds.

Incidentally, the Cook county administration of pensions, in charge of Joseph L. Moss, was praised by federal investigators in contrast to that of downstate counties as "doing a pretty fair job."

State Reforms Demanded.

In announcing the stoppage of further federal grants, the Social Security board declared no more money would be given to Illinois until the administration of pensions in the state is corrected to conform with federal requirements.

The board charged that the state had failed to establish accounting records that would permit federal auditors to determine whether federal funds had been legally applied and that the investigation division of the state administration organization was inefficient and incompetent.

Another important accusation was that the state failed to maintain a master control register of pensions by which payment duplications might be prevented. It was also charged that the state has delayed in acting on the eligibility of applicants, and failed to provide county administrators with adequate instructions on local administration.

15 Agents Make Survey.

The survey which led to yesterday's order against Illinois was conducted by a crew of fifteen federal investigators headed by Ernest F. Witte, regional head of the social assistance division of the Social Security board.

These investigators scanned the records of a dozen or so of the state's 102 counties, including Cook. It was learned that a prime source of dis-

Heads Up! You May See New Comet Tonight

A comet discovered by Dr. P. Finsler in Zurich, Switzerland, last July 4 will become visible to the naked eye in Chicago tonight or tomorrow night, according to an announcement yesterday by astronomers at Yerkes observatory of the University of Chicago, at Williams Bay, Wis.

Finsler's comet, as it has been named, has been studied through telescopes since its discovery and its course has been plotted by astronomers. It now is calculated that its path should bring it within 50 million miles of the earth at the closest point. This should be reached about Aug. 9 or 10, when its maximum brilliance also should be attained. The sun is 90 million miles from the earth.

Look East of Pole Star.

Chicagoans should be able to see the wanderer as a hazy, dim star tonight or tomorrow night on a level with and slightly east of the Pole star. It will be considerably dimmer, at first, than any of the stars which comprise the two Dippers. As days pass the comet will travel south—apparently directly toward the earth—until about Aug. 21, when it will fade from sight near Arcturus.

Its brightness will wax and wane during this period, reaching a maximum about the night of Aug. 9. The Yerkes astronomers said, however, that from Aug. 6 to 16 there should be little change in the brightness of the comet that can be detected without a telescope.

Observers with a telescope—or even field or opera glasses—will be able to distinguish the comet's short, sharp tail during its brightest stages. The best time for such observations is just after midnight. The comet's tail always points away from the sun; therefore when it approaches the sun its tail is behind it, but when it is retreating from the solar system the tail is in front of it.

Goes 20 Miles a Second.

The comet's speed will increase as it nears the sun, which it is now approaching until it reaches a maximum of about 20 miles a second. Going away from the sun, the speed will decrease as the comet's distance from the sun grows greater.

Comets consist chiefly of gases such as nitrogen, methane, cyanogen, a poisonous gaseous compound of car-

COLUMBIA TRIES TO TEACH TEACHERS HOW THE OTHER HALF LIVES

New York, July 30.—(AP)—Several hundred school teachers from towns and villages of the midwest and south are whooping it up this summer under the amiable Aegis of Columbia university.

As part of their courses at the summer session of teachers college they are attending ball games, prize fights, night clubs, polo matches, and yacht races.

The idea, as explained by their instructor, Miss Roma Gans, as she took them to the ball game at Yankee stadium today, was to rub the corners off their schoolmarmish attitude and help them better to understand their young charges back home.

"The old fogey teacher can't win the respect of her children because nobody is so modern as the modern child," said Miss Gans. "Nor can she hope to understand her children if she doesn't know what interests them, and why."

FISH LEAP OUT OF WATER INTO ANGLERS' LAPS

Los Angeles, Cal., July 30.—(AP)—Fish by the dozen came ashore and virtually jumped into the laps of delighted anglers at Playa Del Rey beach.

That, at any rate, is their story and the fishermen are sticking to it—with the moral support of W. L. Scofield, ichthyologist of the state game and fish laboratory.

No one knows why—but suddenly there were fish on the beach and startled onlookers scurried in search of baskets and gunny sacks to harvest them.

Witnesses said there was a great splashing offshore, with clusters of gulls causing a commotion overhead. Then a big wave washed an entire school of fish up on the sand.

They mostly were small fish—smelt, sardine, and herring—but there also were a few big bonita, barracuda, and yellowtail.

Sister Born Three Days After Her Twin Brother

Marion, O., July 30.—(AP)—Mrs. Virgil M. Parcher of Marion, 18 years old, gave birth to a son Monday night and a daughter late last night. The prematurely born twins were given a "fair" chance to live today. Mrs. Parcher was in a serious condition. The births were 74½ hours apart.

Illinois Film Star Marries Earl of Jersey

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 30.—Virginia Cherrill, who once was the belle of Carthage, Ill., and later won movie fame, today became a countess, wife of the young earl of Jersey.

Miss Cherrill, who is 29 years old and has been twice divorced, was married to the handsome earl at the Chelsea register office, a few miles from the Caxton hall registry, where she was wed to Cary Grant, the actor, three years ago.

The earl, who is 27 years old, was ten minutes late, and his bride tapped her foot impatiently until he arrived. After the brief ceremony the earl and his countess left on their honeymoon.

She's Through Acting.

"I'm through acting now," exclaimed the blonde Virginia. "It's a happy married life for me."

The earl, whom she met a year ago at a party, said he had urged her to quit the films. He presented an inscribed solid silver cigaret case to the registrar as the couple signed the registry book in the presence of their mothers.

The earl—who also is Viscount Grandison, Viscount Villiers, and Baron Hoo—inherited three country estates totaling almost 20,000 acres when his father died in 1923. He said he could not afford to live in the country home and, instead, the newlyweds will stay at his London town house. The earl's divorce from his first wife, Patricia Kenneth Richards, of Cootamundra, New South Wales, became absolute last week.

Wed to Grant in 1934.

The countess' first husband was Irving Adler, whom she married soon after she left St. Mary's convent at Kenosha, Wis., and the Starrett Finishing School for Girls in Chicago. They were divorced in 1926. She married the actor, Grant, former leading man for Mae West, in 1934 and they were divorced a year later.

Virginia, or "Jinny" as she was known to her home town friends, comes from a prominent family in Hancock county, Ill. Her maternal grandfather, Wilcox, was a widely known politician and her grandfather, Cherrill, was a banker.

Virginia was noted for her startling blonde beauty even as a child in Carthage. She later won a Chicago beauty contest, then movie fame.

Codona Kills Self After He Wounds Wife

Long Beach, Cal., July 30.—[Special.]—Embittered by the loss of his wife and the end of a brilliant career under the "big top," Alfredo Codona, the world's most famous circus aerialist, late today shot and seriously wounded his divorced teammate and then killed himself.

The man whose triple somersault in midair thrilled thousands in this country and abroad apparently could not face the future as he saw it. He was "grounded" four years ago by a shoulder injury in New York. A month ago his pretty wife and former trapeze partner, Vera Bruce, divorced him. His previous wife, the famous aerialist, Lillian Leitzel, was killed by a fall in Copenhagen in 1931.

"This is the last thing I'll be able to do for you," Codona said as he lighted a cigaret for Mrs. Codona in the office of her attorney this afternoon.

Shoots Ex-wife Four Times.

A minute later he drew a pistol from his pocket and fired four bullets in the body of the woman. His fifth bullet lodged in his brain.

Mrs. Codona, who comes from a family of circus acrobats almost as noted as the "Flying Codona Family," had gone to the office of Attorney James E. Pawson to discuss a property settlement. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Anna Bruce.

Codona strolled in a short time later. He had appeared cheerful when he told friends earlier in the day that he had an appointment with his ex-wife.

Mother Stays in Room.

He seemed in an amiable mood as he talked with Mrs. Codona and her lawyer. At the conclusion of the conference Codona asked to speak to his former wife in private. The attorney left the room, but Mrs. Bruce remained.

Codona then locked the door, lighted his intended victim's cigaret, then quickly drew his pistol. Mrs. Bruce, the only witness, looked on horrified. Mrs. Codona was rushed to a hospital, where it was said her condition was extremely serious.

Mrs. Codona was 32 years old. Her ex-husband was 43. She divorced him on July 1, charging he slapped her and was jealous. She asked for a share of $34,000 community property and $200 a month alimony.

Greatest Name in Circus.

For years "The Codonas" was "spangleland's" greatest name. Codona was called by fellow troupers the "Nijinsky of the flying rings." He was the first aerialist ever to do a triple midair somersault to a hand to hand catch.

In nearly all the Tarzan movies the tree swinging was done by Codona. He did the aerial work in the picture "Variety," "The Four Devils," and "Polly of the Circus."

The "Flying Codonas" were known internationally when Alfredo was born in Laredo, Tex. His father, Ed-

DEFIANT BASQUE ARMY IS MASSED FOR LAST STAND

Life Behind the Lines

The Tribune continues today to give its readers a picture of life in civil war torn Spain. In a previous dispatch Mr. Darrah described conditions behind the rebel lines menacing Madrid. In the dispatch below he describes an extensive survey of the Basque country, which the insurgents captured after months of fighting.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BILBAO, Spain, July 30.—A salient about 188 miles in length thrusts down from the Bay of Biscay, still defying Gen. Francisco Franco, Spanish rebel leader, and making the last stand of the Basques. Along this line, now called the Santander and Vizcaya front, which extends from Castro Urdrales on the east to Prava on the west, cannons roar a sort of evening litany every night and there is an occasional air duel.

Except for the cannon fire and air bombing all has been "tranquil" for the last three weeks, according to the communiques. Today the government forces launched an offensive against Castro-Alen, a mountain which controls a section of the plains on the road to Santander. The loyalists were beaten back with heavy losses after several futile charges up the mountainside.

Peasants Cutting Grain.

Otherwise there was little activity. The reason is that most of the Franco forces have been withdrawn from this northern front as reserves for the big action on the Madrid front. The rebel offensive which some time ago took Bilbao in the face of almost impregnable fortifications has been suspended.

Soldiers on the Basque side and those on the rebel side, in plain view of each other, seldom bother to fire a shot. Occasionally in the trenches someone grabs a rifle and bangs away just to indicate there still is a war in progress.

Everywhere in the yellow fields peasants are cutting grain and threshing it in open spaces. The fields of peace adjoin those of war. The distant booming of guns does not cause a single head to look up.

"Will the war come back? And when will it come back?" every one asks.

Bilbao Battered and Bruised.

Bilbao, Spain's biggest northern port, battered and bruised by its three months' siege, is still almost within sound of the guns on the Santander front, but rapidly is reverting to as normal activity as is possible in wartime. It seems to be a city of broken bridges. Gen. Franco's engineers and administrators have repaired two of the five main bridges. One is merely a pontoon structure and the other is made of iron secured by breaking up an old steamer in the river. The other three bridges make yawning gaps.

Street car service has been restored. Most of the people, except the children who were taken away during the siege, seem to have come back. Many, of course, never left. At a casual observation the people do not appear to have been starved or unduly distressed. Cafés and stores are open as usual, and give no signs of war.

But at intervals in the streets dugouts and sandbagged enclosures tell the story of a three months when no one knew when death would come out of the skies. Looking in their faces, one wonders what the people are thinking about, and what is their politics now. Are they white, or red, or Basque?

Bull Fights as Usual.

But life does go on anyway. Posters advertising a bull fight were plastered alongside others calling for loyalty to Gen. Franco, and everywhere is the red and yellow banner of rebel Spain.

It is not an easy task to substitute the entire administration of a city of 250,000 people. Bilbao's administration and municipal services all are being changed. People who were civil servants two months ago now are in jail or living abroad. People who were in jail six weeks ago now have municipal jobs. At the telegraph office an employé apologized for delay.

"I am not completely familiar with the work," he said. "I was in jail during the siege and just got this job."

Bilbao a Rich Town.

It is a rich town. You can see that from the houses and buildings. Up in the hills across the Nervion river lie rich iron mines, upon which so many European nations have their eyes and which are Bilbao's chief source of wealth. Some of them are being worked again.

Not Bilbao, but the so-called iron ring in the mountains to the south which defend it, make the most amazing spectacle of this side of war torn Spain. How the late Gen. Emilio Mola's troops finally got through will perhaps for years remain an absorbing study for military strategists. It appears from a visit to the ring that massed aviation bombardment was the main factor enabling Gen. Mola's troops to blast their way up the mountain passes and roads.

The first sight of the ring begins on the road from Victoria to Durango. Midway on this highway, at Ochandiano, where the mountain fastnesses also start, was a heavy reinforced concrete barricade, with loopholes.

Trenches Built in Hills.

Farther on were other concrete gateways, not entirely closed, but falling in echelon one behind another, enabling trafic to pass, but presenting a complete block to the fire of advancing troops. This ran across the road. Lacing the hills and mountains on each side were lines of trenches with concrete pillboxes and dugouts at intervals.

High up on the mountain crests was the Basque artillery. The terrain in the mountains is such that Gen. Franco's troops could only advance up the roads. They first encountered the concrete barricades, while from the flanks of the hills the Basques poured machine gun fire on them, and when they succeeded in taking the town they still had artillery in the mountains to contend with.

The only way the Basques could be silenced was to blast and demoralize them from the air.

This sort of fortification extended up to Durango and beyond it almost up to the edge of Bilbao, and when the Basques were driven out of one position they could retire only a little distance to stronger ones.

Towns Lie in Ruins.

Durango was hard hit in the fighting. It lies now mostly in ruins, as does Amorebieta. Twelve thousand people lived in Durango. Half of the houses in town now are ruined. Amorebieta also is mostly piles of rocks, iron and masonry.

Beyond Bilbao to the east it is less than an hour's drive to Guernica. Controversy still rages about what destroyed Guernica and how. Observers cannot tell now by looking at its ruins. More than half of what were formerly fine stone houses are now crumbled piles of rocks.

Eight thousand people once lived in this pleasant town between the mountains. It was the center of Basque culture. Now barely 1,500 are there, according to the old caretaker of the Casa de Junta, seat of the old Basque paraliament.

The Casa de Junta, in contrast with the rest of the town, is completely preserved. Not a mark is visible on the ancient building or on the trunk of the 600 year old oak tree, which was preserved as an emblem of Basque culture.

RUSSIA WRECKS NEW HANDS-OFF PLAN FOR SPAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 30.—Soviet Russia tonight caused a new deadlock in efforts to maintain a policy of international nonintervention in the Spanish civil war.

When the powers met here to consider the British compromise proposals for nonintervention control to prevent sending war materials and volunteers to Spain, Russia alone of the twenty-seven nations on the nonintervention committee stood out against them. It refused to consider recognition of belligerent rights for Gen. Francisco Franco, Spanish rebel leader, and insisted that Moroccan troops in the rebel ranks be withdrawn along with foreign volunteers.

The committee adjourned until an unspecified day next week, in the hope some solution would be found.

The British will act in consultation with the French if the entire nonintervention policy fails, Capt. Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, later informed the house of commons at its last session until Oct. 21.

REPORT ARRESTS OF ARMY CHIEFS FOR POLISH PLOT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, July 30.—Reports of arrests of a number of high army officials as the result of the attempted assassination on July 18 of Col. Adam Koc circulated today in Warsaw.

Koc is organizer of the National Unity party, launched with the support of Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz, hailed as successor to the late Dictator Josef Pilsudski.

Koc has been negotiating with leaders once powerful in the National Democratic party about joining his organization, and reports say he has earned the enmity of the conservative group of Pilsudskists and the ultra-chauvinist nationalists, who are accused of plotting his assassination.

It failed when Wyociech Biegany, a peasant of Poznan, was blown up by his own bomb in the garden of Koc's home.

SPANISH SHIP HIT BY SUBMARINES LOSES 23 OF CREW

Charred Hulk Reaches Port with 11 Aboard.

NIMES, France, July 30.—(AP)—The Spanish government freighter Andutz-Mendi, little more than a charred hulk after the guns of two unidentified submaries set her afire, brought her dead into the port of Le Grau du Roi tonight.

Only 11 members of her crew of 34 were known to have survived. There was no trace of 21 others, including six who fled the burning ship in a small boat.

Fishermen, who put out to the disabled craft after she was attacked a short distance off the French coast, extinguished the blaze and brought ashore two bodies.

Decapitated in Surrender.

One was that of a seaman decapitated by a shell while he was going to raise the white flag of surrender. Such a flag, apparently a sailor's shirt, still fluttered on the Andutz-Mendi's staf. The other victim was the ship's second officer.

Capt. Obdulio Castel, who came ashore with 10 of his crew, said the ship carried no refugees.

[Earlier reports from French coastal points had said it was carrying refugees from Valencia, Spain, and that two Spanish tankers, La Valetta and La Zorozza, also were fired on but managed to escape.]

The captain said the Andutz-Mendi was in French waters en route to Marseilles to load coal when two submarines suddenly broke water on each side. One fired from a distance of 30 yards, he said. The submarines then submerged.

Condemned to Death for Plot.

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, July 30.—(AP)—Two Frenchmen were condemned to death today for what insurgent Spanish officials charged was a plot to infest their territory with typhoid and sleeping sickness epidemics.

They alleged that Louis Chabrat and Jean Boujennec were tools of an international ring that involved Englishmen, Frenchmen, and some Spaniards in high government office.

For that reason the insurgents said they would stay execution of sentence and give information of the supposed plan to the league of nations and all world capitals.

French officials declared the charges were "ridiculous" propaganda. An insurgent military court declared the scheme was hatched in London and that the men possessed vials of typhoid and sleeping sickness germs when they were arrested.

Insurgent Uprising at Granada.

Reports from the civil war front five miles from Granada said fighting apparently was continuing in a revolt in the insurgent-held provincial capital. Bomb explosions could be heard and the fabra [Spanish] news agency in a dispatch from Gibraltar said the uprising was more furious than at first was believed. It said insurgent authorities were struggling desperately to localize the revolt. The trouble started when Spanish soldiers were ordered from their barracks to make way for Italian volunteers fighting with the insurgents, the agency said.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco's troops on the Cuenca front in eastern Spain, striving to knife the Madrid-Valencia highway, were bolstered by air bombing operations.

Another communique said the insurgent warship Almirante Cervera sank a foreign steamer in Spanish waters near Requejeda. The sunken ship's name was not reported.

DAUGHTER FEARS FOR PARENTS IN PEIPING MISSION

Mrs. Harold Halden expressed fear yesterday for the safety of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gunn, formerly of Evanston, who were last heard from in the Presbyterian mission compound in Peiping, China, near the scene of the Sino-Japanese fighting. Mrs. Halden, who is at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Conrad Poppenhusen, 1741 Hinman avenue, Evanston, said that she received an air mail letter from her parents, dated July 17.

Mr. Gunn, who is an architectural engineer, and his wife, the former May Borden of Evanston, have lived in China since 1911. Mrs. Halden's husband is a sugar broker in the Philippines.

FORMER QUEEN OF SPAIN VISITS WITH EX-KAISER

DOORN, Netherlands, July 30.—(AP)—Former Queen Victoria Eugenia of Spain, heavily veiled, motored alone from Germany today to pay a visit to former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany.

She remained indoors with the former kaiser. It is known that Wilhelm told former King Alfonso two years ago that "I hope I can see Queen 'Ena' before I die."

Household officials denied the visit concerned reconciliation between the queen and Alfonso, from whom she has been separated since soon after they fled from Spain in 1931.

bon and nitrogen, and possibly sodium and iron. There is a small solid nucleus, but the conclusion has been reached that even the giant comets have less matter per cubic inch than exists in the most perfect vacuum created by man.

It has been estimated that 100,000 or more comets visit our solar system. A number of them are well known, such as Halley's comet which reappears every 76 years; Encke's comet, the Pons-Winnecke comet and Ryves' comet.

While many comets make regular visits to the solar system, others pay a single visit and then travel out into the depths of space, never to return. Those which return travel an elliptical path which closes a vast oval out in space, while the others travel a parabolic path, the outer ends of which never meet.

SCHOOL COURSES NOW OFFERED IN SEX AND CRIME

Commenting on the July grand jury's report recommending that courses on sex education and criminology be given in the public schools, William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, said last night that several courses are now being given touching on the problems and others are contemplated.

"Social hygiene courses were established in high schools last February," said Supt. Johnson. "Courses in character training will be instituted next year."

Mr. Johnson said that many parents believe the place for sex education is the home.

The jury's recommendations, given yesterday to Chief Justice McKinley, said it had heard so many sex crimes that it felt sex education in the schools might help to reduce them. Judge McKinley agreed.

JAPAN SETS UP PUPPET REGIME IN NORTH CHINA

Nipponese Troops Mop Up Last of Resistance.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, July 31 [Saturday].—Japanese troops continued today to mop up Tientsin and the territory surrounding Peiping while their leaders began the creation of an independent government in the Peiping-Tientsin area. It will be known as the Peiping peace maintenance committee.

The Japanese selected the venerable Chiang Chao-tsung, 78 years old, for the post of chairman. He is to be assisted by a standing committee of six, most of whom are elderly members of the old Anfu clique, which ruled Peiping during the world war and was the recipient of more than $300,000,000 [silver] from the Japanese.

Recalls Mukden Procedure.

This preliminary setup is similar to the procedure followed by the Japanese after the occupation of Mukden, Manchuria, in 1931. The peace maintenance committee in Mukden finally grew into the Manchukuan government, headed by the Manchu boy emperor, Henry Pu-Yi [now Emperor Kang Teh].

The Peiping peace maintenance body will have forty members, including six each from the municipality, chamber of commerce, bankers' association and press, and so-called self-governing groups. Other members are to be selected from outstanding elderly residents.

The committee will have no executive, but only advisory powers. The real authority will rest with the Japanese staf. A Japanese spokesman, however, said the movement was "spontaneous."

Chinese Cry for War.

Nanking was deluged with appeals from all parts of the country to use armed force against the Japanese. Among those offering help to the government were half a million Chinese Boy Scouts.

Following Dictator Chiang Kai-shek's defiant statement at Nanking Thursday, in which he said China would fight the Japanese invasion to the last man, seven Japanese planes yesterday rained explosives on Chiang's advanced base at Paotingfu, eighty miles south of Peiping. Japanese planes also bombed Liuliho, southwest of Peiping, inflicting heavy casualties. In a lightning attack Japanese troops captured Changsin-tien, about twenty miles southwest of Peiping.

Japanese planes reconnoitered over Chengting and Shihkiachwang, on the border of Shansi province. They photographed the towns, but did not bomb them. The Chinese claim they shot down a Japanese plane at Sushi, thirteen miles north of Paotingfu, and captured the pilot.

Skirmishes Over Wide Area.

Japanese military headquarters at Tientsin announced that Japanese troops have occupied and now control all strategic points between the Yungting river, west of Peiping, and the gulf of Chihli.

Nevertheless, skirmishes continued in a wide area. They included a bloody struggle at the town of Tungchow, twelve miles east of Peiping, where the "anti-communist" peace preservation corps, Japanese trained and officered, rebelled and decimated the Japanese garrison. The Japanese announced that reinforcements from Tientsin dispersed the Chinese late in the afternoon.

Refugees from the north reported severe fighting near the famous Nankow pass in the Great Wall.

The Japanese operated in motorized equipment which enabled rapid movements over a wide area. It was stated that one mobile column of 4,000 men from Kupeikow [a pass in the Great Wall] was pursuing the remnants of the 29th Chinese army in the direction of Paotingfu. It was believed the Japanese intend to drive directly into Paotingfu in order to head off a possible advance of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's troops.

Occupy Marco Polo Bridge.

Among the points occupied by the Japanese were Yamenkow, eight miles north of Wanping; the Marco Polo bridge over the Yungting river west of Peiping, Mentoukow, where famous pottery works are located, and Wanping.

Chinese barracks at Hsiyuan, northwest of Peiping, were shelled continuously from a point two miles away.

In the Tientsin area, Japanese artillery continued the bombardment of Nankai university buildings, completing the wanton destruction of this famous educational institution. Buildings of the primary, grade and high school attached to the university, but located in another part of the city, were among the targets of the Japanese guns. The science library of the university, a gift of the Rockefeller Foundation, was destoyed.

The Japanese action produced widespread indignation throughout China. The reason for the Japanese venting their animosity on an educational institution remained a mystery.

Dr. Chang Po-ling, aged president of the university, announced at Nanking his intention to raise funds to rebuild the school elsewhere, possibly at some point in the Yangtze river valley.

Japs Occupy Port of Taku.

East of Tientsin the Japanese occupied the port of Taku, at the mouth of the Pei river connecting Tientsin with the sea. They also captured the Chinese gunboat Haiyen, which was anchored off Taku.

Chinese as well as foreigners at Tientsin charged that the Italian concession authorities and Italian soldiers there coöperated with the Japanese in driving out the Chinese defenders. The Italians were said to have permitted the Japanese to march across the Italian concession in order to relieve Japanese troops besieged in the east railway station. It also was alleged that the Italians coöperated with the Japanese in cleaning up Chinese sniping groups in the Chinese city near the borders of the Italian concession.

The Japanese on Thursday, being unable to use the international bridge because of opposition from authorities of the English and French concessions, built a pontoon bridge across the Pei river connecting the Japanese and Italian concessions. This, it was said, indicated that the Italians and Japanese had concluded an agreement. The Japanese were alleged to have promised the Italians a strip of land extending from the Italian concession to the end of the international bridge leading to the railway station.

ALL AMERICANS AT YENCHING UNIVERSITY IN CHINA ARE SAFE

PEIPING, China, July 30.—(AP)—Anxiety for the safety of a group of Americans at Yenching university, missionary supported school west of Peiping, were dispelled today when J. Leighton Stuart, the university's president, reached Peiping. He said none of the Americans at Yenching nor any American property there had been molested.

J. Leighton Stuart.

On his journey into the city Stuart, who formerly lived in Baltimore, ran into a skirmish between Japanese and Chinese detachments. He hid in a field until the tide of battle had rolled past.

Stuart said the Americans insisted upon remaining at Yenching because they believed their presence was the best protection for the property. Among them are Dr. and Mrs. Lucius C. Porter of Chicago.

Some 500 Americans in Peiping remained concentrated in the United States embassy compound under guard of the marine detachment. Embassy officials expressed confidence they were in no danger.

ROSE INVESTS IN MOVIE HERO, GETS A VILLAIN

Rose Marie Gennarelli, 28 years old, 4339 Wilcox street, learned last night that Patrick J. Billings, 29, and handsome, wasn't a movie star, but just a plain, everyday movie extra. And he learned that he might have to answer for the $6,200 she had sent him since last July. The money was stolen.

Miss Gennarelli met Billings four years ago. He told her he was on his way to stardom in Hollywood. He wrote her frequently, a year ago begging her for financial aid because he was ill. Miss Gennarelli, an employé of the Securities Service corporation, 310 South Michigan avenue, sent him $350. From time to time he demanded more, and all told she sent him $6,200 which she got from clipping coupons from bonds held by her employers or by cashing her employers' checks.

Billings came to Chicago several days ago, by which time Miss Gennarelli's employers had traced their losses. He was arrested yesterday entering a near north side hotel. He was confronted by Miss Gennarelli in the state's attorney's office last night and later both were locked up.

$150 REFUSED, SO HE KILLS WIFE WITH A HATCHET

Mrs. Clara Frangella, 55 years old, was fatally wounded yesterday by her husband, Dominick, 64, a railroad laborer, who struck her with a hatchet.

Frangella told Dr. Harry Hoffman, head of the Cook county behavior clinic, that he killed his wife because she refused to give him $150 and because he was tired of her having him arrested all the time. Mrs. Frangella died in the Jackson Park hospital three hours after the attack, which occurred in their home at 7727 Dobson avenue.

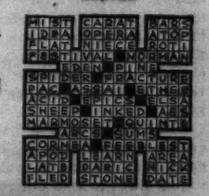
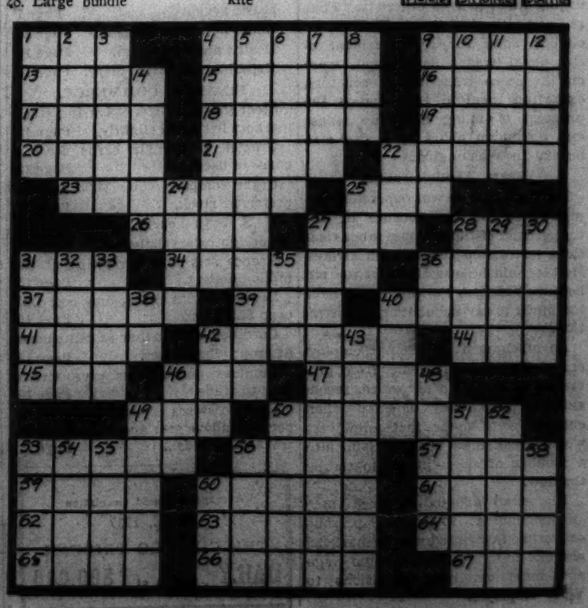
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED





MEDICAL SOCIETY BACKS DRIVE FOR SYPHILIS TESTS

4,000 Doctors to Aid War to End Scourge.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The council of the Chicago Medical society announced yesterday that by unanimous vote it has decided to throw its full and active support behind the campaign to stamp out syphilis. The action lines up more than 4,000 doctors, members of the society, back of the poll now being taken by federal, state, and local health agencies to determine how many Chicago citizens are willing to have free and secret blood tests taken of themselves and families.

The mobilizing of the physicians for the mass attack upon syphilis and gonorrhea was held to be a great step forward by officials of the United States public health service and the state and city boards of health. Dr. Oliver C. Wenger, federal health specialist, declared it would render easier the expansion of laboratory services and reduction of the red plague.

Extensive Coöperation in Drive.

Dr. Louis D. Smith, chairman of the venereal disease commission of the medical society, in announcing indorsement of the campaign said:

"To carry this program against syphilis into execution ultimately could not be done without the full assistance of the medical society and profession. This way Chicago will have 4,000 local clinics, so to say, in coöperation with the health agencies."

The first batch of returns from the poll show an overwhelming affirmative vote for voluntary, free, and secret syphilis blood tests. Out of 4,165 ballots returned and counted yesterday on the question: "In strict confidence and at no expense to you, would you like to be given, by your own physician, a blood test for syphilis?" Those marked yes were 3,829. Those voting no were 336.

Legion Support Asked.

Meanwhile preparations to swing the American Legion into active support of the venereal disease campaign were started. Gen. James A. Ryan of Army and Navy post drafted a resolution which will be presented at the state and national conventions of the Legion. It proposes the appointment of committees in all posts throughout the country to aid the public health service.

"Carry this campaign," the resolution says, "to every city, town, and hamlet where there may be a Legionnaire, and thereby protect American manhood and womanhood from these ruinous diseases which have destroyed the lives of thousands."

"Up to the present no national movement was taken to lessen the perils of these destroying afflictions nor to protect the unborn from inheriting venereal disease from infected parents."

Results of Tests.

A survey by health authorities indicated yesterday that less than 2 per cent of Chicago couples who have taken pre-marital examinations are infected with venereal disease. The doctors pointed to this as a fact that would encourage young people to take the tests required by the Saltiel marriage law and marry in Illinois instead of seeking wedding licenses outside the state.

At the municipal laboratory in the city hall since the Saltiel law went into effect on July 1, 260 premarital blood tests have been made, in which only three cases of syphilis were found. Out of 280 examinations, two cases of gonorrhea were found.

At the Public Health institute, where premarriage examinations are averaging about seven a day, 125 tests have been made this month, and in these no case of venereal disease was found.

The clinic of the United Medical service reported it has given venereal examinations to seventy-six persons since the Saltiel law became effective and only one, a person above the average marriage age, showed a syphilis reaction.

Expect Rate to Increase.

The medical experts conjecture that this rate will go up later. They hold that persons doubtful of their status as to venereal disease have gone into other states for marriage, that many took out licenses in Chicago before the Saltiel law became effective, and that the premarital tests so far given represent the best so far as health is concerned of those preparing to wed.

Dr. Frank Jirka, state health director, said that four years ago the state laboratories were making 150,000 tests a year of which about 65 per cent were for venereal disease. Last year some 300,000 tests were given, of which about the same percentage were for syphilis and gonorrhea.

New syphilis cases reported this year up to July 1, said Dr. Jirka, totaled 14,280, about 70 daily.

CITY EMPLOYES TO HAVE PAY CUT RESTORED OCT. 1

City employés will be returned to pre-depression pay levels on Oct. 1, when new licenses to be passed next week by the city council go into effect. This was indicated yesterday by Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th], chairman of the city council finance committee.

Money derived from the new taxes will not be used for pay increases this year, but will be allowed to accumulate for next year, Arvey said. Diversion of an estimated $750,000 from vehicle tax funds for use in payment of trafic policemen will release the necessary city funds for payment of the increased wages for the last quarter of the year.

"We will not run the city into the red by appropriating beyond our income," Arvey said. "By putting the new licenses into effect for the last quarter of this year we can set up a revenue gauge by which to set our appropriations in 1938, when, it is hoped, we will be able to keep up the higher pay level."

REVEALS HERO'S VICTIM AS CHIEF OF VICIOUS GANG

Slaying Marks End of Bo Go Outlaws.

BY MARCIA WINN.

While Lige Debowski was given a new chance for life after an operation in the County hospital yesterday, new facts concerning the public service he performed when he fatally wounded two bandits in a heroic battle ten days ago were brought to light by Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan.

Chief Sullivan said that one of the robbers, George Carson, alias Sharkey, whose pistol Debowski seized and turned upon him, was the chief of the last important outlaw gang in Chicago—the Bo Go gang.

Limited to Ex-Convicts.

Little has been published about the Bo Go gang. Chief Sullivan said its membership was limited to ex-convicts. A year ago its members were committing many depredations, Deserted headquarters of the Bo Go club, at 876 North Wells street, has "for rent" sign in window since slaying of leader by heroic chef.

mostly on the north side. Today, of its twelve jailbird members, two have been electrocuted, six are in the penitentiary, one is awaiting sentence, and Carson is dead. The remaining two are being sought for murder.

"It was the worst gang we've had in Chicago in many years," Chief Sullivan said.

The gang received its name from its headquarters, the Bo Go club, a shabby tavern at 876 North Wells street. Pete Fiorito, 35 years old, an ex-convict, operated it.

Rarely in Public Eye.

Pete was rarely in the public eye. He was in Joliet from 1921 to 1923 and from 1928 to 1935. He is back there now, beginning a life sentence as habitual criminal.

Last Nov. 8, Policeman Michael Toth was shot to death by two gunmen in a south side saloon. Frank [Doc] Whyte, 47, with a long criminal record, who had been paroled from Joliet a few months before the shooting, was sought as one of the slayers. So was Stanley Murawski, 37, with a prison record going back to 1916. He, too, was just out of Joliet.

"We knew they were connected with this Bo Go group," Chief Sullivan said, "so we began to watch the place.

Seized After Robbery.

"Our undercover men in the Bo Go club learned that Murawski and Pete were planning a mine pay roll robbery at Pana. After the robbery, Murawski was arrested in Nokomis, and quickly implicated Whyte in the Toth slaying. Both were convicted and electrocuted.

"Then we got Pete sentenced at Taylorville for life under the habitual criminal act for the mine robbery. He also confessed two robberies here.

"He told us of Charles Conroy, who was in on the mine robbery, and we found him in Detroit. He's in Taylorville now, awaiting sentence. He made a confession involving three more members of the gang. One of them, Joe Pasquale, was put in for life under the habitual crimiinal act."

Conroy, a tall, dark youth of 20 years, had been a bank robber since he was 15.

Conroy's confession, Chief Sullivan said, virtually cleaned up the Bo Go gang, with the exception of Carson —the chief.

An Old Time Gangster.

Carson had been known to the police as a criminal for two decades. He and Fiorito were together in the old near north side Gloriana gang in 1918 and 1919.

"He was wanted for murder at the time Debowski shot him," Chief Sullivan said.

Chief Sullivan isn't disclosing the names of the two members of the gang still at large. He's fairly certain, though, that they're not in the Bo Go club, for a large "For Rent" sign adorns it.

The operation on Debowski yesterday, performed after he had been given a new blood transfusion, was to correct a condition arising from the two bullet wounds in his abdomen.

INDIANA HEALTH CHIEF WARS ON GRETNA GREENS

Aids Fight for Midwest Hygienic Marriages.

Action was taken late this week which may result in shutting down Gretna Greens in Indiana, one of the two states whose lax marriage laws have severely hampered operation of Illinois' new hygienic statute. In Indianapolis Dr. Verne K. Harvey, secretary of the Indiana state board of health, announced that his department would investigate its authority to compel couples to submit to blood tests to determine whether or not they have venereal disease.

Thirty days have passed since Illinois' law went into effect and public health authorities of the middle west have recognized the necessity of uniform legislation in neighboring states if the object of the law—healthful marriages—is to be attained.

Wisconsin already has fallen into line and its new marriage license law requiring scientific blood tests of both bride and bridegroom to certify their freedom from venereal disease becomes effective today. Under Wisconsin's old law men alone were required to produce health certificates.

Two States Affect Illinois.

But in Iowa and Indiana the only restrictions are those of age. Licenses are denied only to minors.

There are encouraging signs, however. Dr. Harvey believes his department can prevent marriages where venereal disease is involved.

Indiana courts repeatedly have held that the health board has wide powers, and that its rulings virtually are laws. If such a ruling can be made it will expedite the control of Indiana's marriage mills. Legislative action cannot take place before 1939, the next session of legislature.

"I am of the opinion the board may require the blood tests without further legislation," said the doctor. "We will look into this immediately. If we can set up this requirement we will catch at least 90 per cent of the syphilis cases in the state."

Need for Control Acute.

From the viewpoint of Illinois authorities, the need for such immediate control is acute. It was pointed out here yesterday that since July 1, only 508 licenses have been issued in Cook county, while during July, 1936, there were 3,658.

"This does not mean that there has been a decrease in marriages among Chicago and Cook county couples," said County Clerk Michael J. Flynn yesterday. "It simply means that the young people, in order to evade the Illinois law, are skipping over state lines."

Crown Point, county seat of Lake county, which can be reached in a short motor drive from Chicago, is a favorite Indiana Gretna Green. Walter R. Mybeck, chief deputy clerk there, said yesterday that an average of sixty couples daily are obtaining licenses, most of them from Chicago or nearby Illinois towns. Last Saturday was a peak day and a total of 240 licenses were obtained.

They Swear 'Em, but——

Indiana law, Mybeck explained, provides that applicants for permission to wed must swear they are free from epilepsy, tuberculosis, venereal or other contagious diseases. They also must swear that they are not imbeciles, feeble-minded, idiots, or insane.

"We swear 'em," said Mybeck, "and that's all we can ask."

John Krost, one of Crown Point's three marrying squires, puts it another way.

"Chicago's loss is our gain," he beamed. "Anyway, not all our people are from Chicago. We get 'em from all over nowadays."

Iowa is less of a problem, for Chicago authorities at least. Clinton, 168 miles west and just across the Mississippi, is the closest point where marriage licenses may be obtained.

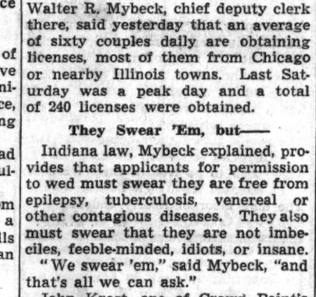
Favor Law in Iowa.

Here also authorities favor passage of a measure similar to Illinois' marriage measures.

"I wish we had a law like the one Illinois passed," said Dr. L. Bierring, Iowa health commissioner in Des Moines. "It is a good law. It is strictly a forward movement for the welfare of the race. It is our hope that the example of a neighboring state may bring action here."

Catholic Hospital Is Taken Over by Nazi Government

COBLENZ, Germany, July 30.—(AP)—A Catholic hospital in Waldbreitbach, from which all patients were removed by the government because of what it called immoral conditions, today became state property. The institution, declared bankrupt, was purchased by the state for an undisclosed price. Officials said it would reopen as a Nazi institution.



I think that folks come to TRIANGLES in the evenings and on Sunday because we make it pleasant for them; because it is cool; because the food is so good; because portions are generous; because prices are so fair and low; because our girls are so pleasant . . . . and oftentimes, because of our famous HAM and SWEETS.

WOMAN CHARGES NAZI PLOT; SUES TO TIE UP WEALTH

Mrs. Louise Krets Lehmann of New York City charged in a suit filed in the Circuit court here yesterday that because of her Jewish birth she was imprisoned in Germany by Nazi police, who deprived her of her wealth and are now detaining her husband, although he is not Jewish.

Mrs. Lehmann, a naturalized American citizen, born in Hungary, asks that Miss Florence Kranz, 1555 Dearborn parkway, daughter and heir of the late John M. Kranz, Chicago candy manufacturer, be restrained from paying a $20,000 annuity to Mrs. Lehmann's husband, Franz B., or to his alleged agents. Mr. Lehmann is senior partner in the New York firm of J. M. Lehmann company, Inc., subsidiary of the parent Lehmann concern in Dresden, Germany, machine and steel importers.

His first wife, the former Laura Kranz, Florence's sister, left him $1,000,000 when she died in Switzerland in 1927. According to the bill Lehmann turned over the estate to Miss Kranz in return for the $20,000 annuity. Mrs. Lehman seeks to tie up the annuity, the bill says, to protect her interest in her husband's estate and to guarantee return of her property valued at $32,000 which was seized by the German secret police. The bill does not explain why Lehmann is being held in Germany or why his wife was arrested.

MADISON ST. CARS CLIP 2 MINUTES FROM SCHEDULES

Auto Trafic Prevents Higher Speeds.

Running time for the new streamlined street cars on the seven and one-half mile long Madison street line will be reduced from an average of 37 minutes to 35 minutes on Monday. This was announced yesterday by Chicago Surface Lines officials.

Previous to the installation of the new cars on the line last spring the running time averaged 39 minutes. Although the new cars have a much speedier pick-up and are faster than the old type cars, they have been held by trafic congestion, according to H. O. Crews, publicity director for the street car company.

Necessary to Slow Down.

"Although the cars are capable of much more rapid service than the schedules call for, it has been necessary to go slow in increasing speeds owing to conditions on the street," yesterday's announcement said. "The greatest difficulty in operation has been the congestion of street trafic, particularly in the areas where the street has been narrowed down by double and single parking.

"Because of the quietness of the cars, considerable difficulty has resulted from the fact that motorists do not hear their approach and back out of parking spaces in front of the approaching cars and do not clear the track sufficiently to allow the cars to pass.

White Lines Painted.

"In an effort to remedy this situation the Surface lines has painted white lines on the pavement outside the tracks from the loop to the city limits, indicating the car clearance, so that motorists, by keeping outside the white lines, will always be clear of approaching cars.

The report said that the new cars have increased business on the Madison street line 13 per cent since they were installed. Four of the old type cars are being used to supplement 83 of the streamlined cars.

APPEALS PRISON TERM; RETRIAL VERDICT 'DEATH'

New York, July 30.—[Special.]—A jury in the Brooklyn Supreme court returned a first degree murder verdict tonight against Fred J. Hull for the killing of Samuel Drukman on March 3, 1935.

Hull faces a mandatory sentence of death. Eighteen months ago he was convicted of second degree murder for the same crime and sentenced to serve 20 years to life.

Hull appealed on the ground he was not represented by counsel of his own choosing during the first four days of the trial.

2 U. S. STUDENTS HELD IN POLAND FOR HIDING CASH

Freed on Bail After American Protest.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, July 30.—After being held for four days in an underground cell in the Gydnia police station, two American students enrolled in the Warsaw Academy of Music were transferred to better quarters today and later released on bail after energetic intervention by the American consul general, Thomas H. Bevan.

He flew from here to Gydnia, Poland's seaport, to protect the rights of the students. They are charged with trying to evade the country's strict currency regulations.

Walter Milewski of Milwaukee, Wis., and John Glowacki of Lodge, Mass., are the students. They were arrested eight miles off Gydnia harbor by a patrol boat which discovered that Milewski had concealed 60,000 zloties [about $11,400] in a pig's bladder.

Tells of Selling House.

Milewski told Bevan that while studying in Warsaw he inherited a house which he had sold with the aid of a Jewish agent for 100,000 zloties [about $19,000]. He declared he purchased a yacht to take a vacation and, not wishing to deposit the money in a Polish bank, took it with him.

Investigation revealed the agent informed the police, who had been shadowing the youths for several weeks.

The police having sequestered their belongings, Bevan assisted the prisoners in cabling relatives in America for money to enable them to obtain bail.

Ambassador Files Protest.

Anthony Drexel Biddle Jr., United States ambassador to Poland, visited the foreign office today to protest the action of the police.

Although the Polish government promised to notify the American embassy should American citizens be involved in trouble over valuta regulations, this is the fourth time American citizens have been arrested and held incommunicado for several days unable to appea. for aid to American authorities.

SEIZED AT SON'S BURIAL FOR BEING BACK IN ALIMONY

When Alfred E. St. Peter of Racine, Wis., attended the funeral of his son, Donald, 6 years old, in the Holy Rosary church in North Chicago yesterday he was arrested for being $919 in arrears in his $25 a month support payments for the boy. Donald was drowned Tuesday near his home in Long lake, where he had been living with his mother, now Mrs. Emily St. Peter Sylvan. She won a divorce from St. Peter three years ago.

Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady last February ordered St. Peter sent to jail for 30 days for being in arrears, but St. Peter escaped serving the sentence by remaining out of the state.

TATE ASSAILS STATE WITNESS IN CHASER TRIAL

Attorney Murphy O. Tate, on trial before Judge Peter M. Schwaba in the Criminal court charged with faking accident claims in personal injury cases, entered a general denial to the charge on the witness stand yesterday.

Tate declared that the chief state witness, George L. West, lied when he testified that Tate had told him to get out of town until the investigation had blown over. The lawyer said he had never solicited money from the Chicago Surface Lines on fake accident claims, and that he had withdrawn from the cases in question as soon as he learned the claims were not valid.

Richard J. Kruse, assistant superintendent of the Indiana state penitentiary at Michigan City, testified West had served sixty days on an Indiana prison farm for bootlegging and that his reputation was bad.

FASCINATION IN FURS

By CALEB

ON the second day of August begins our annual August Sale of Furs. I cannot see the beginning of this event any year without experiencing a lively, healthy palpitation of interest in what has made it possible.

"August Fur Sale!" What a trite and commonplace name for an event hung on the remote snow-frozen vastnesses of Siberia; the still and sombre wilds and woods of the Northwest; the ice-locked bays and streams of Labrador; and the Borealis-illuminated stretches of Alaskan waters!

There is for most people an abiding fascination in furs. Ever since John Cave-dweller flung a flashy tiger skin on the ground before his grateful mate some thousands of years ago, the hearts of women have beat faster in the presence and possession of fine furs.

Examine a bunch of tiny Persian Lamb skins, matched for a coat. Touch the curly, tightly compact fur. From remote lands through swarthy hands have come these lustrous skins. Mink is warm, and aristocratic, and brown, with an electrical softness no other fur possesses.

The long-haired sable is soft as down, but has a striking metallic sheen like burnished old jewelry. There is zest in the warm Safari brown or the rich black of Alaska seal. You can blow upon it in hopeless search to see leather between the parting close-packed hair.

There is something of distinction to the finest pelts—something of distinction which marks the thoroughbred of whatever the species.

Our furs are bought directly by us wherever in the world the best markets may be. We go in search of the best furs for whatever their prices, and we believe that's what we get. The stories of our fur purchases abound in details of interest. Soon, we will tell you in several articles about Silver Foxes.

Meanwhile I will go down to the Fur Salon Monday morning and see magnificent furs and fur garments. I will see the head of that section whom, for his eternal enthusiasm and singleness of purpose, we all know as "Field's for Furs." He will be—with the pride of a miser in a mint—reigning amidst a collection of the choicest furs—furs worthy of the name Field, and all the name means in quality assurance.

SEABURY GROUP SUBMITS FUSION SLATE FOR N. Y.

La Guardia Heads List of City Candidates.

New York, July 30.—[Special.]—The executive committee of the Citizens' Nonpartisan committee announced today the full list of its choice for various city offices, heading the list with Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia and supporting him with Joseph D. McGoldrick for controler and Newbold Morris for president of the council.

On these offices the committee's slate is identical with that of Kenneth F. Simpson, leader of the New York county Republicans.

Emphasis on Prosecutor.

In a statement which urged "all forces of fusion to unite in supporting these outstanding citizens," the committee, whose head is Samuel Seabury, laid special emphasis on the candidacy of William C. Chanler for district attorney, assailing the "shocking conditions under which the office has been administered under Tammany domination."

The selections apparently demonstrated the committee's willingness to go along with Simpson, who originally proposed McGoldrick and Morris for the offices. The mayor for a time refused to accept them, but yesterday surprised Simpson by announcing they were acceptable. Simpson immediately pledged support to the mayor and others on the slate.

Situation Made Uncertain.

The situation was made somewhat uncertain when it was learned from friends of the mayor that he does not intend to enter the Republican primary if it means a fight.

Meanwhile political observers expect that United States Representative Christopher D. Sullivan or Stephen A. Ruddy will be elected leader of Tammany Hall Monday, barring a last minute upset.

At that time the Tammany executive committee is expected to confirm the local slate which was favored by the late leader, James J. Dooling.

SEIZE ATTACKER OF GIRL, 9, HELD PRISONER IN FLAT

Thomas Zielinski, 28 years old, was arrested by the Maxwell street police yesterday after he took indecent liberties with a 9 year old girl while holding her prisoner for five hours in his flat at 1839 South Loomis street. A group of neighbors gathered and muttered threats against Zielinski as the girl was being taken from the flat.

The girl, who lives in a adjacent building, told the police that Zielinski sent her to buy him some cigarets and on her return locked the door and attacked her. She was seen through the open window of the first floor flat by Mary Janeck, 16 years old, a neighbor.

The Janeck girl summoned the child's mother, who climbed through the window and rescued her daughter. Zielinski, who was intoxicated, admitted the attack and was taken to the sex offense bureau of the state's attorney's office for questioning. His victim was removed to the County hospital, where it was said her condition is serious.

IT'S CIRCUS TIME AGAIN, FOLKS! BIG TOP HERE TODAY

It's here, again. Step right up, folks, for the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus, billed as the greatest show on earth, which opens this afternoon on the lake front east of Soldiers' field, presenting performances twice daily to Aug. 8.

Four long steel railroad trains of 100 double length cars were scheduled to rumble into town at dawn today, disgorging the actors and trappings of the circus. By noon the big top, a huge tent seating 16,000 spectators, was scheduled to be in place.

Headlining a spectacle called India, the circus, according to its press agent, presents 1,600 actors, seven herds of elephants, African pygmy elephants, East Indian pongurs, the world's smallest beast of burden; 1,000 menagerie animals, and 700 ring and draft horses. There are seven rings and stages under the big tent.

POLICEMAN SAYS HE LENT AUTO ON NIGHT OF KILLING

New York, July 30.—[Special.]—A New York City policeman has admitted he was "more than casually" friendly with Irma Louise Pradier, French maid, whose murder on July 19 has mystified detectives. That was learned today.

This policeman is said to have told his superiors he introduced a man to her and he lent his own automobile to that man on the night Miss Pradier was shot to death.

On the day Miss Pradier was killed, a man driving a pea green sedan had driven her to the Grand Central terminal, according to a taxi driver who transported her baggage to the station. She had told fellow employés in Mount Sinai hospital she was leaving for Los Angeles to marry a policeman and her trunk and two bags were shipped to Los Angeles.

400 Taverns Are Closed; Fail to Get New Licenses

More than 400 taverns have been closed in the last two days for not getting their city licenses for the last half of the year, Police Commissioner James P. Allman announced yesterday. Several reopened after obtaining licenses. During the first six months licenses were issued for 9,270 taverns, said William P. Geis, chief clerk in the office of City Collector Louis Rixman. Licenses for the last half of the year have been issued to 9,130, many of them new.

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

Can you remember 'way back when they called them mouth organs? And what music you could make with them!

Now the mouth organ is known as the harmonica, and those who play it are called artists, are presented before kings and render such high falutin' tunes as Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue."

Another Scheduled.

Last summer a harmonica contest was added to the Chicagoland Music Festival competitions, and it proved so popular that another is scheduled, the winner to play before 100,000 people at the festival concert in Soldiers' field on Saturday night, Aug. 21.

The Chromonica Institute of Chicago, of which Harry K. Meech is director, has entered six students in the contest. They are:

ROBERT HOOKER, 16, of 11211 South Western avenue, winner of the city-wide Y. M. C. A. artist division contest held at the Ridge park fieldhouse.

EARL MARLOWE, 16, of 11261 Homewood avenue, second place.

HENRY COGLIANESE, 17, of 8668 Vincennes avenue, third place.

HOWARD FLORENCE JR., 16, of 9420 Clifton Park, Evergreen Park, fourth place.

WARREN CLAUSSEN, 18, of 9858 Hoyne avenue, first place winner in concert division.

EDWARL MILLER, 18, of 1935 West 102d street, second place in the concert division.

Other contestants already entered are Harriet Entler, 17, of 6632 South Bell avenue, and Maurice A. Britt, 24, of Clinton, Ia. The Cook county contest will be held Thursday, Aug. 19, at 7 p. m., in the grand ballroom of the Drake hotel. The finals for Chicagoland will be held on the festival morning in the Medinah club.

Medals for Winners.

Gold, silver, and bronze medals will be awarded the first, second, and third place winners, respectively, by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., sponsors of the festival. Entry blanks may be obtained by writing or calling at the festival headquarters, room 1418, in Tribune Tower. The deadline for entrance is 6 p. m., Aug. 9.

ALFREDO CODONA SHOOTS EX-WIFE AND KILLS SELF

Famed Aerialist with Circus for Years.

ward, a Spaniard, was known far and wide as the acrobat who "flew through the air with the greatest of ease" in evening clothes.

His mother, Adelaide Codona, a Mexican, was a famous somersault bareback rider in the early days with P. T. Barnum. She also was one of the first women to work on the flying trapeze. Both Codona's parents are dead.

Brother a Performer.

His sister, Victoria, who is married and retired from circus life, was a famous slack wire performer. His brother, Lalo, now heads the "Flying Codona" troupe which is touring Europe.

In 1928 Alfredo, the preëminent male star of the "sawdust circle," married Lillian Leitzel, aerial queen of her day. It was considered the greatest of all circus romances.

But tragedy struck after three years. In February, 1931, Miss Leitzel was injured fatally when an iron ring snapped during her performance in a Copenhagen theater.

Protégée of Miss Leitzel.

Vera Bruce had been an equestrienne and protégé of Miss Leitzel. The woman star induced Codona to put Vera in his troupe. After Miss Leitzel died, Vera replaced her on the high trapeze. On Sept. 18, 1932, Codona and Vera were married at San Antonio, Tex.

Mrs. Codona also had been reared in the circus. She is the daughter of Australian parents, who were famous performers. Her brother, Clarence Bruce, is a star with the Rieffenach bareback troupe of the Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey circus. He married Rose Rieffenach, a member of the troupe.

The great Codona thrilled his last audience in New York's Madison Square Garden in April, 1933, when he tore shoulder ligaments as his brother caught him at the end of a leap. For months he worked to make a comeback, but his shoulder proved undependable for strenuous trapeze work.

Tries to Mend Shoulder.

He came to Long Beach, where he and Mrs. Codona lived while he tried without success to get his shoulder in shape.

This spring Mrs. Codona decided to return to the circus. She joined her brother in the Rieffenach troupe. After a month of performing she returned here for a divorce.

To lose his wife to the "big top" which he never would grace again was galling. Codona bore his misery as long as he could. Then he paid his last visit today to the woman he could not have.

PRICE OF MILK IN CITY GOES UP 1C TOMORROW

An increase of 1 cent in the retail price of milk in Chicago and suburbs, from 12 to 13 cents a quart, goes into effect tomorrow morning. The increase was announced yesterday by members of the Associated Milk Dealers, representing 115 large dealers in the city and suburbs.

This price change was forecast last week when the dealers reached an agreement with the Pure Milk association, representing 14,500 dairy farmers in Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin, for an increase of 25 cents a hundred pounds [46½ quarts] in the bonus over the market price of milk sold to processors.

H. G. ZANDER JR. QUITS AS STATE HOLC MANAGER

The resignation of Henry G. Zander Jr. as state manager of the Home Owners' Loan corporation, was announced yesterday at Washington. Mr. Zander, whose resignation becomes effective tomorrow, will be succeeded by Frederick B. Bourland of Peoria, who has been state appraiser for the HOLC since Aug. 1, 1934.

Mr. Zander resigned to reënter the real estate firm of his father and brother, Karl M. Zander. He has been state director since February, 1934. During that time the state HOLC handled 127,000 applications, granting 70,000 loans totaling $280,000,000.

After the deadline on loans Mr. Zander began organizing machinery to collect funds due monthly. More than 5,000 foreclosure suits were instituted, and he was made receiver, serving without pay, in 3,000 cases.

BATTLE OF CORN TO RAGE TODAY AT DES MOINES

Des Moines, Ia., July 30.—[Special.]—The question whether the tall corn of this state is two feet taller than the best that Wisconsin can produce is to be settled here tomorrow. The challenge was made by Gov. Nelson Kraschel and accepted by Gov. Philip La Follette.

Wisconsin corn will be shown here tomorrow and it is said to be 13 feet tall. In addition, there will be decorated Wisconsin trucks with fish, dairy products, and summer resort exhibits, to make up for the fact that an Iowan claims the raising of 18 foot corn.

The Iowa governor has bet a dinner on the Iowa corn's reputation. Gov. La Follette will make a speech to a Farmer-Labor rally.

Hero in Novel Is a Rogue of Victoria's Day

Long Adventure Tale Told by Vaughan Wilkins.

"And So—Victoria," by Vaughan Wilkins. [Macmillan, $2.50.] Published Tuesday.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

EXPECTING for it the same immediate public huzzahs that greeted "Gone With the Wind" a year ago, Macmillan's has just published its "big" fall novel, with the intriguing title "And So—Victoria." That title deals with England's most prolific queen, but in a period when it was more than doubtful that she ever would be queen or even reach maturity. Indeed, the book's first adventure is concerned with a little boy caught red handed clutching a pistol just as the fat baby Vicky and her equally rotund nurse have been sniped at. The story ends with the unmasking of the wicked duke of Cumberland and history supplies the sequel, and so Victoria.

Vaughan Wilkins.

The queen does not appear in any other of those gaudy, picaresque pages which are concerned with a lesser member of the Hanoverian family which supplied England with so many debauches, so many debts, so many dire events.

Like the heroes of all popular picaresque tales the hero of "And So—Victoria" is a lad of mystery whom fate bats around from mire to millions. There is scarcely an adventure possible to the period [or to any other] that some time or other Christopher does not have.

Terrified because he is caught with a gun which he did not shoot, the little hero runs away as the book opens. He finds himself sold as a chimney sweep, thrown in with a wagon load of urchins, a party to a murder, and, at the age of nine, condemned to die on the gallows.

From that ropy death he is miraculously rescued, becomes the child favorite of the queen of England and is in the thick of political intrigue for some 600 exciting pages. There are amatory intrigues [vicarious], with duels and the sweet revenge of a great man who slits the eye balls of the gentleman he found disgracing h[illegible] honor.

"And So—Victoria" is a good story, and Mr. Wilkins sticks to it—but it carries little more real conviction than a pretty brunette's assertion that "gentlemen prefer blondes."

This Story Stands Out for Own Individuality.

"The Anointed," by Clyde Brion Davis. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50.] Published Thursday. Selection of the Discoverers. Joint August selection of the Book of the Month club.

"The Anointed" is as truly a book of its own sort as was "Of Mice and Men," and both of them are written in a vernacular as much a part of their characters as a whiff of garlic is a part of a good Italian dinner.

"The Anointed" is a strange mixture of adventure of the most exciting sort and of contemplation about what's the use of everything.

The man who tells the tale ran away as a boy—14 in years, 6 feet in height—from his grandfather's Arkansas farm. For the years of the narrative, fifteen odd, he sailed the seven seas, learning not only to be a navigator but to navigate himself.

He helped throw some Mexican sailors into the sea and was clamped into a Mexican prison in Vera Cruz. He started thinking there. He saw a dying consumptive tramp shot down in cold blood because he had the courage to call a cheat by his right name, and that made him think a lot about what bravery really was. He saw a navy captain in Hongkong disgrace himself and that got him to thinking about what makes people such.

He was mistaken for Jesus Christ by some simple Brittany sailors, and he fell in love with a Brittany girl and nearly settled down in comfortable sabots for the rest of his life. But by that time he had the idea that God had some sort of plan for his life and he kept to that idea, even when he was shipwrecked and floated for a week in an open boat on the sea before being rescued.

The reader has a tremulous fear that the mysterious Black ocean that the hero is always talking about exploring may actually get explored in the pages, but as the book closes on its pastoral note there is no little irony in the future that it portends.

"We Cover the World," by sixteen foreign correspondents, edited by Eugene Lyons. [Harcourt-Brace, $3.]

Geographically this first correspondents' omnibus ranges from Berlin to Addis Ababa, from Tokio to Paris, from Persia to Mexico. It contains such distinguished "by-lines" as those of George Seldes, Negley Farson, William Henry Chamberlin, Junius B. Wood, Hallett Abend and Webb Miller.

The tone and the quality of the contributions are just as varied. There is Webb Miller's graphic account of the Spanish rebels' advance to the rescue of Toledo's Alcazar, and there is Chamberlin's rather studious account of the gradual transformation of his opinions once he was brought face to face with soviet Russia.

William Allen White's Editorials and Views.

"Forty Years on Main Street," by William Allen White. [Farrar & Rinehart, $3.]

Job probably would have turned his face to the wall and died if he had been forced to read all the brash sayings of his youth. William Allen White, editor of the Emporia [Kas.] Gazette, consoles himself with this thought in a series of footnotes to his editorials collected under the title, "Forty Years on Main Street."

By means of the footnotes Mr. White makes amends for some of his writing that he now regards as brash. He is ashamed that he called William Jennings Bryan a shallow fellow and Eugene Debs a stupid charlatan. He regrets his flag waving editorials during the Spanish-American and world wars. But he is proud to bursting that he lost his heart to Theodore Roosevelt and that he has fanned the flame of many progressive movements.

Mr. White is no cracker barrel philosopher, hillbilly humorist, or windy sermonizer. He writes with clarity, discernment and good sense. His career is a cogent answer to the declaration that the day of the influential editorial has long passed.

Radio Drama Written in Unrhymed Verse.

"The Fall of the City," by Archibald MacLeish. [Farrar & Rinehart, $.50.]

Archibald MacLeish, who has led his muse courageously into verse plays, historical epics, and ballet, ventures with this short drama into writing for the radio. In a preface which is quite as important as his play he claims the radio as a peculiarly grateful medium for the poet, since over the air the "word excited imagination" is all important, and drama is freed from the contradictions which the eye sees between its message and its interpreters. Radio's device of the announcer Mr. MacLeish finds especially convenient for the playwright.

His play, in unrhymed verse, is frankly derived from the Greek classics, but its symbolism of the conqueror who takes the city and is then revealed as an empty suit of armor has a modern implication, for as the announcer whispers:

The people invent their oppressors; they wish to believe in them.
They wish to be free of their freedom; released from their liberty:
The long labor of liberty ended!

Story of U. S. Society Traced in Witty Book

Minute Bits Drawn from Contemporary Records.

"The Saga of American Society," by Dixon Wecter. [Scribners, $4] Published yesterday.

THIS long, documented history of "social aspiration," which tells the story of American society from 1607 to 1937, written with the attitude of a scientist interested in the home life of bugs, is as revealing and amusing as a comic strip.

Interspersed with the assemblage of facts are quips and quirks, most of them from contemporary writers or commentators, which were regarded as profound when they were pronounced, but which time has given a fine patina of the grotesque.

Mr. Wecter states frankly that "In America . . . almost all the great fortunes sprang from trade," and names names and dates.

He has written a history of the United States from a novel point of view, but no less a true and vivid history. And the histories of great nations have been made as often in drawing rooms and at dinner tables as in congresses and on battlefields.

"The Saga of American Society" is written with real wit. It is a mosaic of minute bits from contemporary records. It is gossip raised to the level of social [in a broad sense] criticism.

Chicago society comes in for a wallop or two, but no such upper cuts as time and Mr. Wecter have dealt New York society.

"The paradise of parvenus is Chicago," he declares. ". . . The name of its long-fashionable district, the Gold Coast, is significant."

He ends his book with a commentary on the self-justifications of society in America which are, he says, none too impressive.

"It has bought Old Masters, but fed few living artists," he writes. "Its tastes in music and opera have been both timid and grandiose, and its patronage of literature has been negligible. Unhappily it forsook politics more than a century ago, though for reasons not wholly unselfish it longs just now to return. With generosity it has sometimes given to charity and education, though it has wasted other great sums in foolish ways. . . .

"In all these ways American society has shown characteristic shortsightedness. A favored minority, which nourished well the arts and good works, gives hostages for its own safety; one which slights them for selfish ends . . . loses its compass of idealism and invites disaster."

POLICE STATION'S DOORS BOLTED AS C. I. O. MOB RIOTS

Pickets Stage Sit Strike on Trolley Tracks.

New York, July 30.—[Special.]—A shouting mob of 2,000 C. I. O. strike pickets from a shipyard held a sit-down strike on the trolley tracks outside the Hamilton avenue police station in Brooklyn late today when they went to the station to protest against the arrest of severa of their number in a clash with police.

Men, women, and children joined in the trolley track sitdown that paralyzed trafic, while police hurriedly locked the doors and windows of the station and placed a heavy guard around the building.

Squads of policemen bodily lifted strikers from the trolley tracks. Women screamed and fought. As fast as the police cleared the tracks in one spot the strikers swarmed back to block another area.

Trouble Starts at Drydock.

The trouble started at the Robins Drydock company plant, where a strike of both skilled and unskilled workers has been in progress for more than seven weeks. The skilled workmen include riveters, plate layers, and draftsmen.

When the whistle blew for quitting time at the dock, there were 200 patrolmen, 25 mounted policemen, 20 motorcycle policemen, and 4 squad cars on duty at the plant entrance. The police tried to make an opening in the picket lines to afford an exit for 150 automobiles carrying loyal workers out of the plant.

Waving an American flag, two strikers rushed forward and closed the breach, stopping five automobiles loaded with workers.

Policemen Move Forward.

Mounted policemen moved forward, and when the strike pickets began to shout, a police horse bolted and knocked a patrolman from his motorcycle, injuring him. Another policeman was struck by a stone, and a restaurant's plate glass window was shattered. The two men with the flag and five other pickets were arrested.

The strikers held a meeting on a vacant lot in front of the plant and decided to march to Hamilton avenue station to aid those arrested. The demonstration at the police station followed.

MICHIGAN SENATE JUNKS MURPHY'S PROPOSAL; QUITS

Lansing, Mich., July 30.—(AP)—A rebellious state senate tossed the program Gov. Frank Murphy had mapped for a special session to the four winds tonight and adjourned amid fisticuffs.

Senator James Burns, Democrat, who fought adjournment to the end and insisted the governor's labor relations bill must be enacted, capped the climax with an attack on Senator William Palmer, administration floor leader and one of two Democrats supporting the Republican sponsored adjournment resolution.

Burns walked across the chamber and struck Palmer a blow in the face. When other members intervened Burns ran from the scene.

The two houses of the legislature were so far apart on the labor measure that there appeared no chance of agreement.

Ending of the special session left rural electrification, a teachers' tenure bill, a measure providing maximum hours and minimum wages, a proposed administration finance department, and unemployment compensation unconsidered.

PRESIDENT SAILS WITH GUESTS ON POTOMAC CRUISE

Washington, D. C., July 30.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt boarded the presidential yacht Potomac at the Washington navy yard tonight for a week-end cruise.

His guests are Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Josephine Roche, Senator Theodore F. Green of Rhode Island, and Miss Marguerite LeHand, his personal secretary.

Mr. Roosevelt will land at the marine barracks at Quantico, Va., Sunday to deliver an international broadcast to France in connection with the dedication of American war memorials.

Panhandler, 9, Cleans Up $12 Day; Then Come Cops

Police yesterday halted the profitable panhandling career of Frank McCarthy, 9 years old, 3246 Grenshaw street, after he had collected $12 in the neighborhood of Madison street and Kedzie avenue. The boy said he was forced to beg by his father, Cornelius McCarthy. Police found this was untrue. Frank's parents said he was in the habit of running away and they could do nothing with him.

PERMIT IS GRANTED TO JIMMY MATTERN FOR MOSCOW FLIGHT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 30.—[Special.]—A conditional permit was granted by the department of commerce today to James Mattern, noted aviator, for a proposed flight from the United States to Moscow by way of the north pole for next spring.

Last week during agitation over the issuance of a license to Amelia Earhart for the around the world flight, which ended in disaster in the Pacific ocean, the department refused a permit to Mattern for a flight this year. The flyer planned to reverse the route twice flown successfully by soviet pilots. He came here to plead his own case.

The court also granted Mrs. Le Normand permission to resume her former name, Baroness von Maydell, a Russian title she gave up in marrying the chef. Her attorney was Irving R. Norman.

Married five years ago when she was 15 years old, Mrs. Ethel A. Colwell, 3908 Dakin street, was granted a divorce yesterday by Judge Joseph B. David from David Colwell, a butcher. Questioned by her attorney, Harry X. Cole, Mrs. Colwell said the only time her husband ever took her for an automobile ride he left her and their two sons, Douglas, 4, and Allen, 2, at her mother's home in 1935 and never came back. She was granted $8 a week.

AMERICAN RABBI FIGHTS HOLY LAND SPLIT AT GENEVA

Stephen Wise Voices Views on Plan.

GENEVA, July 30.—(AP)—Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York stated the opposition of American Jewish leaders to Great Britain's plan to partition Palestine in a long talk today with William G. A. Ormsby-Gore, British colonial secretary.

Ormsby-Gore was in Geneva to present the British plan for establishment of independent Jewish and Arab states and a British mandate in part of the Holy Land to the permanent mandates commission of the league of nations. Britain now governs Palestine under a league mandate and league approval is necessary for any change.

Britain Agreeable to Delay.

In a long statement of British policy in the private afternoon session of the commission, Ormsby-Gore indicated he would not press for an immediate decision. Some authorities suggested that Britain merely propose the plan in order to force Arabs and Jews to find their own solution.

A delegation from the Arab supreme council submitted a memorandum to the commission blaming the British and the Jews for disturbances in Palestine. It vigorously opposed partition.

A second Arab representative, member of a prominent Jerusalem family, arrived and announced he would support the partition plan. He was believed to be a supporter of the emir of Transjordan, who would be political leader of the proposed Arab state.

Recalls Balfour Declaration.

"Many Jews are begulled by the glitter of sovereignty, but this is no more than a by-product of the despair anti-Semitism has evoked in Jewish life," Rabbi Wise said after his talk with Ormsby-Gore. "We cannot prejudge the Jewish future by giving our signature to a document which creates a Jewish state that will be little more than a mournful, minature reminder of the Balfour declaration and the British mandate over Palestine."

[By the Balfour declaration of 1917 the British government pledged its "best endeavors" to achieve the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people.]

The Italian chairman of the mandates commission, the Marquis Alberto Theodoli, did not appear. It was believed the Italian government was continuing its protest against the league's action on Ethiopia.

CIVIL LIBERTIES REPORT ON STEEL RIOT IS ASSAILED

Senate Group Accused by Rep. Hoffman.

Flint, Mich., July 30.—[Special.]—United States Representative Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.] charged in a speech here today that the senate civil liberties committee "deliberately and maliciously failed to spread upon the record the true happenings at Chicago when John L. Lewis' organizers sent ten of their dupes to their deaths" at the Republic Steel company riot.

Hoffman said the committee, whose intended purpose was to protect the civil liberties of those unable to protect themselves, has been used by its chairman, Senator Robert M. La Follette [Rad., Wis.] "to vent his spleen against those who have provided the jobs for workers."

"The latest and perhaps the most flagrant exhibition of the shyster methods and disreputable procedure of this committee," Hoffman said, "was its failure to bring out the full story of what happened at Chicago.

"La Follette knew, as he must have known, that the operator who had taken motion pictures of the Chicago riot had pictures showing the battle grew out of an assault upon the police. But he deliberately and maliciously failed to spread these facts upon the record."

ASSAILS LABOR BOARD

Washington, July 30.—(AP)—Representative John E. Rankin [D., Miss.] declared today that "outrages" perpetrated by representatives of the national labor relations board are threatening to wreck the Roosevelt administration.

Taking issue with President Roosevelt's recent statement that the board has been fair to both capital and labor, Representative Rankin declared the President evidently had been misinformed.

The Mississippian expressed belief that Mr. Roosevelt would "call a halt" if he knew the facts. The facts are, he declared, that outrages have been committed by board agents in conjunction with communistic influences; that small manufacturers now are being subjected to "inquisitions," and that brutal treatment has been meted out to citizens by "this unholy combination" under the pretense that it has administration backing.

Representative Rankin told the house that within the last 36 hours he has received protests against labor board activities from every state in the Union. Board representatives, he said, are promoting strikes in the south.

If the board's activities are not checked, and the wage and hour bill now before the senate is passed in its present form and upheld by the Supreme court, it probably will mean "the end of human liberty as we know it," the Mississippian contended.

He appealed to southern and western senators to shelve the wage and hour measure until the next session of congress "or until it can be more thoroughly studied."

SAFETY DEVICES APPROVED FOR RAIL CROSSINGS

Cutting red tape, the Illinois commerce commission yesterday granted the requests of several railroads for permission to install modern safety devices at various grade crossings in Cook county. The safeguards are expected to reduce accidents.

The Illinois Central system will put up flashing light signals at Burr Oak avenue and Lincoln street, Winchester avenue, Division and Orar streets, Walnut street, and State and Union streets in Blue Island; Union avenue, Emerald avenue, and Wood and 126th streets in Chicago; and Honore street and Ashland avenue in Calumet Park.

The Milwaukee road will modernize gates and install three electric lights at Erie street in Chicago. The Pennsylvania will put up flashing lights at East 87th street. The Rapid Transit [elevated] lines was authorized to improve protection at 47th avenue and at 59th court in Cicero, and at Kilbourn avenue in Chicago.

GETS 30 DAY JAIL TERM FOR GIVING WHISKY TO BOY, 10

Leonard Winzer, 34 years old, 845 Wolfram street, was sentenced to serve 30 days in the Bridewell and fined $50 by Judge Francis Borrelli in Safety court yesterday after he was accused of giving whisky to his 10 year old stepson in a saloon. Sentence was imposed on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

The boy, Kenneth Wimer, stood on a table in front of Judge Borrelli's bench and tried to help his father by testifying that he drank only a sip of whisky in the saloon, operated by Miss Mitzi Bunk at 1229 Belmont avenue. Bernard Lewis, 24, of 1519 Adams street, who was with Winzer, was fined $5.

SHIP FIRE TOLL 2 DEAD, 2 LOST; HINT SABOTAGE

89 of 93 Aboard Saved by Rescue Craft.

Baltimore, Md., July 30.—[Special.]—Sabotage in the City of Baltimore steamship fire was suggested by the ship's captain today as a two phase inquiry was launched into the fire which killed two, left two missing, and injured six.

It was considered remarkable, in view of the terrific flames which burned the big ship to the water's edge last night, that the death list was held to four. Quick action by a flotilla of rescue craft was given credit for saving 89 of the 93 persons who were aboard.

Cites Rapid Spread of Fire.

Capt. Charles O. Brooks, a veteran of 35 years in the Norfolk-Baltimore service and master of the ill fated bay liner, declared that the "amazing" spread of the fire suggested sabotage to him.

He said he had no reason for his suspicions except the speed of the fire in its spread, and emphasized that he did not hold to sabotage as "my theory."

"I wouldn't even think of sabotage as a theory under ordinary circumstances, but the idea has been running through my head," he said.

Believe Missing Pair Dead.

The two persons known dead as a result of the fire which broke out in the hold an hour after the ship sailed were J. R. Polikoff, a lawyer of Aiken, S. C., who was a passenger, and Charles Whealton of Crisfield, Md., a member of the crew.

The two missing and believed dead are H. Paige, a passenger whose address was not known, and Cy Haynie, an oiler on the boat.

7,000 GUARDSMEN MOBILIZE TODAY AT CAMP GRANT

About 7,000 troops of the 33d division, Illinois National Guard, began moving toward Camp Grant by truck and train shortly after midnight this morning and will be mobilized there today for two weeks' intensive field training.

The training program this year, said Roy D. Keehn, commander of the division, will emphasize march discipline, truck movements, bivouacking, security of march on overnight maneuvers, defense against aircraft, and defense against gas and armored cars. There will also be special schools for officers and noncommissioned officers.

Gov. Horner will be the guest of the guard on Aug. 8, Governor's day. While in training the guard will reherse for the military show which the division will present in Soldiers' field on Aug. 14 and 15.

McCallum gave his address as 9151 Commercial avenue.

AUTO KILLS TWO BOYS ON BICYCLE NEAR AURORA

Victims Hit as They Ride Home from Ball Game.

Two boys riding on a bicycle near Aurora were killed by an automobile last night. They were Paul Belmonte, 18 years old, 831 Bowditch avenue, and Mathew Viola, 15, of 850 East Lake street, both of Aurora.

They were returning from a night baseball game on Belmonte's bicycle, and going north in Route 34, one mile south of Aurora, when they were .t by a north bound car driven by Oliver Stevens, 30, of 736 Superior street, Aurora. Police said the bicycle had no lights.

Bert Schotanus, 68 years old, a flagman for the North Shore railroad, was seriously injured last night when he was struck by an automobile at the Foss Park avenue crossing in North Chicago in a collision involving a North Shore train and two automobiles.

Schotanus was on the west side of the tracks attempting to wave back an automobile which was approaching from the east. As the car moved across the track it was hit by a northbound North Shore train which was coming to a stop. The automobile was pushed against Schotanus by the train, knocking him down. The auto then crashed into another car which had stopped west of the tracks.

Car Occupants Uninjured.

Harold Shorman, 19 years old, 545 Archer avenue, Waukegan, driver of the car which hit Schotanus, was taken to the North Chicago police station. He and the driver of the other car, Benedict Laurent, 1112 Hickory street, Waukegan, were uninjured. Schotanus, who lives in Libertyville, was taken to St. Therese hospital in Waukegan.

Robert Zanzig, 24 years old, of Bradley, was fatally injured early yesterday when his automobile crashed into the rear of a truck on Governor's highway [route 49], a mile north of the Cook-Will county line. Zanzig died en route to St. Joseph's hospital in Chicago Heights.

Auto Victim Dies.

Albert Forster, 33 years old, 1842 Euclid avenue, Chicago Heights, died yesterday in St. James hospital, Chicago Heights, of injuries suffered on Thursday when he was run down by an automobile at 27th street and Chicago road, South Chicago Heights. The driver was Mrs. Emilia Kmaack, 3543 Sangamon street, Steger.

Philip Gluszek, 49 years old, 4845 Throop street, a stockyards employé, was killed last night at Racine avenue and 49th street by an automobile driven by Adam Olesky, 21, of 5921 South Racine avenue, also a stockyards employé.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of manslaughter by an unknown person at the inquest into the death of James Zetek, 15 years old, 5732 Elston avenue, who was killed Thursday by a hit and run car at Milwaukee and Parkside avenues.

On June 30 the state legislature, because of a patronage feud, missed its last chance to enact a drivers' license law which has reduced motor accidents in some states. Since then up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 61 persons have been killed and 2,032 injured in automobile accidents in Chicago. Since Jan. 1 trafic accidents have killed 590 persons in Cook county, including 460 in Chicago, according to the coroner's office. During the same period 12,676 have been injured in auto accidents in the city.

THE ASIATIC FRONT.

Chiang Kai-shek made a statement to the Chinese people saying that the present situation is not accidental, but has a long history revealing the expanding Japanese invasion and political pressure. A temporary settlement of the causes of the war—the war which is not a war—in the Peiping and Tientsin region, would be of no avail because Japan merely uses one settlement as a springboard for a further jump into Chinese territory.

The decisions of China's authorities frequently change over night, but the Chinese generalissimo has a reputation to sustain and he has been working on a well balanced program of national defense. He probably has not yet arrived at a point where he would willingly meet Japan for a final test.

If allowed to, he might delay the attempt at a settlement until his army had a longer period of training, until it had been better equipped and had been raised to greater numbers. It may be also that Japan is aware that time runs against it and not for it and puts the pressure on at this moment because its government thinks no other time will be so favorable.

Russia cannot be left out of speculation, although its internal affairs are extraordinarily bad. By execution it has lost the best generals in the Red army and the high command is in the hands of a man not regarded as a good soldier. One significant fact must be recalled, however. For about ten years the Chinese government has been beset by the communists of the interior. They have possession of or at times have overrun three or four provinces. Although they have been frequently described as disorderly mobs and gangs of bandits, they have had better military organization than those terms would indicate and they have been receiving soviet support.

Recently the Moscow government switched from a policy of aggression against Chiang Kai-shek and made a truce, if not a treaty, with him for the preservation of China against the Fascist aggression of Japan. This switch of purpose had a preamble and a precedent in Spain and seemed to be undeniably wise policy on Russia's part.

Moscow stood to gain nothing if a communist attack on China on one front made it wholly impossible for the Chinese to offer any sort of unified opposition to the increasing Japanese aggression.

The conflict in the north may be settled by the old sort of a temporizing agreement, although the Japanese government says that temporizing measures are of no value and the Chinese government says that it is prepared now to resist. Russia has given aid to the Spanish government with infinitly less cause than it finds in China. The help it could give to the Chinese generalissimo is already on the Chinese border. This aid would be formidable and it may even be determinative. Both in Japan and Russia another war is regarded as inevitable and if Russia is not demoralized militarily by the purge of its army one would be inclined to think that the hour to strike had struck.

MR. FARLEY'S BOOKS.

At this writing Attorney General Cummings has not yet replied to the letter he received the other day from Representative Snell. Mr. Snell wanted to know if the book-selling campaign directed by Mr. Farley is in violation of the corrupt practices act. The letter was intended to put Mr. Cummings in a spot. If he says yes he is left to explain why the department of justice has done nothing about it. If he says no he may make himself ridiculous.

The law says that corporations may not contribute to party funds. The reasons for the law are obvious. The support of political parties is the privilege of citizens. Corporations are persons in the eyes of the law, but they are not citizens and they do not vote. A corporate contribution represents an enforced payment by stockholders to a political cause which many of them may not approve.

When a corporation contributes to a campaign fund and particularly when a corporation is invited to make such a contribution there is a fair presumption of skullduggery. Maybe somebody whose name would be an embarrassment to the party is hiding behind a corporate name. Maybe the corporation wants some more government business or wants to keep what it already has. Maybe the party in power is shaking down businesses with threats of revenge if they don't come across. A good many such conjectures can be made and all of them establish the wisdom of the law as it stands.

What is known of the Farley book business is not reassuring. The article sold is the 1936 campaign souvenir book of the Democratic party. It would be expensive at $5 a copy. It bears on the title page the autograph of the President. Autographs of Mr. Roosevelt are not rare. Book and autograph together may be worth $25 at a liberal estimate. Probably there is not a canny second-hand book dealer in the country who would bid half that much for a copy, yet this is the article which Mr. Farley is peddling to corporations and individuals at $250 the copy and hundreds of customers have been found.

A glance at the list of takers is enlightening. Some of them are earnest Democrats. Some of them are a little less earnest Democrats. Many of them are very earnest Republicans. A lot of them are in the steel business, the utility business, the grain business, and other enterprises which are living in fear of government reprisals. Still others have government contracts. Still others would like to get government contracts.

The Democrats in congress have thus far refused to authorize an investigation of the matter. They do not want to make any more trouble for themselves than they already have. They discern no great wave of popular indignation sweeping the country in demand for an inquiry.

The absence of popular indignation—if it is a fact—should alarm Democratic leaders. The present administration came to power with a pledge to drive the money changers from the temple. Now the country knows that the priests in the temple are themselves engaging in the racket. If the public accepts that knowledge calmly the inference is unmistakable that the voters have long since discounted the Democratic claim to moral eminence as political hooey. A clever maker of campaign slogans cribbed a line from the Bible to deceive the voters. Now they have his number.

ADJOURN!

With the sentiment widely growing for congress to close up shop at the earliest possible moment, the President called three party leaders to the White House and handed them a list of five bills he wants passed in the few days remaining before adjournment.

The five-point program includes legislation dealing with subsidies for low cost housing, sugar control, maximum hours and minimum wages in industry, checking income tax avoidance, and a limited reorganization of the lower courts. That is practically a complete list of the major bills the President sought to have the present congress pass. The significant omissions are the bills providing for executive reorganization, the ever normal granary, and the Supreme court packing provisions of the judiciary bill.

Of these measures, that dealing with the reorganization of the lower courts is probably the only one which congress could enact without a sacrifice of a considerable amount of prestige which was won in the court fight. Although the constitution created congress as a coördinate branch of the government, the members of the past three congresses have been willing to accept a subordinate status in the government in which they passed laws sent to them, and did so gingerly when the chief executive said they "must."

By adjourning now, without enacting a new "must" budget of bills, congress will make clear that the present membership regards its powers as great as the constitution says they are. If congress takes a firm stand on the latest "must" list, years hence men will be acclaimed who were members of the great congress which asserted its independence of the head of the executive branch of the government, and which thwarted him when he sought to pack the Supreme court with men of his own choosing.

The four remaining bills, aside from the modified judiciary reorganization measure, can well be deferred until later sessions. The low cost housing subsidy would cost the government hundreds of millions of dollars at a time when retrenchment should be the government's first concern. Something useful might have come out of the income tax investigation, but it soon developed that the purpose was to smear a few wealthy men of the opposite political party. A program of legislation to close the loopholes in the income tax law requires thoughtful consideration. A makeshift law hastily drafted is of doubtful value. Harum-scarum legislation usually creates more problems than it solves.

Discussions of the proposed sugar bill have emphasized the conflicting interests that would be affected without establishing those to which legislation should give preference.

The maximum hours and minimum wages law has aroused no enthusiasm, except in official circles. Organized labor has demanded a long list of amendments which have not been added to the bill.

Toward the end of the session congress has shown that it is a body of men of sturdy character who could not be driven to vote laws against their consciences. If they now allow themselves to be browbeaten into rushing through a program of controversial laws they will be back in the class of the state legislators who fiddle away time up to the last week of their session and then pass bills by the wholesale as the hour of adjournment approaches. The offices of senator and congressman have been exalted by the successful battle which was fought in recent weeks. By adjourning at once congress can go home with the record of its achievement intact.

Editorial of the Day

WIT'S TRIUMPH.

[Baltimore Sun.]

There are those who insist that jaunty, humorous fellows cut no ice in the field of statesmanship, which is, according to this theory, the peculiar property of the solemn gentlemen who speak learnedly of pros and cons. This may be so, but if it is, an exception must be noted in the case of A. P. Herbert, one of the editors of Punch and writer of some of the most delightful light verse which our generation has produced. He has been in the house of commons now for several years, and he is the author of one of the most conspicuously needed legal reforms which England has experienced in a generation, the reform of the iron-bound English divorce laws.

Mr. Herbert has been campaigning against the narrowness of the divorce law for years. He wrote a book entitled "Holy Deadlock," which, besides being a rather entertaining light novel, was a serious tract against the evils of a system under which divorces could be granted only on the ground of 'adultery.' In the commons he devoted himself almost exclusively to the propagation of this pet reform. Now he has put it over. Last week saw the final passage of the amendatory act permitting divorces for cruelty, desertion, and for incurable insanity. It brings the English law into closer conformity with the realities and will no doubt do away with a lot of the hypocritical procedure to which the old law gave rise. That the change is largely the work of a humorist ought to give funny men with political aspirations a new hope.

Of all the pesky ugly and boringest of bugly
Blood-sucking insect incubi I know,
By far the worst is chigre, a pregnant flea no bigger
Than just an atom of a second's toe.

Nor "Don't you come!" nor dodgement checks uninvited lodgement
Of chigre's spawn beneath my tender skin,
Where she, bold bug, deposits her eggs by sixties; closets
Her imps, without a qualm of conscience, in.

Zoölogists say "Spray them; tobacco juice will slay them,"
But, pshaw! all ointments ever known, it seems,
Are vain to stop the twitching and seven-year-like itching
And sleepless nights of pain that are no dreams.

When from the crowd's commotion, my seared feet take a notion
To stray—from furnace-hot cement—Alas!
There is the chigre's warning each verdant blade adorning:
"No trespassing allowed! Keep off the grass!"

HISTORY IS HITTING such a pace that one dares make few predictions. Frinstance, we said a few weeks ago that we wouldn't worry about inflation of the currency until a good hamburger costs more than 15 cents. A restaurant association now announces all meat sandwiches after Aug. 9 are to cost 20 cents. Yes, we worry.

ABSORBING THE SILVER LINING.

There is an explanation why the rain clouds here in North Dakota so often approach, but split before arrival; one section going to the south and one to the north of us. A studious farmer gave it to me. The grasshoppers, he said, are both starving and dying of thirst, and, when they see a cloud coming eastward, rise in millions and drink out the middle of it. The only way we can get rain this summer, the expert argued, is for it to arrive early in the morning before the hoppers are up. . . This fellow counted an average of fifteen hoppers to a square foot on his land. A square mile, 5,280 by 5,280 feet, has 27,878,400 square feet. Multiply by 15 and you have 418,176,000 grasshoppers to each square mile. No wonder there's nothing for the cattle and humans to drink.

HINTS FOR CHILD HYGIENE.

PARENTS are naturally concerned about the welfare of their children. Some, however, are overanxious—so much so that they engender a spirit of dependence; of leaning upon father or mother. Certain youngsters thus handicapped find great difficulty in overcoming this trait as the first contacts which they make with real life all too often constitute discouraging episodes.

But it is perfectly proper for parents to exercise a reasonable amount of solicitude for the child's well-being, especially during the growing years when infections are so likely to develop. It becomes necessary then to differentiate between symptoms which are important and those which may be disregarded with safety.

Our grandmothers, who reared large families, learned rather quickly to distinguish a serious illness from a minor upset. They failed to become disturbed when a child became fretful or drooled excessively as a tooth forced its way through the gums. They had no patience with the dictum that fever always accompanied such an incident. In fact, as I heard one old practical nurse remark, "A tooth is nothing but a growing bone. Why should it lead to temperature any more than when the bones of the arms or the legs are increasing in length?"

It is more than likely that an illness at such a time means that there is some infection in the air passages or the throat and an examination may show bright red, infected tonsils with enough bacterial inflammation to account for the symptoms. No, teething is not a disease, and whenever a general systemic disturbance appears we must not blame this natural process for something that should be inquired into without delay.

Colic in a young infant is often harder on the parents than on the baby and it may mean that something is wrong with the time, the amount, or the quality of the food. Some authorities believe that it is an allergic manifestation and that the composition of the milk should be studied, particularly if an eczema or a skin eruption accompanies the symptom. At any rate, the food should be changed, for example, from mother's milk to dried or the unsweetened, condensed form, and more often than not this procedure will bring relief. Sometimes mild sedatives in very small doses will dissipate the condition completely.

Every child can be taught to become a good gargler. There is certainly much value in washing out the mouth and the upper portion of the throat if a mild, nonirritating antiseptic is used. Some youngsters of 6 or 7 are proficient in the matter; others much older will be utterly unable to "perform" without gagging. With practice most boys and girls can hold the fluid well back in the throat where the bubbling action of air will loosen particles of cell débris, thus insuring better drainage from the mucous surface. The solution may contain a small quantity of chlorine or aspirin, which will not be harmful even though a portion is swallowed.

It is always dangerous to swab the throat and few physicians will be so bold as to leave instructions that parents should carry out the operation. The pressure may be too great and the mucous membrane may be injured, opening the way for the spread of infection. In fact, we may stir up more trouble than could possibly be allayed by the application of some bacteria killing chemical. Let the child gargle all he will, but touch not his throat.

Every youngster's intake of fluid should be observed. This means plenty of water and fruit juices quite apart from milk. Certainly we have no better means of keeping the intestinal tract in normal tone and kidneys free from irritating substances. The flushing action of water is one of nature's best remedies for the young. Aided by plenty of minerals it flows through the body without retention—diluting all toxic materials.

GLAUCOMA.

W. W. W. writes: Can anything be done for glaucoma?

REPLY.

A portion of the sight may be lost before the condition is recognized, but in most cases the disease can be arrested so that the patient retains that which remains. The treatment may be [1] operative; [2] the use of drugs, called miotics, the most important of which are eserine and pilocarpine, and [3] general rest of the eyes, proper diet, relief of constipation, correction of errors of refraction, avoidance of excess in eating and drinking and late hours. Total blindness will follow if treatment is not carried out promptly.

MENTAL CASE.

I. Y. writes: Many persons harbor the idea that an individual committed to an asylum, now free, is permanently unbalanced. Won't you say this isn't true?

REPLY.

A person having spent some time in a state hospital and now discharged as cured is not permanently unbalanced. The possible recurrence of trouble depends on the cause. Many types of mental disorders are amenable to complete recovery.

NEEDS GLASSES.

F. S. writes: After going to the movies my eyes look tired. Would wearing amber sun glasses during the show harm them? Or what would you suggest? My eyes are perfect.

REPLY.

Amber spectacles are of value in bright sunlight. They will not relieve your eyestrain. Lenses, prescribed by a competent ophthalmologist, will relieve the condition.

TONSIL REMOVAL.

V. J. S. writes: What months of the year are more favorable for the removal of tonsils?

REPLY.

There is no particular month which is better than another for removing tonsils. There is perhaps less danger of taking cold in the summer. The condition of the tonsils indicates when they should be removed rather than the season of the year.

BURNING FEET.

V. W. writes: My feet burn and swell in hot weather. I am not bothered at other seasons.

REPLY.

Bathe the parts frequently and use generous amounts of a sterile dusting powder. Make certain that there is no heart or kidney difficulty.

REPLY.

PARKED TRUCK.

Chicago, July 25.—[Friend of the People.]—The neighbors, tenants, and the undersigned will appreciate your assistance in this matter. The party two doors away keeps a big truck parked all day long in front of the building for several months at times. He has it loaded with some smelly stuff which he lets stand for two or three days at a time. It is not only a very unpleasant sight, but the smell is intolerable and is attracting flies in the hot weather.

A. H.

Officers visited the place complained of and did not find said truck, but did locate the owner thereof and informed him regarding the complaint. He admitted that at times he did park his truck at that location, but now he has rented a garage and will abide by the orders and see that there is no further cause for complaint. We will continue to keep the place under observation to see that further violations do not occur.

SHOULD HAVE FACTS.

Oak Park, Ill., July 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I read your Friend of the People column daily and would like the following information:

1. What is the penalty for an executor or administrator for failure to perform the duties prescribed in a will?

2. Also, what is the penalty for a trustee for nonperformance of the prescriptions in a will?

3. What is the fee usually paid a trustee when he properly performs his duties?

K. G. R.

1. Depends on the facts. For example, there is no penalty for a person's refusing to accept such employment.

2. See 1.

3. We cannot advise you without having the facts before us.

EIGHT HOURS FOR WOMEN.

Chicago, July 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Recently I was employed in a suburban laundry where at least eight employés are made to work 50 or more hours in five days, from Monday to Friday inclusive. On Monday they must put in 15 to 17 hours. The pay for the majority of the employés amounts to about 25 cents an hour. Is there not a violation in this instance of industrial law? Could this laundry be compelled to use two shifts?

J. R.

An eight hour law for women has recently been adopted. If women are involved in your facts, we suggest that you report to the state factory inspector, Springfield.

DANGEROUS WATERS.

Chicago, July 26.—THE TRIBUNE editorial of July 21, "Why No Yachts?" was certainly written by a nonyachtsman, for only a landlubber could have committed the errors therein.

Unfortunately for air line passengers from the east, the spectacle of yachts flitting gayly about the waters off the Indiana dunes will have to be denied them forever. Those are among the most dangerous waters in the Great Lakes for boats. Water is shallow, sand bars are numerous and shifting in location, it is usually a lee shore and harbor shelter is nonexistent all the way from Gary to Michigan City and not much to speak of in those two places.

It is true, as your editorial points out, that Chicago ought to have more yachts. However, your writer errs again when he says that facilities here are superior. It is precisely because harbors are limited and overcrowded that the business and pleasure of yachting is hampered. An especially good location for yacht mooring is available in the semi-protected anchorage just in front of the Lake Shore Athletic club and the downtown Northwestern campus, but efforts to have it developed for this purpose have been to no avail.

GERTRUDE TEMPKIN.

YACHT FLEETS COMPARED.

Chicago, July 28.—Chicago is well known to outsiders as a yachting center, so much so, in fact, that every year a number of fine yachts are built here for yachtsmen in other parts of the country including Detroit and Cleveland.

Your editorial "Why No Yachts?" mentioned that Detroit and Cleveland appeared to have more yachts than Chicago. Detroit, with its sheltered waters, does have a very fine fleet. Cleveland's fleet, however, could be put into just one of our harbors, Belmont or Grant park, and there would still be room for more.

THE MONGOL INVASION.

Chicago, July 25.—In Sunday's News Review appeared a short historical sketch of China stating among other historical facts that in the great Mongol invasion in the 13th century China, Russia and Poland were conquered and subjugated by the Mongols.

In the great Mongol invasion of Europe in the 13th century by Batu Khan, Russia was invaded and remained conquered for a period of over 200 years. Poland was invaded also, but resisted in many successive battles till the retiring Polish forces reached the town of Lignica in western Poland. At Lignica the Polish army, supported by the Bohemian prince, made a last stand. In a desperate battle the Polish prince, Henry the Pious, with almost all the remnants of the Polish army, perished on the battlefield, but inflicted such great losses on the Mongols that Batu Khan was forced to retire from Poland. But Russia was subdued and held.

This fact is most important in the history of eastern and middle Europe and explains the profound difference between the Poles and Russians and the hostility between those nations, and explains also bolshevik Russia of today.

In the recent bolshevik invasion, Poland, true to her historical mission, made a heroic stand and defeated and routed the Russian bolshevik armies, for Poland is a child of western civilization and culture and Russia is inheritor of Byzantine and Mongol absolutism and despotism.

THE SUPREME COURT VACANCY.

New York, July 28.—This society has observed press reports suggesting that the President desires to avoid submitting a name for the Supreme court vacancy to the senate at this session. This smacks suspiciously of an attempt to make a recess appointment, which would not now withstand senatorial scrutiny, in the hope that the senate would find it too embarrassing to withhold confirmation at the next session.

ROBERT APPLETON,
Chairman, American Defense Society.

THE EIGHT HOUR LAW.

Chicago July 27.—Thanks to the eight hour law for women, there is no more working 13 and 14 hours a day in the neighborhood dress, millinery or department stores. I have done it for years and know the torture of it. This is the best law ever enforced. I hope it stays. It is giving more women work and much better working conditions.

Miss Gretchen Onderdonk to Become Bride

BY JUDITH CASS.

ADDING a romantic note to the usual gay round of a midsummer week-end is the announcement Mr. and Mrs. J. Lawrence Onderdonk are making this morning of the engagement of their daughter, Gretchen, to Edwin P. Price Jr.

The news is of especial interest in Winnetka where both families live and because the two families and their children have been friends over a period of years. The engagement is to be celebrated with a family dinner party tonight in the Onderdonk home.

Most of Miss Onderdonk's feminine friends will have the opportunity to wish her happiness at a luncheon she is giving next Thursday at the Indian Hill club for Miss Marianne Hoover, at whose wedding on Aug. 12 to Carl B. Davis Jr. Miss Onderdonk is to be a bridesmaid.

Miss Onderdonk and her future sister-in-law, Miss Frances Price, a debutante of the 1935 season, both attended Mount Vernon seminary. Since finishing her schooling Miss Onderdonk has become active in the Evanston Junior league and on the junior board of Northwestern University settlement.

Br. Price, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin P. Price, are spending the summer at home, attended the Berkshire school before entering Dartmouth, from which he was graduated this year. Miss Onderdonk's brother, William Onderdonk, was married last November in Detroit to Miss Ernestine Richter. They are at home in Evanston.

Arlington Racing Season Ends Today.

It is expected that the last afternoon of racing this season at Arlington Park will draw a large crowd to the beautiful course northwest of Chicago today. Two featured races, the Futurity and the Arlington Handicap, will provide extra excitement for racing fans.

Among those who have made reservations for luncheon at the Post and Paddock club are the Robert J. Thornes, James Sheldon, John E. Wheeler, the junior Willard Drowns, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hughes, and the Benjamin L. Behrs.

Many Lake Foresters will hurry home from the track to change for the Skyrocket party that is being given tonight at the Onwentsia. The entertainment committee—Thomas A. Conners, Gordon P. Kelley, and Henry N. Rowley—have planned special decorations and lighting, and also had hoped to provide a balloon to take the guests on a trip to the moon, as stated on the invitations, but finding such a balloon was a little more difficult than expected. However, there will be skyrockets shooting heavenward at intervals to produce the proper atmosphere.

Mrs. Thomas A. Conners will not be present at the party, for she has gone to New Jersey to visit her mother. Mr. and Mrs. Rowley will not be present either, for they are spending the week-end in northern Wisconsin.

Durand Smith is entertaining at luncheon at the Onwentsia today for Vladimir Golschmann, conductor of the St. Louis Symphony orchestra, who is this week's guest conductor at the Ravinia festival.

Tennis Finals at Barrington Hills.

Tennis is on the week-end program at the Barrington Hills Country club, where Miss Kitty Lawrence, who has just won the Chicago district girls' championship, will defend her laurels as champion of the Barrington club. The finals in the Barrington tournament will be played tomorrow afternoon, with either Miss Betty Cheney or Miss Priscilla White opposing Miss Lawrence.

As Chicago's No. 1 girl player, Miss Lawrence, who is just 17, will represent this district in the western girls' tennis championships at Milwaukee. Afterward she will join her mother, Mrs. Samuel D. Rowe, and two sisters, Muriel and Evelyn, at Wequetonsing, Mich.

Mrs. Burwell Dodd is arriving today from her home in Baltimore to spend a month with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fentress, in Hubbard Woods. She is bringing with her her two young sons, Burwell Jr., 5, and Jonathan, 1 year old, who will be making his first visit to his grandparents.

Mrs. Patterson Will Go to Charlevoix.

Mrs. Joseph M. Patterson is leaving today to spend August at Charlevoix. She has taken a cottage there, and among her guests during the month will be Mrs. Edward L. Hasler and Mr. and Mrs. Morris L. Johnston. When Mrs. Patterson returns she will be at her farm near Libertyville until November.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Fred Reeve [Josephine Patterson] are on a fishing trip in the wilderness north of Quebec. They will be away until Aug. 10. Her sister and brother-in-law, the Joseph Brookses, are traveling to the North Cape and to Russia, and Mrs. Patterson's oldest daughter, Mrs. Griffith Mark, is spending the summer at a camp in the Adirondacks.

Mrs. Hasler's niece, Miss Eleanor Coonley, is arriving from her home in Great Barrington, Mass., for a visit in about a fortnight, after her aunt gets back from Charlevoix. The young Wyndham Haslers [Cornelia Ranney] are remaining in their house on Green Bay road in Lake Forest this summer.

After a brief stay in Lake Forest, Mrs. C. Morse Ely has returned to Charlevoix, where she is spending the summer.

Russell Tyson has gone east to spend six weeks at his summer home at North Andover, Mass.

James Curtiss has gone east to spend a month in Maine and Massachusetts.

WHEN he was in London recently, Harvey C. Kendall was asked by a London business man which he thought were the more efficient, the British police or the police in the United States. The Londoner added that he thought the American police were quite rude, and cited a personal incident to prove his point.

"When I was in New York recently, I said to a policeman 'I would like to go to 134 East 58th street' and what do you think he answered? He said, 'Well, what in the hell is stopping you?' . . . Now I call that rude," concluded the Englishman.

A STOOGE reports that some Highland Park folk, name, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Merrill, decided a few days ago to take a picnic lunch and their bathing suits, and go to the dunes near Waukegan for a day's relaxation. So Mrs. Merrill assembled an elaborate lunch, packed it carefully in a box just the right size for the picnic basket, filled the basket's ice compartment, and they departed for their holiday. At the dunes they decided to have a swim before their feast. After their plunge they raced back to the lunch basket. Mrs. Merrill chose a table under a big shade tree, laid the cloth, opened the basket and found only quantities of ice cubes. The lunch box was still at home in the Merrill kitchen.

IN the morning mail. "Perhaps you can tell us what has become of the very smart-looking young woman who for some time has walked her two dogs past our house every morning about six-thirty o'clock. Little Joan, whose heavy braces wake her so early in the morning is looking and looking and hoping the dog lady—as she affectionately calls her—will come again. And all we can say is 'Honey, hope maybe she'll come tomorrow.' Joan also would like to know whether the Boston is Patsy and the terrier Gadget or the other way around. READER."

SPEAKING of dog-walking, the sight of a large police dog walking east on Madison street during the early morning rush hour, with a leash in his mouth at the other end of which prances a fox terrier, is exciting curiosity. Curiosity in readers who write in and want to know about it, envy in us, for it's a trick we have tried to teach Sandy, the more intelligent and older and the more reliable of the two terriers. He will start out walking Binjy, leash in his mouth, but soon grows bored with the performance, and drops the leash.

Most touching of recent dog stories concerns the devotion and loyalty of Prince, a German Schnauzer in Boston, who voluntarily acts as a "seeing eye" to his little blind playmate of the same breed. Prince runs shoulder to shoulder with his blind companion and guides him successfully. Recently the pair journeyed from Jamaica Plain to the campus of Boston college, with Prince's eyes doing duty for both through heavy trafic and traversing the highways and byways.

A COUPLE was standing in the group of admirers of Su-Lin, the Brookfield zoo charmer. They stood directly in front of the sign that reads "Giant Panda." After the woman had read the sign she said to her companion. "Well, if this is the giant panda, where is the baby panda there is so much talk about?"

Add Another to Successes of Golschmann

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Vladimir Golschmann, who is the regular conductor of the St. Louis Symphony orchestra and who spends his free months racing from one strange podium to another, won the admiration of a second large audience at Ravinia park last night. Directing the Chicago Symphony orchestra in a program that ranged from Gluck to McDonald, he repeated his success of Thursday and turned the evening into another gala occasion.

Quite aside from his remarkably likable personality, Mr. Golschmann possesses three musical characteristics which would be sufficient in themselves to account for the extremely favorable impression he always makes. Delicacy, power, and honesty—two of them incompatible, it would seem—are the qualities which give his interpretations their extraordinary value.

He never allows the music to run away with him and force him into an uncalculated fortissimo or a too headlong tempo. Everything is nicely planned, with meticulously balanced dynamics and tempi which impress one as authentic, inevitable.

Yet this planning and this moderation do not vitiate his interpretations nor make them over-delicate. Climaxes are tremendous, and gain in intensity and effectiveness from the admirable way in which their contexts are presented.

As for honesty, Mr. Golschmann is scrupulous in his determination to present the music itself in a fair and open manner. He does not allow caprice nor the desire for a little informal composing or editing of his own to obscure the composer's original intention.

The "Iphigenia in Aulis" overture, classical, but not severe in its clear and lovely outlines, led to the first symphony of Sibelius. The orchestra responded magnificently, giving a sonorous but never explosive performance.

After the intermission came Harl McDonald's Rhumba from the "Rhumba" symphony. This clever little piece, a successful attempt to make the rhumba rhythm respectable and to bend it to higher musical purposes than have thus far been its fate, had never before been played by the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

"The Sorcerer's Apprentice" of Dukas and the prelude to Wagner's "Die Meistersinger" brought the program to a close.

Mr. Golschmann continues in charge tonight and tomorrow afternoon.

Initialed Sox a New Touch in Sport Wear

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Members of large and borrowing families generally are monogramers. They are easy pickings for any good new monogram idea, from intimate underlayers to all the gadgets. So for them we proclaim the newest trick—monogramed sports socks.

They come in every color you ever heard of . . . in fuzzy wools, smooth wools and fancy lisles, or even cottons. You pick your pair and order the three letter monogram done in any color you wish, wait patiently for three days, and the stocks are yours to wear with both active and spectator sports clothes. They're good to look at, the letters are simple and readable, and you've no idea how decorative they can be till you see them with contrasting colored initials against a good sun tan.

The monograms are made to order at way under a dollar and the socks are any price you want to pay!

Another hosiery item . . . the can't run knee length stockings for extremely hot weather wear. While lots of us stick to covered knees, hot or cold, the other half buy them gratefully for comfort and exceptionally long wearing qualities. The usual, soft, smooth elastic at the top keeps them in position and the interestingly blurred lacey texture is the twist that makes them run-proof. And all reports indicate these hose deserve the run-proof name.

Parish Reunion.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

End of the week notes:

A fine preparation that stops perspiration and deodorizes at the same time [and that all our guinea pigs tell us is never, never irritating] is out in a new package. This is a best seller out in Hollywood and women who've tried it here are almost invariably repeat customers. It's got a trick wool applicator that does away with the messy dribbling. It's a quick dryer and has a pleasant fragrance.

Ever hear of powered eye shadow? We swear by it. It's like a dry rouge. All you do is dust it on the lids with a tiny puff or a bit of cotton. It's not nearly as well known as it should be. It does away with streaking and smudging. We tried out some the other day in a soulful lavender shade and adored it. You might look it up if you're not very deft about eye makeup—it makes it simpler.

We always approach a cologne for men with great wariness. We hide the labels, and if the women around our office rave about how lovely the fragrance is, we decide that the men won't like 'em.

Before we ask any men about them we have strong ideas of our own. But at last one has come in that a couple of brawny gents have approved. It's a Russian cologne. At first whiff it might seem a little sweetish, but it dries without a trace of this note—leaving a nice, clean fragrance that's a little bit like fine lether and also has a very faint note of pine. Men approve of it—and that's certainly a victory in the men's cologne field.

Good Morning!

A desolate, a cheerless picture! But the road back from world carnage to normalcy is a desolate and cheerless road. Not hopeless travel, though, if the weary way were to end in the sunny land of No More War, BUT—?

And right there in that paragraph you have the meat of the movie at the Palace.

Seven years ago Erich Maria Remarqua wrote "All Quiet on the Western Front." Brilliantly screened by Universal, it showed German youths setting out jubilantly to win the war. Bands played. They were acclaimed as heroes. Great rewards were promised them when they should have returned home victorious. . . .

"The Road Back"—especially significant because of the threatening war clouds in Europe . . . tells the story of a group of Teuton lads who have gone through the four grueling years and who come home, bitterly disillusioned, unfitted for anything but fighting; unable to adapt themselves to peace standards.

The story tells itself, wearily, hopelessly, humorlessly. It rings a persistent knell of futility.

It is well acted and provocative of deep thought. But it is not entertainment—if that's what you're looking for.

Shy Film Actor Wonders How He Won Girl

Anne Shirley. John Howard Payne.

Hollywood, Cal., July 30.—(AP)—Shiest screen lover who ever collapsed in a clinch is 200 pound John Howard Payne, ex-professional wrestler.

He wiped off the lip rouge left by his leading lady with a shaking hand today, beads of perspiration gleaming on his classic brow.

"I'm scared to death of girls—how do you expect me to be a great lover, anyway?" he asked.

Off the set, gossip used to harass John. With vivid blushes he denied in 1936 that he was engaged to Eleanor Powell or Adrea Leeds.

Now, however, his betrothal to Anne Shirley has been announced.

The wedding is set for some time in October.

"I don't know yet how I had the nerve," is his explanation.

His current picture, "Love on Toast," is a series of painful emotions for Payne. Kisses abound. As a popularity contest winner he is supposed to be mobbed by feminine admirers.

"It sounds pretty much out of date, but the truth is, I'm shy," he said.

"Maybe I'm in the wrong business."

Battle Monuments Visitors Guests at Reception in Paris

[Copyright: 1937: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, July 30.—The two week Franco-American ceremonies for the formal dedication of the American battle monuments abroad opened here today with several gatherings.

Gen. John J. Pershing, Josephus Daniels, United States ambassador to Mexico; Commander Harry W. Colmery of the American Legion, Brig. Gen. Bernard W. Kearney, commander in chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and other visiting American veterans and officials were entertained at a brilliant reception in the Hotel de Ville.

Then at the Arc de Triomphe, under the auspices of Gen. Kearney and the Paris Veterans of Foreign Wars, occurred the international ceremony at the tomb of the unknown soldier.

Wreaths were placed on the unknow soldier's tomb and the flame rekindled by Gen. Kearney. Bugles sounded and veterans and visitors marched to Pershing hall where another reception was held for visitors.

Plans are now completed for the dedication Sunday of the American battle monument at Montfaucon.

By Condition of Her Purse Is Woman's Chic Revealed

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

The pocketbook test is suggested by a writer in a current periodical.

What is a pocketbook test in relation to feminine beauty? We all know the pocketbook test of a dress shopping or week-end marketing day, yes? But this beauty pocket book test is something by which you may determine a woman's fastidiousness, her personality, and habits.

A bag stuffed with everything from a messy lipstick to a packet of worn down and soiled papers, to say nothing of keys not on a holder, hankies of dubious freshness, comb flecked, perhaps, with loose tobacco shavings, and so on and so forth, tells more about a girl or woman than all the fancy painting that's gone onto her lips and cheeks, all the care involved in matching accessories and the becoming frock worn. In other words, you can fool some of the people some of the time, but not after you have opened that bag and pulled out from its disordered depths a powder puff monogrammed in dust and soil.

Some women never are caught unawares with a disorderly handbag. Some are never caught with an orderly one, but the great run of us has our moments, may we say, of righteous tidiness.

Yes, gloves and bags do tell much about a women that she'd rather were not broadcast about her. But she's the broadcaster with none other to blame.

Today it is easy to keep that bag a thing of beauty with the pocketbook articles on the market. Even the five-and-tens have attractive little bags for stowing away the items that clutter and can't be found in a hurry. The matched cosmetic sets are easily available. You can even carry your tiny flaçon of perfume there to renew your courage from time to time. There are lipstick tissues to save the lining from messy sticks and your hankies from stains that won't come out. You can slip into your bag emergency deodorants in tiny packet form.

You can carry loads of things within that dark abyss and still not give it the overcrowded, bulging look which always somehow indicates disorder inside. You can carry your comb in a neat case, your glasses in another neat case so they won't get scratched. You can be in a position to open the bag any time, anywhere, and proclaim yourself a person of taste and fastidiousness.

SYNOPSIS.

Michael Eden, heir to millions, postpones his marriage to Katharine McCann because his foster-father, John Millis, tells him his foster-mother is ill and needs him. Katharine's roommate, Joan, is engaged to Michael's friend, Terry Newton. Michael signs a will making Millis his heir, expecting to change it after his marriage to Katharine. Mrs. Millis attempts suicide when she discovers her husband flirting with her nurse. Michael rescues her and takes her away. Millis tricks Katharine into a ride with him and forces his kisses on her. Amos Newton, uncle of Terry, believes that Millis killed Terry's father, who was Michael's co-guardian. Michael returns to the home of Amos Newton and Katharine and he plan to be married next day, though Michael is ill. That night Michael, in delirium, returns to the Millis home, desperately ill with typhoid fever. Katharine obtains Dr. Kittredge to attend him. Newton tells Katharine that the exhumed body of Michael's real mother showed she died of poisoning. Ferensi, a self-confessed poisoner, charges that Millis bought typhoid germs from him. Michael is moved to the home of Amos Newton. Millis is murdered in his home.

INSTALMENT XLII.

THE SHADOW OF THE TRAGEDY.

Newton swallowed his soup, then said: "Isn't there something that I ought to know right away—before they come to get me?"

"No," the doctor said, falling in with Newton's tone of mock seriousness. "They are moving cautiously. You may as well take time to tell me where you have been. Bring me up to date."

"I may as well take time to get a little food." He turned on Ito. "Get me some sandwiches, and a pail of black coffee, and a quart or two of whisky—and a piece of pie. Lord, man, did you run entirely out of money in my absence that you give me no food?"

Ito glanced quickly at the doctor, a glance which Newton intercepted.

"What the devil do you mean by looking at him?" he demanded. "Is he to tell me when I'm hungry?" He shied his boot at the little Jap and then turned to Kittredge.

"We are losing no time," he explained, as the well filled tray appeared. "This is breakfast. It is almost 4 o'clock. It took longer to get back than I figured. There was some sleet. I have driven about twelve hundred miles since this time yesterday."

Kittredge busied himself doctoring a sandwich with mustard. "What time did you leave yesterday?" he asked, almost too casually.

Newton's eyes took on a mocking gleam. "What time had I better say?" he asked gravely.

"Millis is thought to have been killed between two and four."

"Did Terry come back with you, Amos?" Again Kittredge's tone sought to be casual.

"Terry? No. I left Terry in a small hut in northern Wisconsin, twenty-five miles from nowhere, without so much as a car at his disposal."

"What was the idea?"

"The young people are getting soft. He needed to exert himself. Tell me about Michael. Ito told me what he could, but I want your opinion of his condition. How seriously is this going to affect him?"

"You admit that you wanted to kill John Millis?"

"Well, I wouldn't welcome such an experience exactly. But I think, if he has no further shock and can be kept quiet and at peace with himself, he will get through." The doctor colored slightly. "I've worked on this case as hard as I ever worked on a case, Amos. But I made a mistake at the outset. I should have listened to you."

"If Michael lives I shall say that you made a great success of it," Amos replied. "If you had listened to me John Millis would still be alive and wandering around loose."

Kittredge looked strained.

Newton poured himself a glass of whisky and drank it raw.

"Has any one notified Mrs. Millis?" he asked.

"I have not. Until you came I felt that I must take the responsibility for the undertaker and all that."

"Until I came!" Newton repeated. "What have I to do with John Millis dead, who would have nothing to do with him when he was alive?"

"Do you know how to reach Mrs. Millis?" Kittredge asked.

"Sunnybrook, Alabama. Care of Mrs. Jefferson Davis Hatch. That is Nan, Mrs. Millis' sister, to whom Mrs. Millis fled for shelter when she ran away from the rigors of a Maine winter and a Puritan foster-son."

Newton carefully wrote the address on a slip of paper and held it out to Kittredge.

"Am I to understand," Kittredge said frigidly, "that you wash your hands of the whole affair?"

Newton shook his head angrily.

"I can't do that, Bob. But I have not the slightest interest in the corpse."

"And Michael? Has he no interest in it?"

"A very morbid interest it would be, if he had any beyond the decent disposal of the remains."

Kittredge looked at his friend defiantly.

"Yet about the only time the boy has spoken since he was brought here, Amos, was to ask if he would be expected to go to the funeral."

"Michael knows! I had supposed you kept it from him."

"I did not tell him, Amos. Nobody told him. He knew."

Newton was no longer smiling. "Tell me again what Michael said," he demanded.

"What I just told you: He asked if he would be expected to go to the funeral. Asked me to say that I had forbidden his making the effort. Then he asked me if I would mind getting flowers. He gave me money. 'Orchids, he suggested."

"Indeed? . . . Well! Good for him! Good for Michael!"

With which Newton rose.

"You might meet me at 10 o'clock, Bob, and go with me when I give myself up." Newton was quite cheerful. "Or would you rather not?"

"Why, yes, Amos," Kittredge heard himself saying. There was nothing he desired less.

They met at 10 at the door of the Millis house.

Thomas Sullivan rose to meet them. The two men with Sullivan, Kittredge had not seen before. Haynes was a heavy jowled, squat little man, with tired, indifferent eyes. Comstock was an alert gentleman, with a ready smile and a look of cheery innocence.

Sullivan was looking at Newton curiously.

"Mr. Newton," he said gravely, very gravely, indeed, "what do you know about this murder?"

"You will have to be more specific," Newton said regretfully. "I know volumes—and nothing at all."

"Know who did it?"

"What worries me," Newton said frankly, "is who didn't do it. How many bullet holes were there, Mr. Sullivan? Just one? And how many suspects are there? Myself, my nephew, Miss McCann, Michael Eden, and Hobson."

Sullivan reddened. "Somebody did it," he said brusquely.

"We have not suspected you, Mr. Newton," Comstock protested, remembering perhaps some cold instructions from a man higher up.

"No? Yet of all that array of talent I am the only man who ever wanted to kill John Millis. Ironical, isn't it?"

Sullivan sat up. "You admit that? You admit that you wanted to kill John Millis?" he said shaking an accusing finger at Newton.

"Admit it? I thought that I asserted it," Newton said calmly.

"Wanting to kill a man is very different from intending to," Haynes yawned. "I don't suppose you wish to say that you were intending to, Mr. Newton?"

"No, I don't insist on saying that. But I wish you would tell me, Mr. Haynes, why Mr. Sullivan is so modest. Why does he not include himself in this list of honorable suspects? There seems to be but one qualification: That we should have been here in this room night before last." He turned on Sullivan, his eyes twinkling. "Mr. Sullivan," he said very solemnly, "where were you between the hours of two and four night before last?"

Sullivan glared.

"Is that answer acceptable to the court?" Newton asked politely.

"Feeding Fifty," a booklet containing large quantity recipes and also suggestions and hints on serving large crowds, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents in stamps. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

A diet composed chiefly of fresh fruits and vegetables, most of them raw, is recommended by prominent beauticians as an aid to loveliness. A raw peach a day, or a handful of raspberries isn't guaranteed to put a gloss on your hair or to remove freckles, of course, but it may help. And it certainly will benefit your digestion. Now is the time to pursue fresh fruits and vegetables full speed ahead. The markets are filled with them!

When buying peaches for the dining room table's fruit bowl centerpiece, it might be a good idea to get enough to make a few jars of peach preserves, marmalade or pickles. These recipes are the best I know.

PEACH PRESERVES.

Select firm, slightly underripe peaches. Scald, cold dip, and peel. Slice the peaches and reserve the stones. For each cup of sliced peaches, measure ¾ cup sugar and 2 tablespoons water. Place sugar and water in preserving kettle and boil for 5 minutes. Add fruit and cook rapidly until it is transparent. Pour into jars or glasses and to each add one kernel obtained by cracking a peach pit. Seal jars at once.

If the fruit is juicy, and there seems to be too much sirup, remove slices from sirup to jars, and cook sirup until thick before adding it to the fruit. Two teaspoons lemon juice to a cup of fruit may be added to the sirup for additional flavor.

PEACH AND ORANGE MARMALADE.

Scald, cold dip, peel and slice firm peaches, and allow 1 cup sugar to each cup peaches. To every 5 cups peaches, allow 1 orange, cut finely. Bring slowly to a boil, stirring frequently until thick. Pour into clean, hot jars and seal.

Pickled Peaches.

8 pounds peaches [approximately 4½ quarts, sliced]
9 cups sugar
2 quarts mild vinegar
4 sticks cinnamon
1 tablespoon whole cloves

The peaches should be firm and ripe. Scald and peel. Combine sugar, vinegar and spices [tied in a bag] and boil sirup for 5 minutes. Add peaches and cook gently until tender. Do not overcook or the peaches will become broken and ragged. Let peaches stand overnight in sirup. Drain off sirup and pack peaches into jars. Cook sirup until it becomes almost as thick as honey. Pour hot over the peaches and seal the jars.

BRANDIED PEACHES.

Rub the fuzz from firm, ripe peaches with a coarse towel. If it is difficult to remove, soak the peaches for fifteen minutes first, in a solution of 1 tablespoon soda to a quart of water. Make a sirup of 1 cup sugar and 1 cup water for every pound of peaches and boil the fruit in this for 5 minutes. Drain off the sirup and place peaches in jars. Boil the sirup until it is heavy, then add an equal amount of brandy, and pour the mixture over the fruit in the jars. Seal.

Lines Chic for Matrons

WOMAN'S FROCK.

This frock is designed along especially soft lines in order to flatter the matron. Slim and tightly fitted styling is out of place for the woman of heavier figure. It makes her appear larger. The lines of this dress are created for disguise purposes, with remarkably smart results.

For more tailored wear the version at the left is recommended. It has a plain V neckline trimmed with a rolled collar. There is soft shirring in the bodice and the puffed sleeves are full all the way to the wrists. The paneled skirt is styled to disguise hip width. All types of summer fabrics, including dark sheers, make up well in this version, and it is a grand style for early autumn, when created in dark silks.

The other model is dressier, typically and beautifully "summer" in its styling. There is a wide, softly folded collar which ends in two draped portions, topped with a nosegay. The sleeves are wide and gathered for both daintiness and comfort. Printed summer sheers are perfect for this version.

Style No. 1502 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4¼ yards of 39 inch material.

You are certain to like the brimmed hat, so charming with afternoon clothes. Its number is 2541, and it is available in one size only. When you order it, inclose 15 cents extra.

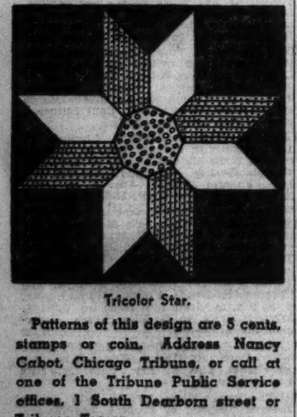
Patriotic Color Scheme Is Used in Pretty Quilt



Tricolor Star.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Picturing a quilt block is quite a different matter from visualizing a series of blocks set together in an alternate arrangement with plain blocks. It is not difficult to derive from a view of this good looking "Tricolor Star" a mental picture of what the completed coverlet would be like. Red, white, and blue form the color choice for this pattern and most women follow that selection. This pieced pattern is an excellent choice for a boy's room. The nine inch pieced design is set together with plain blocks surrounded by a three inch border and bound with a half inch bias binding. The over-all dimensions are 90 by 105 inches.

Girls Are Wise to Avoid All Flirtations

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

With the coming of summer the question of whether to flirt or not to flirt is a popular one. Girls who feel it is not just the thing to do, yet have a desire to try it, point out that many nice friendships have developed throug summer flirtations. It seems they want to feel they have some justification for departing from the hard set rule of mother's day.

Well, girls, it is true that many friendships have been formed and, in some cases, happy marriages have been the outcome of summer romances, but that doesn't mean you should go out and indulge in flirtations with any and every chap you meet. If you do that, you may wind up with a terrible heartache, or be sadly disillusioned.

It's natural for girls to feel carefree and in a friendly mood when at the beach or summer resort. When attractive young men come along and, in the spirit of good fun, suggest they share their amusements or dance girls feel they'll be looked upon as prudish if they hesitate. It may be all right, girls, if you happen to be a pretty good judge of character. Even then, you had better proceed with caution. Boys may not feel they must show the same respect for girls who do flirt as for those they meet in the conventional way.

It is well to limit your flirtations to boys you know something about. There may be boys who work in the same building, and on whom you can get a pretty good line, or boys in the neighborhood whom you never have met yet know enough about them and their parents to know they are the right type of chaps. You may have seen boys at church or at clubs and, while you've never met them, would feel that a little flirtation with them would not be taking too great a chance. But to pick up with boys you know nothing about, even though they may be well dressed and, to all appearances, perfect gentlemen, is a chance no self-respecting girl can afford to take.

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

WHAT IS A BID SUIT?

[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

When a four no trump bid shows "two aces and the king of a bid suit," the "bid suit" must be a genuine biddable suit in the hand of either partner. The kings of suits bid artificially do not count in these requirements.

A suit is bid "artificially" only when it is [a] a bid in the opponent's suit to show control or to act as an asking bid; [b] a bid in any other suit when it is an asking bid.

Likewise, the responding hand, after his partner's four no trump bid, can respond with five no trump when he has one ace and the kings of all genuine bid suits.

South	West	North	East
1 heart	1 spade	2 diamonds	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	4 no trump	Pass

The "king of bid suits" in this case are the kings of hearts and diamonds, but not the king of spades. North obviously has no genuine spade suit. He bid spades as a cue bid. South must respond with five no trump if he holds:

♠9 ♥AK10984 ♦K43 ♣J75.

TODAY'S HAND.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
Match-point duplicate.

♦K Q 7 6 5
♣A 8 4

WEST
♠Q J 9 8 7

♦J 10 3
♣J 3

SOUTH
♠A K 6
♥Q 4 2
♦A 9 4
♣K Q 10 6

At most tables the hand was played at three no trump by the North-South pairs, a contract that invariably was made. At one table East opened the bidding with three hearts. South doubled and, after West had passed, North bid three spades. South raised to four and West doubled. The hand proved to be a pretty one. Four spades were there against any line of defense, but the actual play was not easy.

East opened the heart king, and shifted to the diamond jack [a heart continuation would have made no difference]. North won in his own hand with the diamond king, and led only one high trump, since he could tell from the cards in sight that the penalty double must have been based on extreme length in trumps. Four rounds of clubs followed. Declarer led the diamond ace and then ruffed a heart with the four of trump. [West was now down to the ♠QJ98 of trumps.] The diamond queen followed. West had to ruff and return the queen of spades. Dummy won and now all North had to do to insure his own ten of spades for a trick was to lead the heart queen. Although the spade ten was blank, West could not prevent its making. If West ruffed with the jack, North would merely discard and later make the spade ten, whereas West's actual ruff with the nine spot was overruffed.

Thus, declarer made four club tricks, two diamonds, the ace and king of spades in dummy and the ten-four of spades in his own hand, for a total of ten tricks.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: My partner opened the bidding with one heart. No intervening bid. What is my correct response with ♠A J 5 ♥J 7 ♦K 7 4 ♣9 7 6 4 3?

Answer: One no trump.

Circus Guests to See Names in Sunday Tribune

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Just one more day to wait, boys and girls! As soon as you can get your hands on THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE the suspense will be ended, and all the children who have written for invitations to our next party on Aug. 5 will know whether they've been invited to see the circus with me.

There were many good letters and I had quite a time picking the winners. As usual, there were some youngsters who forgot to include either their names, or addresses or their ages when they wrote, and the wastebasket got their notes.

However, these forgetful little people and youngsters whose letters came in too late will have an opportunity to make up for their mistakes when they see the news about our next party, which will be printed tomorrow.

It's a party I know you'll like, so be sure that you don't miss the paper boy tomorrow, because the SUNDAY TRIBUNE will be full of good news for you girls and boys!

Go Swimming While Clothed at Film Party

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 30.—[Special.]—The farewell party at the New Ellsworth Vines-Fred Perry Tennis club, which was given by cronies of Moss Hart on the occasion of his departure for New York, established some kind of a high for amiable but uncurbed jollity. It was a stag party and all the guests wore their ideas of original costumes.

Gordon Jones, former football star at the University of California at Los Angeles, who plays the he man star at RKO-Radio, chose a general's fancy dress uniform with cocked hat.

When the evening got too hot for comfort, Jones carefully took off the hat with ostrich plume, and the coat with gold epaulets, and folded them, but then forgetfully plunged, otherwise fully clothed, into the swimming pool.

Jones had forgotten to remove his wrist watch, or his wallet from his trousers, and had to write off the watch and personal papers. Former Tennis Champion Vines also surprisingly found himself floundering in full attire in the pool. A third celebrant was tipped into the pool while clinging to a large sun umbrella.

Playwright Hart gave a speech in which he carefully rebutted all witty cracks directed at him by Groucho Marx in a previous speech. Hart came out here some months ago intending to do a lucrative movie writing job for M-G-M studio, but financial or artistic differences which never were formally explained queered the deal, and after Hart and his partner sold their "You Can't Take It With You" to Columbia for $200,000 Hart didn't feel that there was any compulsion about working anyway. Accordingly he said, "I decided to stay and devote myself to enjoying the climate and the parties."

Norman Krasna and fourteen others lined up on one side of the tennis net in the championship court to play a "special match game" against Vines, but the latter won the game, or at least the tennis referee said he did.

Bill Gargan went to Arrowhead Springs to spend the day restfully, after pushing and hauling with Big Don Wilson for their scenes in "Behind the Mike," at Universal. Gargan's resting had just begun when the telephone rang and the voice of his small son, Barrie, pleaded "daddy, come and get me at once." Visioning snake bite, a fall over a cliff or other disaster, Gargan drove hurriedly to Big Pines, where his son was in a summer camp.

"What's wrong with Barrie?" he asked.

"Nothing, Pop," chirped the lad happily. "I just wanted to spend the day with you on your birthday." Which day Gargan suddenly remembered it was.

The ranch home Ray Milland is building in Coldwater canyon has four fireplaces indoors and a barbecue pit outside.

When George Murphy learned there was a rôle for a child actress in his current starring picture "My Wife" at Metro, Murphy went to his director, Errol Taggart, and recommended Peggy Ryan, 12, who had been with the actor in "Top of the Town" at Universal recently. "Never saw the little girl," said Taggart, at which Murphy went out and found the child, brought her in, introduced her to his director, and got her signed for the job.

M.-G.-M. carried Murphy, former Broadway dancer and Yale athlete, under contract for a year without doing anything with him. Then Universal borrowed him for "Top of the Town," which made him an instantaneous success and his home studio cast him immediately in "Broadway Melody of 1938," "London at Night"—the picture which also booms Rita Johnson, and, currently, "My Wife." This is practically three pictures in as many months for the new found star and shows how quickly M.-G.-M. went into action when Universal "found" their new star for them.

In "My Wife" Murphy is a reporter exposing a racketeering religious cult. Making her debut as a straight lead opposite is Josephine Hutchinson, previously a red haired player of occasional secondary leads at Warner.

Universal will present Eddie Bergen, the ventriloquist now enjoying heated popularity on radio, as costar with his dummy, Charlie McCarthy, in a story as yet untitled, built around the slightly fictionized life of Bergen himself.

Baby's Routine Must Be Kept on Train Trip

BY CLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

I want to start today's article on traveling with the baby, a continuation of the earlier articles, by stressing the fact that on a long journey by car or train we must, if possible, keep to the baby's routine. The younger the baby is the more closely does he function by the clock. I have been in maternity wards when it was really funny to see the regularity and unanimity with which the hunger wails started.

So, preserve as far as you can the usual time for the baby's food, rest, exercise, bathing, and sleep. And, once more let me mention that it is wise to take him out of his basket frequently, the change is very restful. He should have his face and hands bathed frequently and he should be protected from draughts, sun, and glare.

If it is possible, even at considerable sacrifice, a stateroom for a long journey is a great comfort. The baby can be kept quieter and there is more space and greater convenience in taking care of him.

If your journey is for overnight have the berth made up early. Then you will have more room to attend to the baby when it is time to get him ready for the night. A good brisk rub or massage all over his body will rest him and help him to sleep well.

The following additional suggestions may be helpful.

These supplies may be packed in a small suitcase:

Small cans of evaporated or dried milk.
Jar of sugar.
Four to six nursing bottles.
Six sterile nipples in covered glass jar.
Funnel.
Strainer.
Teaspoon.
Small egg beater for mixing dry milk.
Vacuum bottle of boiled water.
Jar of prepared vegetable puree.
Solid alcohol stove or electric hot water heater.

A separate bag or basket lined with rubber sheeting should be provided for the diapers, and with them may be packed a small enameled ware chamber. For a young baby a number of inner pads of soft paper or cellucotton should be provided. Wet diapers may be rolled tightly and kept in the rubber bag.

For a long journey in hot summer weather a baby should be dressed only in a band, a diaper, and a thin outer garment. He should be barefooted. A short sleeved, low necked slip of white china silk or thin seersucker [cotton] can be washed out in the basin when soiled. Two dresses should be brought, so that one can be worn while the other is being washed. Warmer clothing should be at hand to put on at once if the day suddenly cools.

It is well to change the baby's clothing as soon as the train starts in order to have the street outfit clean to put on when leaving the train.

Do not give him cakes, candy, bananas, or sweet crackers to keep him quiet in the train. Irregular feeding and unsuitable foods, together with the fatigue and excitement of traveling, are likely to make him ill.

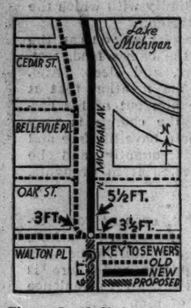
FIND LAKE DRIVE STORM SEWER IS FUTILE IN STORM

Hookup with Small Outlet Makes It Boomerang.

A connection to dump the outflow from a new five and one-half foot storm sewer into an old three and one-half foot city sewer was being made yesterday by WPA crews at Michigan avenue and Walton place. The new sewer, which extends under Lake Shore drive from North avenue to Michigan avenue, is a WPA project being built to drain the new high speed outer drive.



Five and a half foot sewer to empty into smaller one already full.

Commissioner of Public Works Oscar E. Hewitt said that connecting the new sewer with the smaller old one will make the new drain virtually useless because the old sewer is already taxed beyond capacity in time of a storm. The old sewer now extends south under Lake Shore drive from Banks street, east under Walton place, and south under Fairbanks court to the Sanitary district intercepting sewer along the north bank of the Chicago river .

Need $800,000 More.

The new sewer is a Chicago park district project. The WPA refused the city's request for $800,000 with which to continue it south under Michigan avenue to Superior street, east to St. Clair street, and then south to the large intercepting sewer which could take care of the outflow.

"The new sewer will merely serve as a reservoir in flood times," Hewitt said, "unless it is extended to the proper outlet. As soon as the sewer becomes full the excess water will do as it is doing now—drain off across the paving and beaches and into the lake."

Balked by New Rules.

H. K. Seltzer, Chicago district director of WPA, said that the federal agency, under the new regulations promulgated last month, cannot give the city sufficient money to extend the new sewer.

"We have offered the city a materials allowance of $9.50 for each man month of labor," he said. "We know this isn't enough to do the whole job, but we feel that the city should use state gas tax funds for its share of the work. We have built a good many miles of sewer in Chicago without one cent of contribution from the city and we can't do that any longer."

WPA SLASH PUTS HEAVIER BURDEN ON DIRECT RELIEF

Increased Load Expected by Illinois Commission.

Illinois relief cases will increase 12,200 by Sept. 1 over the number in June, according to estimates made yesterday at a meeting of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission.

Such an increase is contrary not only to the seasonal trend but to improved employment conditions. Officials explained that it was due to the action of the government in making heavy reductions in WPA employment which has thrown former WPA workers on the direct relief rolls.

Had it not been for the WPA reduction, officials said, the relief rolls, instead of increasing, would be decreased by from 7,000 to 14,000.

"Thus decreased WPA employment is being accompanied by a relief load from 19,000 to 26,000 cases higher than if WPA employment were maintained at the May level," said a report to the IERC.

Cost Is $475,000 Monthly.

The cost to state and local governments of supporting these cases will be at least $475,000 monthly.

Thirty thousand WPA workers have been dropped since May and more than half of them, according to estimates, have flocked back to the relief rolls. Fifteen thousand more WPA workers will be discharged by Oct. 1, and a majority of these also may be expected to demand relief, the IERC was warned by Executive Secretary Leo M. Lyons.

On June 30 there were 141,101 relief cases in Illinois. On the basis of seasonal trends in the last four years the rolls should be down to a point somewhere between 127,000 and 134,000 by Aug. 30. Instead the rolls will be up to 153,300, it was predicted.

Seeks to Find Men for Jobs.

"I wonder whether we are hiding behind WPA," said Omar H. Wright of Belvidere, a commission member. "With all these people idle it took me weeks to find men to do a bit of roof shingling and painting at my home this spring. We had better send some one to Cincinnati and Cleveland to find out how they reduced relief rolls by getting people into private employment."

The commission approved the allocation of $2,900,000 in state funds to local relief units for August. Total needs of the 1,432 units are $5,036,738, an increase of 10.2 per cent over the estimated July expenditures.

Of 153,314 relief cases in August 86,109 are in Cook county and 67,205 are downstate. There were 84,800 families listed as having employable members.

U. S. HALTS CASH TO ILLINOIS FOR OLD AGE RELIEF

State Pension System Under Fire.

satisfaction was found in downstate county units, especially in the state central office at Springfield, through which all pension matters must pass.

Though not mentioned in the official findings, it is reported that the investigators discovered that all except a few of the several hundred employés in the Springfield headquarters are political appointees, untrained for pension work. In contrast, it is said, the investigators found the Cook county office—the bureau of public welfare headed by Mr. Moss—to be staffed entirely by trained social service workers. It was this finding that prompted H. L. McCarthy, Illinois regional director of the social security board, to say that the Cook county office was doing a pretty fair job.

Fail to Get Coöperation.

The survey disclosed dissatisfaction in various county offices with the cooperation given by the Springfield headquarters. These offices complained that it was difficult to get statements of policy from Springfield, and that their pension recommendations were often revised at Springfield without reason.

Mr. Moss, who was reached last night in Wisconsin, said that the halting of federal funds was serious, affecting as it does 36,000 elderly persons in Cook county alone who are not at fault. While the state average is $17 a month, the Cook county average, due to higher living costs in the city, is $21, 10.50 each from the state and government.

Gov. Horner and A. L. Bowen, director of the department of public welfare, were wrathful last night over the suspension. With the governor, Mr. Bowen promised to continue paying the state's share of the pensions. The governor was even more emphatic.

Won't Suffer, Horner Says.

"Take it from me," he said, "the dependent aged of Illinois will not suffer because of any tyrannical action by the social security board. The pension recipients need have no reason to be alarmed."

Mr. Bowen called attention to the fact "that so-called federal funds which the board has arbitrarily cut off from the aged in Illinois are in fact contributed by the state's taxpayers.

"The internal revenue bureau has reported that Illinois taxes paid to the federal treasury far exceed federal funds distributed in Illinois. The result of this anomalous situation is that the money of Illinois taxpayers is being denied Illinois' aged and is going into other states to pay for their aged pensioners."

The announcement of the cessation of further federal grants came just as Illinois pensioners began receiving their July checks. These had been delayed several weeks by hesitancy on the part of the federal board to meet the state's allocation of $987,232 for the month. The federal grant for July was received only last Saturday.

BY FRENCH LANE.

For a period of some 72 seconds at Arlington Park this afternoon a 2 year old thoroughbred colt will flash an earning capacity of $500 a second. This will happen while he is wheeling around the six furlong course in search of the winner's end of the richly endowed Arlington Futurity.

His share of that pot of gold, which will gross close to $50,000, will be in the neighborhood of $35,000. So one can hardly blame the owner if he becomes a bit raucous when he sees his color bearer step proudly into the winner's circle.

Who that happy owner will be is just as uncertain as horse racing itself. It might be any one of seven owners represented. Still the advance guard of Futurity visitors last night were of the opinion that it will be Mrs. Ethel V. Mars of Chicago, whose horses race under the Milky Way Farm stable silks.

Any One of Three.

These observers of the Futurity situation were convinced that either Sky Larking, Tiger, or C-Note, all of which represent Mrs. Mars, will turn up as the winner. They installed the entry as the favorite and the odds at post time promise to be no better than even money. Eleven starters are expected. The Futurity will be the first of the two features run.

Backed stoutly as the second choice last night was Warren Wright's Bull Lea. The third choice at 5 to 1 was Perpetuate, owned by Robert L. Gerry of New York and the lone invader from the east. Hal Price Headley's entry of Menow and Bourbon King was next in line.

There was some little wagering yesterday that Mrs. Mars' entry will run one-two, but the fellows who actually speculated on such a proposition were few and far between.

Case Ace Won Last Year.

Mrs. Mars will be out after her second straight Arlington Futurity this afternoon. She carried away the rich prize last year with Case Ace.

That victory encouraged her to travel to the auctions at Saratoga for liberal purchases in the yearling market. She was the biggest buyer there. Her three representatives in today's race were among the purchases she made at that time.

Sharing top honors with the Futurity will be the $20,000 renewal of the Arlington Handicap.

It has attracted the stars of the western handicap division. The out-

FOUR NEW YORK MISPLAYS HELP CHICAGOANS WIN

Lee Goes Route to Whip Champions.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs, who seem destined for another world series fling, now are tops in their own league by a four game margin, the widest they've owned since taking first place on June 15.

They added a full lap to their lead yesterday when in the opener of a three game series they beat back the champion Giants, the one team still threatening their advance on the league title. The Giants, crippled and pitifully incompetent as fielders, wilted by 5 to 3 before 21,841 cash customers and a noisy gathering of 15,500 ladies' day guests.

Four Giant errors and a few other plays that rated as blunders just about tell the story. With these miscues the Cubs mixed hits and did nothing afield to indicate their lofty perch in the percentage column was turning them dizzy.

Giants Attack in Second.

The fading champions were tough as hitters in only one inning. In the second they laid down a barrage against the pitching of Gen. Bill Lee. They touched off three solid drives along with a pass and three of them went ripping across the plate. But Bill was promptly shoved back into a tie and in the third went into the lead. Thereafter he handled the situation almost perfectly to register his eleventh victory of the season against nine defeats. In the last seven innings he encountered only two troublesome spots.

The Cubs erased the three run Giant edge in the same inning because the bats of Ken O'Dea, Bill Jurges, and Phil Cavarretta went to work against Harry Gumbert. The hits accounted for two of the runs and the third was something of a gift. Then in the third the Giants went in strong for the kind of baseball peculiar to Brooklyn's Daffy Dodgers. Blondy Ryan, just rescued from the minors, cut loose with a ridiculous throw. Gumbert kicked a ball all over the infield with a chance for a play at two different corners. All this with a pair of singles gave the Cubs what proved the winning margin.

Lee's second inning distress began with Berger's single to right. It continued with a pass to Ott. The parade started in earnest when Leslie punched a two bagger into the left field corner, Berger scoring. Danning grounded to Herman, who took a long chance by throwing to the plate too late to keep Ott from scoring. Leslie was nailed at the plate on Ryan's grounder to Jurges. Gumbert cracked a single into center, Danning scoring and Ryan going to third. Gumbert went to second when Cavarretta erred on the throw in. Chiozza was purposely passed, filling the bases, but the next two batters were bowled over.

Cubs Tie Score.

The Giants collapsed immediately. O'Dea led off in the home second with a single to right. Jurges scratched a single past Whitehead. Cavarretta ran the count to 3 and 2 and then lashed a two bagger into left, O'Dea and Jurges going home. Lee bunted and Gumbert threw to third, but Chiozza didn't hold the ball, so Cavarretta was safe. The official scorer was big hearted about the matter and didn't record an error. Galan popped to Ryan for the first out and Hack flied to left for what should have been the second out, but Moore dropped the ball, Cavarretta scoring the tying run.

The Giants turned daffy again in the third and the Cubs jumped ahead with two runs. Herman singled to

There's an old timber road

Where wood-vine and thorny brush grow,
Eerie noises in there—

AMERICA'S CUP YACHTING EVENT TO START TODAY

Ranger and Endeavour II. to Match Speed.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Newport, R. I., July 30.—The harbor of this town became a floating jungle of bristling masts and rigging tonight as upward of 500 variegated craft dropped anchor for the international yacht races starting tomorrow. Ranger, the sleek new sloop which will defend the America's cup under Harold S. Vanderbilt as skipper, and its rival, Endeavour II., the graceful blue hulled British yacht of T. O. M. Sopwith, millionaire airplane manufacturer, lie poised in the midst of the spectator flotilla, which twinkles for miles with swaying lanterns and lighted portholes.

The two boats will spring into action like race horses tomorrow noon at the start of the sixteenth contest for the filigreed old silver mug which has rested in this country since the schooner America won the race around the Isle of Wight off the south of England in 1851. Englishmen, Scots, Irishmen, and Canadians have spent millions in vain efforts to lift the trophy.

Take Trial Spins.

Four of seven races will determine the winner. The courses are thirty miles each and will have their starting and finishing lines nine miles southeast of Brenton Lightship, ancient guardian at the entrance to Newport Harbor and Narragansett Bay. The first race will be fifteen miles to windward and return and the second, on Monday, will be run around three legs of an imaginary watery triangle.

The cup yachts were taken out for sail stretching spins during the day. Both are tuned to concert pitch. As the boats are almost identical in size, the skill of Vanderbilt and Sopwith will be the deciding factor. The unexpected defeat of Ranger in a race down the coast yesterday afternoon whipped up interest in the cup classic and especially revived the spirits of the British cheering section. It was Ranger's first defeat in fourteen starts. Her supporters claimed a fluke wind aided Endeavour I., Sopwith's unsuccessful sloop in the 1934 series, and the Yankee, built in 1930, to cross the finish line ahead of Ranger.

Town Is Decorated.

The quiet little town is decked like a movie wedding setting for the occasion. Newport merchants, with gladsome hearts, have hung out bunting and flags, both the Union Jack and Stars and Stripes. Badges and pennants are putting in an appearance as well as bits of glass and tin insultingly called "binoculars." An anchor furnishes the motif for feminine garb while scarcely a male walks the street without a yachting cap.

Hotels are jampacked and rooming houses are bulging with guests. Rates are soaring into the stratosphere. An ordinary hotel room with tub nicks the visitor $10. The lowly frankfurter is up a nickel to ten cents.

Odds Are 7-5.

Amateur though it be there is considerable betting on the outcome. Odds are about 7 to 5 on Vanderbilt to win. They are quoted on Bellevue avenue, the fashionable thoroughfare lined with the fabulous homes of the Vanderbilts, Princes, Astors, and Dukes.

But the professional gambler from Broadway is here also. One of them, garbed in the usual wasp waisted suitcoat, pearl buttoned vest, orange tie, and chewed cigar, dropped his anchor in Newport last night. Here to relay the "inside dope" back to his crowd in the city he was dismayed at the defeat of Ranger. "D'ya think they did it on purpose to drive down the odds," he asked quite seriously.

YOU'LL NEVER MAKE IT, SAM!

Sam Leslie of the Giants is caught at the plate as he attempts to score on Blondy Ryan's grounder to Bill Jurges. Ken O'Dea awaits Jurges' throw while Umpire Reardon gets set for a close play. This occurred in the second inning yesterday. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

That All-Star Line Will Keep Packers Busy

Votes at 101

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., July 30.—[Special.]—Noah M. Brock, Montgomery county's oldest citizen, today voted for Pete Vaughan of Wabash college in The Chicago Tribune's All-Star coach contest. Mr. Brock, who stopped mowing weeds to cast his vote, will be 101 years old on Aug. 14.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Green Bay's Packers, champions of the professional league, who will meet the 1936 all-stars at Soldiers' field Sept. 1, established a record last season among the boys who play for pay by a brilliant passing attack. The All-Americans should meditate on Arnie Herber's record during the 1936 regular season of 77 completed passes for 1,239 yards. And Don Hutson, Packer end, was as difficult to cover as the circle in a side show take a chance game. Hutson caught 34 forward passes.

Green Bay won its league title principally because of its passing. But the Packers should think frequently of the games when they failed to gain the distance of a tennis court while rushing the ball. Boston, for example, held the Packers to 19 yards while gaining 200 yards in the game at Boston last fall although Green Bay won, 7 to 3, by its passes.

Ponder on These.

If Green Bay and Coach Curley Lambeau wish something definite on which to concentrate while contemplating the score at Soldiers' field, consider these young men who will compose the starting All-American line.

LINCOLN FIELDS TO SEE PLENTY OF EAGLE PASS

Texas Colt Is Named for 3 of 10 Stakes.

Eagle Pass, known for his strong finishes, has been named for three of Lincoln Fields' ten stakes, Racing Secretary William H. Shelley announced yesterday.

Reservations have been made at the track for the entire Valdina Farms stable, and when the 30 day meeting starts on Monday, the Texas thoroughbreds of Emerson F. Woodward will be most prominent in all the major contests.

Seconds in both the Latonia Derby and Arlington Classic and a fast finishing fifth in the American Derby have stamped Eagle Pass as one of the finest route running 3 year olds. But his inability to get started with the speedier colts of his division has made the going tough for the Texas colt. The Lincoln, Marquette, and La Salle handicaps at Lincoln Fields may provide him with his first stake victory—or victories—of the season.

The Lincoln is at a mile and a sixteenth, the Marquette at a mile and an eighth, and the La Salle at a mile and three-sixteenths. They are at intervals of one week and it is not beyond probability that Eagle Pass will race in all three.

One of the outstanding members of the division which Eagle Pass will have to beat for these stakes is J. W. Parrish's Dellor.

2 Rich Races End Arlington Season Today

standing choice in this race will be Infantry from the Millsdale stable of Chicago. The chief argument against his right to finish in front will be furnished by E. W. Duffy's Sir Jim James.

There are some light weights in the race, particularly Dellor, Our Reigh, and Grand Manitou, and they may cause trouble. Grand Manitou, owned by Raoul Walsh, the movie director, who has demonstrated he is a very patient man while his horses develop, has performed impressively throughout the Arlington season.

End of Brilliant Season.

The running of the two stake races and six other events which round out the card will bring to a close the most brilliant season at Arlington in half a dozen years. Crowds have been large, visitors have been there from many parts of the world and the wagering the heaviest since the boom days.

The Futurity is being run for the sixth time. Its previous winners included Ladysman, Far Star, Toro Nancy, Grand Slam, and Case Ace.

This will be the ninth running of the Arlington handicap. Each year since it was added to the Arlington program it has been one of America's most important events for older horses. Its winners include Misstep, Sun Beau, Equipoise, Riskulus, and Discovery. The best time for the race was 2:01 1-5, made by Discovery in 1935.

Warren Wright of Chicago and Mrs. Frank Walker of California shared honors at Arlington Park yesterday.

Mr. Wright's Gosum, just short of the top flight 3 year old ranks, won the Lake Villa purse at a mile, while Mrs. Walker's Skipton captured the Bensenville purse over the same Hertz mile course.

Both trounced heavily backed favorites. Gosum whipped Millie M., full sister to Roman Soldier, and Skipton showed his flying heels to the heavily backed Lady Montrose, owned by Jake Lowenstein of Chicago.

Gosum paid off at $9.40 and Skipton rewarded his backers at $9.60.

Another big daily double payoff came at Arlington yesterday. Those who hooked up Miss Pittypat in the first with Sweeping Blaze in the second collected $716.80.

Billy O'Toole's Blue Ridge Farm's Lillian Roth, which contracted a fever shipping from Detroit, is back in training again. O'Toole will ship his stable of 25 horses to Lincoln Fields tomorrow. Jocky T. P. Martin will do the riding.

Jocky Charley Corbett, who rides for Tony Pelleteri's big public stable, will leave by motor tomorrow for Saratoga, where the main division of the Pelleteri stable will be shipped.

Warren Wright, owner of the Calumet Farm stable and vice president of the Arlington Park Jocky club, will go to Saratoga to attend the yearling sales. His most important purchase at the 1936 sales was Bull Lea, for which he paid $14,000.

SWEEPING BLAZE, under vigorous riding early, but steadied on the turn, took severe pressure gamely and wearing down ASIANNA won drawing clear. ASIANNA, away fast, had good speed and held on courageously but could not withstand the winner. CLEMATIS gave an even performance.

GEO GABLE, going in his best form and rated under restraint after a futile effort to outrun SMUGGLED IN, responded when called upon after a half mile but did not get up until within a few strides of the finish. SMUGGLED IN had fine speed from the start, swerved out slightly when entering the stretch and bore over while holding on gamely, though unable to hold the winner. TERPSICHORE, on the inside throughout, moved up on the turn, was racing strongly when placed in close quarters as SMUGGLED IN bore over in the stretch, never fully recovered and may have been best.

MO, away fast, made the early pace under light reserve, began to bear out when placed to pressure on the stretch turn, continued to go out while holding on gamely in the drive and was lucky to win. AHEAD, also under restraint for about five-eighths, rallied when approaching the stretch, gave way to BULLDOZER nearing the final eighth yet continued resolutely while being forced wide and overtook BULLDOZER in the final stride. Latter, on the inside early, was taken out after reaching the turn, was on the extreme outside as he challenged the leaders and, going farther out in the course in the last fifty yards probably cost himself the race.

GOSUM, lucky and never a great distance back, began to move up when securing room between horses on the turn, came through on the inside when taking the lead and, opening up a good advantage with a rush, held MILLIE M. safe while bearing out slightly in the late stages. Latter, timidly handled and under strong restraint for three-quarters, went wide on the stretch turn and closed well when straight, though she did not menace the winner. PLAY PAL, near the middle of the track throughout, failed to keep up when entering the stretch but came again.

Winner trained by F. Walker. Went to post at 4:38½. At post half minute. Start good. Won easily, place driving.

SKIPTON, racing with improved speed took command after about five-eighths, was shaken up soon after reaching the final quarter and then continued strongly, winning with something left. LADY MONTROSE, away slowly, worked her way up on the inside, came between horses in the stretch and outstayed COULEEDAM in the drive. Latter, forced to race wide throughout, was under strong riding after three-quarters, and held on gamely.

RICH GIRL took command easily, was rated under steady restraint for a mile, continued willingly following a mild shaking up, and probably had a little left. COLIGNY raced wide after the first half mile, was under stout urging in final three-eighths and held on well. LATER ON bettered his position gradually, was on the extreme outside in the stretch and closed fastest of all. ALMAC, under a weak ride, was a factor throughout and but for being caught in close quarters in the last fifty yards, might have finished closer up.

SILVERY CLOUD, close up from the start and quick to recover after being jostled about leaving the backstretch, slowly disposed of WEGOWAY when under strong urging in the stretch, and was ridden out. WEGOWAY, also a sharp factor from the start, and under restraint for about five-eighths, drew into command on the stretch turn, slowly gave way to the winner, and weakened in the late stages but outstayed CARL B. Latter, raced wide, closed strongly in his fine effort.

That All-Star Line Will Keep Packers Busy

pounds; Averell Daniell, Pittsburgh, 200 pounds.

GUARDS—Steve Reid, Northwestern, 192 pounds; Max Starcevich, Washington, 190 pounds.

CENTER—Earl (Bud) Svendsen, Minnesota, 190 pounds.

If this isn't the best football line in America, then 5,000,000 voters were wrong. These boys, without consideration of the thirty who will back them up as substitutes to be used at the discretion of the coaches, certainly equal any preceding all-star line. And those others who played in all-star games, as the Chicago Bears and the Detroit Lions now must admit, surprised by their sturdy defense and smashing offensive play.

Krause, Bernard—Pretty Good Boys.

The professionals have always been somewhat overconfident, if not actually contemptuous, of the collegians. The Bears explained their scoreless tie in 1934 by stressing lack of preparation and overconfidence. The line that year was captained by Ed [Moose] Krause of Notre Dame, and there was Chuck Bernard of Michigan at center to help stop Bronko Nagurski and his allies.

The Bears won in 1935, 5 to 0, but they could not cross the All-Star goal line.

The college boys last September scored the first touchdown of the series when Babe LeVoir scooted around the Lion flank on a reverse play. True, the Detroit eleven rallied to tie the score, 7 to 7, but the All-Stars completed four passes to one for the Lions, and they manufactured nine first downs to five.

The Line Is Big and Fast.

Will this year's All-Star line check the Packer attack? Well, the starting line averages 197 pounds. It also has speed. Tinsley starred defensively for three years at L. S. U. and then added pass catching to his other recognized abilities last fall. Wendt has the best of the wingmen in the Big Ten without question.

Where can you find two greater tackles than Widseth, bulwark of Minnesota's power parade for three years, and Daniell, Pitt's right tackle who did his share in the Panthers' drive to a national championship.

Starcevich was the torpedo in Washington's slashing, running game. Steve Reid captained Northwestern's title drive in the Western conference and sustained morale on an eleven which won by its defensive ability against such teams as Minnesota and Ohio State.

Bud Svendsen, accurate passer, dependable in all phases of play, needs no more recommendation than the statement that he was center on the Gopher team.

Waldorf Moves Into Second.

Charles [Gus] Dorais, football coach at the University of Detroit, benefited by a tremendous civic campaign in the national poll to choose the man to direct the all-star players against the Green Bay Packers, yesterday soared to a tremendous lead over all competitors. Dorais leads with a point total of 279,302. In second place this morning is Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern, with 31,889 points.

WICKER PITCHES, GEHRIG HITS AND YANKEES WIN, 8-2

Or the Story of How the Browns Lost.

New York, July 30.—(AP)—For the first time in a week, the Yankees received effective pitching today and they combined it with their customary hitting to beat the St. Louis Browns, 8 to 2.

Young Kemp Wicker, making his second start since he was brought up from the Yanks' International league farm at Newark, stopped the Browns with seven hits to score his second victory.

His chief assistants in the victory were Lou Gehrig, who hit his 20th homer with one on in the first inning; Frank Crosetti, who collected four hits, including a double, and Bill Dickey, who hit two singles.

Pirates Score in Ninth; Beat Bees, 1 to 0

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 30.—(AP)—Dutch Brandt, pitching a two hit shutout for the Pirates, beat Guy Bush and the Boston Bees, 1 to 0, today.

The Pirates scored with two out in the ninth inning. Al Todd's double, a walk, Pep Young's infield hit, and Red Lucas' pinch fly turned the trick to end the game.

Ray Mueller, the Bees' catcher, was the only Boston batter to hit safely against Brandt. He connected for two doubles.

Giants to Try Semi-Pro on Hornsby's Recommendation

Denver, Col., July 30.—(AP)—Ritchie Hotton, shortstop of the Bay Refiners of Denver, said today Bill Terry, manager of the New York Giants, had asked him to report in Chicago tomorrow. Hotton, 28 years old, former Denver university baseball and football player, said he would report after the close next week of the Denver baseball tournament. Rogers Hornsby, former manager of the St. Louis Browns and now acting manager of the Bay club, said he recommended Hotton to Terry as a better shortstop than Blondy Ryan, recalled from the minors by the Giants.

HONOR JOE GREEN.

Joe Green day will be observed at Shawbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen streets, tomorrow afternoon, when the Chicago Giants, managed by Green, play the Duffy Florals in a double-header.

Tex Carleton Will Face Carl Hubbell in Today's Game

Tex Carleton will put in a bid for his season's ninth victory today in the second of the series with the Giants. For an opponent Tex will draw Carl Hubbell, who has had his ears pinned back in his last two starts. One of the pinnings was done by the Cubs at New York last week.

Bill Terry hopes to have Dick Bartell, the Giants' regular shortstop, back in action today or tomorrow, but Bartell is afraid he won't be able to make it. He has been out for ten days because of a torn abdominal muscle. Gus Mancuso, their first string catcher, who broke a finger, probably will rejoin the team within a few days.

When Mel Ott slid safely into the plate in the second inning he gave one of his legs a twist and a few innings later was forced out of action by the mishap.

Mays to Drive Duray Car at Fair Grounds

When Leon Duray quit driving racing automobiles about 10 years ago, he did not waive himself out of the racing league. He began engineering his own racing creations and now is considered one of the finest builders of racing cars in the world.

Tomorrow afternoon, Chicago race fans will see one of these creations in action at the Fair Grounds speedway and Rex Mays will be in the cockpit when Starter Cliff Woodbury sends the big field away in a seven-race program.

Duray will also be on hand to take charge of the pit and give mechanical aid that Mays may need although he asserts he has found the secret of building a car that will stand up under the punishment that a flat dirt track inflicts upon racing motors and bodies.

This new car is only one of dozens that Duray has built and he estimates that he has spent more than $100,000 in his experiments that have covered the entire field of front and rear and four-wheel drives and complicated mechanical contrivances, all of which were expected to get just a few more miles per hour in competition.

Another car that is attracting attention is the Lyle Christie Special of Milwaukee. At the wheel of this new job will be Mauri Rose, 1936 A. A. A. driving champion.

Cubs Defeat Giants; Lead by Four Games

right and was bunted to second by O'Dea. Jurges dropped a single in short center. Berger whipped the ball toward the plate and the throw probably would have nailed Herman, but Gumbert intercepted it when he noticed Jurges heading for second. Jurges was trapped, but he jogged back and forth hopefully and was rewarded when Ryan tossed the ball into the Giant dugout. Jurges took third on the blunder. After Cavarretta had been purposely passed Lee poked a squeeze bunt in front of the plate and Gumbert fumbled, Jurges scoring. The remainder of the inning was quiet.

Cubs Miss a Chance.

The Cubs got started on another march in the fourth, but didn't go far. Collins opened with a pass, but there was a sudden collapse in which Demaree and Herman succumbed on strikes. Collins stole second on Herman's third swing. O'Dea was purposely passed and Jurges gave the Giants a break by lofting to Berger.

In the fifth Lee encountered his first serious jam since the eventful second inning. Moore scratched a single past the mound and Berger singled off the fence in left. Lee cleaned up in a hurry. Ott popped to Jurges. As Leslie took his third futile swing Moore and Berger pulled a double steal of third and second. The threat vanished when Herman caught Danning's popup.

Giants Make a Threat.

The Cubs made another false start in the fifth. Cavarretta inaugurated the inning with a single to left and sprinted down to second on Lee's bunt. Galan then lined to Berger and Hack was tossed out by Gumbert.

Lee struck another snag in the seventh but got back into the clear with his two run lead intact. With one out Berger walked and stole. Ripple, who replaced Ott, drilled a hit along the first base line and Collins slapped it down, thereby holding the perpetrator to a single and forcing Berger to stop at third. Leslie then sent a speedy poke to Jurges and a double play was put together, Herman and Collins assisting. After this the Giants dropped in order.

Sox Ready for Macks After a Day of Rest

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., July 30.—The second place White Sox, happy in the reversal of form which yesterday saw them win a handsome 2 to 0 victory over Washington for their first success of the current trip, rested tranquilly today. Tomorrow they will engage the last place Athletics in the first of a three game series.

Monty Stratton, ace of the Sox staf, will go after his fourteenth victory. He of course has no intention to submit to his fifth defeat. Harry Kelley, who in times past has enjoyed some success against the Chicagoans, probably will be sent forth by Connie Mack.

So far this season the Sox have won nine games from the A's while losing five. The A's ended a 15 game losing streak when they were in Chicago recently, but the Sox swept the series the last time they were here.

The A's took two out of three in their series with the Indians just closed and would have made it three straight but for two infield errors which let two runs score in the ninth inning.

The teams will engage in a doubleheader Sunday, after which the Sox will move on to New York for a day off Monday. Starting Tuesday they will play three single games with the Yanks.

Mounds Beats Rockford to Tie for Semi-Pro Lead

The Mounds, Ill., Blues went into a tie for first place in the second annual semi-pro baseball tournament now in progress at Elgin when they defeated the Rockford Bloomers, 12 to 3, last night. The Blues now are tied at two victories and no defeats with the Spencer Coals and Stanzak Brothers nines of Chicago.

Franklin Loses 6 Round Decision to Paul Williams

Paul Williams, colored Chicago heavyweight, won a six round decision over Lem Franklin at White City last night before 2,144 cash customers.

The battle was an introduction to professional fighting for Franklin, winner in this year's international and inter-city Golden Gloves tournaments. The verdict was not unanimous. Judge William A. Battye voted for a draw, while Referee Phil Collins scored 32-28 and the other judge, John Bray, 31-29, for Williams.

Williams was in a shell most of the time, but he scored enough points through the first five rounds to hold his margin in the final session when Franklin launched a rally. Franklin landed his first clean blow in the sixth. It broke his 208 pound rival's nose.

Nate Bolden, 1937 Intercity Golden Gloves middleweight winner engaged in his first professional fight by battling six rounds to a draw with Bob Gerry of St. Paul. The crowd booed the decision, thinking Bolden deserved the award.

George Dixon II. beat Lee Shepherd in ten rounds, making the verdict decisive by scoring a knockdown in each of the fifth, sixth, and ninth sessions.

Harry Booker, Chicago lightweight, held Johnny Shepherd of Cleveland to a six round draw. Tony Cianciola, Milwaukee welterweight, outslugged Bob La Monte to win a six round decision. Phil Saeli beat Cappy Wooten, Council Bluffs, Ia., 135 pounder, in four rounds.

The Illinois boxing commission will turn down an application to be submitted by Promoter Billy Cepak Monday for permission to present a ten round bout between King Levinsky and Art Oliver at White City Aug. 19. . . . Everett Rightmire, Sioux City, Ia., featherweight, will arrive tomorrow for his ten round scrap with Mickey Beal at Western stadium Tuesday.

SPORTSMEN ASK GUN TAX BE USED TO AID WILD LIFE

Bills in Congress Would Give Illinois $85,000.

BY BOB BECKER.

Sportsmen in Illinois as well as in other states are now working on a drive to get congress to pass a conservation bill before the legislators close up shop for the summer. It is known as senate bill 2,670 and house bill 7,681. The bill imposes no new taxes, nor does it create any draft on the taxpayers' pocketbooks. If it is passed it would mean around $85,000 a year for Illinois to spend on outdoor life and conservation projects.

Ever since the nuisance taxes went into effect several years ago the sportsmen of the country have been bearing a special tax of 10 per cent on sportsmen's equipment . . . shotguns, rifles, and ammunition. It amounts to about $3,000,000 annually. This new bill provides for the joint activity of state and federal agencies in a continent-wide restoration of all species of wild life by expending that $3,000,000.

Taxes for Conservation.

The government would, by provisions of the bill, set aside funds to be allocated to the states . . . the money to come from the taxes paid by the sportsmen. Thus the hunter who pays taxes on his guns and hunting equipment would see that tax money come back to his state to restore wild game.

According to S. Barry Locke, conservation director of the Izaak Walton league, members of his organization throughout the state of Illinois have been petitioning their representatives to secure passage of the act. The league has been taking active leadership among sportsmen to assure action on the bill which would benefit the wild life resources of practically all the states.

While sportsmen are concerned about this legislation in congress they also are waiting expectantly for news about the 1937 water fowl season. Generally the department of agriculture issues regulations for hunting during the month of August.

More Game Birds Scolds.

The latest bomb to be tossed into the water fowl question has just been hurled by More Game Birds of America. In a recent statement officials of the organization scolded the biological survey for not listening to recommendations regarding season lengths and hunting conditions as sent to Washington by state conservation officials.

It accuses survey officials of running a star chamber session when it comes time to draw up duck hunting regulations, instead of taking advice from experienced state authorities.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, July 30.—[Special.]—Bond trading on the stock exchange proceeded today at the rate of not much more than $1,000,000 an hour, which was a new low for the year in the matter of volume.

Treasury issues were so inactive that it was not until the fourth hour that transactions on the exchange reached $100,000. However, the federal issues moved up as much as 7-32 of a point, while losses did not exceed 1-32. With new bond offerings during the last week of a low ebb—approximately $19,000,000, of which the greater part was municipals—some observers hold the view that treasuries are proving the natural outlet for institutional investment.

The domestic corporate sector was marked by a down drift in carrier liens, shared to some extent by industrial issues.

Recent serenity of foreign dollar loans was disturbed by gyrations in French issues. Following announcement by the French government of proposed budgetary economies, and what is interpreted by some as "a swing to the right," French 7½s stamped jumped 4% points.

On the other hand the 7½s unstamped fell 6½ points. It was stated this move held no significance as it was the first sale in a long time and there are only a small quantity of the bonds outstanding.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks were irregular yesterday in light trading. The low most active issues—Rollins Hosiery new common, which accounted for 5,100 shares, Chicago Corporation common, Middle West, and Cord—closed unchanged. Chicago Corporation preferred, however, rose ½.

Eddy Paper jumped 3¼ points to a new high for the year, in anticipation of a favorable earnings report, according to traders.

Twenty-six issues closed higher, 25 lower, and 37 held unchanged. Volume was 32,000 shares.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks were mostly steady yesterday, but dealers varied greatly on quotations for Northern Trust stock prices ranging from $5 lower to $8 higher. Continental Illinois dipped 50 cents.

SEWAGE PATENT CASE MAY COST CITY $7,500,000

Firm's Process Used Without License.

BY JOHN FISHER.

An eventual victory for Activated Sludge, Inc., of Chicago, holder of patents on purification of sewage, in its suit against the Chicago sanitary district for infringement of patents, would cost the city nearly $7,500,000, it was estimated yesterday.

Speculation over the outcome of the Chicago case was stimulated by entry of a final decree recently in the federal district court at Milwaukee, awarding the Chicago company a judgment for $4,977,291 against the city of Milwaukee, its sewerage commission and ten contractors who built an extension to the city's sewage disposal plant.

Attorney Makes Estimate.

The estimate on the eventual recovery against the Chicago sanitary district was provided by Lynn A. Williams of the law firm of Williams, Bradbury, McCaleb & Hinkle, Chicago, counsel for Activated Sludge. Williams is one of the leading stockholders of the company, which is a closely held corporation.

The company's business consists of licensing cities to use the sewage disposal process on which it holds patents. Its process involves the purification of sewage through rapid oxidation, employing certain bacteria, known in biochemistry as bacillus M7.

Williams said that recoveries, based upon savings to the city over a period of years through use of the process, would in the Chicago case amount to approximately 50 per cent more than the Milwaukee award.

Courts Support Company.

So far the courts have held with the company in its action against the local sanitary district. Last June 16 the Circuit Court of Appeals upheld a District court ruling in favor of the company. Attorneys for the sanitary district plan to petition the United States Supreme court to review the case. The high court declined to review the Milwaukee action.

Cost of the litigation has been heavy. Action was instituted against the Chicago sanitary district in 1924, and costs to date are estimated at $600,000. Prominent attorneys were retained, present counsel for the sanitary district including Senator James Hamilton Lewis and former Judge Arthur C. Denison of Cleveland. Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, was at one time on the legal staf. Milwaukee's costs in the suit are placed at about $400,000. Equally heavy expenses were borne by the company in creating the extensive litigation.

Has Filed 103 Suits.

The company has been highly successful in other suits. Awards have ranged from $80 from Cuba, Mo., to the nearly $5,000,000 from Milwaukee. The company filed 103 suits, of which only about half a dozen are pending, and has issued 158 licenses for use of the process. Some of these were issued after settlement of suits. The pending suits include those against Fort Worth, Tex., and New York City, the latter involving a big disposal plant on Ward island which is not yet in operation.

Many cities did not apply for licenses to use the activated sludge process, Williams said, because of the belief of sanitary engineers that patents relating to public health were public property. While processes used varied somewhat, they have been held to be infringements on the original patents.

Supplanted Costly Methods.

This process supplanted the more costly methods of sewage disposal through chemical treatment or filtration through stones, charcoal, etc. It was asserted in the Milwaukee case that the activated sludge process reduced the amount of bacteria released into the lake to about one-seventh of what it had been under other processes, and cut to one-half the colloidal particles dumped into the lake.

While discovery of the process has been attributed to Gilbert Fowler, a University of Manchester, England, professor, its successful development was made possible by Walter Jones, British foundryman, who took out patents about 1914. He formed Activated Sludge, Ltd., Edgar C. Guthard received a license for its use in the United States and sued the Chicago Sanitary district in 1924. In 1927 he formed Activated Sludge, Inc., which joined in the suit.

ACTION DEFERRED ON BILLS CUTTING EXPORT OF SCRAP

Washington, D. C., July 30.—[Special.]—The military affairs committee of the senate today deferred until the next session of congress, starting Jan. 2, 1938, consideration of a series of bills to investigate or restrict exports of scrap iron and steel.

This action came as a result of a conference between Roger L. Wensley and former Gov. Louis J. Brann of Maine, representing the committee on scrap of the Independent Steel and Iron Producers federation, and Benjamin Schwartz, representing the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel, Inc., in the presence of the clerk of the senate subcommittee entrusted with the study of the bills.

The adjournment was declared satisfactory by both the independent steel producers, who wish to obtain legislation restricting exports of scrap steel, and by the Scrap institute, which is opposed to such restrictions.

France Sets '38 Loans at 637 Millions

PARIS, July 30.—(AP)—The council of ministers, carrying further the economy plan of Finance Minister Georges Bonnet, today fixed the 1938 extraordinary budget to be covered by borrowing at nearly 17 billion francs [nearly $637,000,000].

Decrees to be published tomorrow in the official journal will set the special expenses as follows: Military program, 11,100,000,000 francs [$415,900,000]; public works, 3,590,000,000 francs [$134,500,000]; pensions, 2,300,000,000 francs [$86,100,000].

Regular Budget Not Ready.

The ministers confined their action to fixing the extraordinary budget for 1938. The ordinary budget was not prepared.

Bonnet, in announcing the measures, reiterated his assurances the 1938 ordinary budget would be balanced, however. The prospective deficit for next year therefore would be limited to the amount to be borrowed to cover the 1938 extraordinary budget.

This is in contrast to a 1937 treasury deficit of more than 36,000,000,000 francs [$1,350,000,000] for whose reduction Bonnet already has imposed new taxes and decreed economies.

The cabinet yesterday cut 1937 public works expenditures nearly $1,900,000,000 francs [$71,190,000].

FRENCH FRANC RISES.

French currency rose further against the dollar in exchange transactions yesterday in New York. The franc closed at 3.75⅛ cents, .00⅛ of a cent above the preceding day. The French government's currency stabilization fund was reported to be supporting the unit.

The pound sterling receded 1-16 of a cent in New York, closing at $4.97 13-16. The Holland guilder advanced .00⅛ of a cent and the Swiss franc and Belgian belga declined slightly.

Gold engaged abroad yesterday for shipment to the United States amounted to $914,000, of which $574,000 was taken in England and $340,000 in China. No further engagements were reported in Japan, which has been shipping large amounts of the metal to this country recently. Gold was quoted in the London market yesterday at $34.77, unchanged from Thursday.

NEW CONTRACTS ADD 1,766 MILES TO U. S. AIR MAIL

Washington, D. C., July 30.—(AP)—The postoffice department awarded four air mail contracts today, adding 1,766 miles to air mail routes.

A new route from Washington, D. C., to Buffalo, N. Y., first leg of a proposed route between the capital and Ottawa, Canada, was awarded to Pennsylvania Central Airlines corporation at .00008 cent per mile.

Officials said this was the lowest air mail bid in postoffice department history. They said the offer was apparently a "protective bid" designed to prevent the mail contract from going to another firm. Loss on that low bid could be offset by passenger and express revenue, it was said.

Two contracts went to Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., one for a route between Dayton, O., and Chicago, and the other between Winslow, Ariz., and San Francisco. Both bids were for .1 cent.

The fourth contract went to Wyoming Air Service, Inc., of Casper, Wyo., for a route between Huron, S. D., and Cheyenne, Wyo. The bid was 19.875 cents.

House Passes Bill to Fix Panama Canal Ship Tolls

Washington, D. C., July 30.—[Special.]—A bill abolishing the dual measurement system for determining tolls on vessels passing through the Panama canal, and restoring to the President the right to promulgate rules which was originally granted in the Panama Canal Act of 1913, was passed by the house today and sent to the senate.

'FRISCO BROKERS HIT BY FAILURE TO LIST TRANSAMERICA STOCK

San Francisco, Cal., July 30.—[Special.]—Members of the San Francisco stock exchange today faced a prospective loss of one-fourth of their stock trading activity because of the failure of Transamerica corporation to make application for listing its new shares on the exchange.

A. P. Giannini. [Blank & Stoller Photo.]

Trading in the new stock of Transamerica, world's largest bank holding company, will begin Monday on the New York and Los Angeles exchanges, but not at San Francisco, which has previously been the principal market for the company's shares.

It was rumored that a disagreement between A. P. Giannini, founder and head of Transamerica, and Frank M. Shaughnessy, president of the San Francisco exchange, was responsible for the failure of the corporation to apply for listing.

Giannini, however, denied the report that he had threatened to keep the new stock of his company from being listed until a change of management was effected. Shaughnessy declined to comment on the alleged disagreement.

Local financial circles were disturbed over the prospective loss of commissions on Transamerica stock, which amounted to more than $4,250,000 for exchange members last year.

CORN DECLINES AGAIN AS RAIN BENEFITS CROP

Prices Lowest for Year; Wheat Rises.

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

Closing prices on the September delivery of principal grains on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday:

	Yesterday.	Thursday.	Year ago.
Wheat	$1.18¼	$1.17	$1.10¾
Corn	.91	.93¾	1.01½
Oats	.29⅞	.29¾	.40⅝
Rye	.81¾	.81¾	.79⅜
Soy beans [Oct.]	1.03¾	1.04½	.....

Continued favorable crop reports and beneficial rains over part of the main corn belt sent the price of that grain down the permissible limit of 4 cents a bushel early yesterday. All deliveries sold at a new low level in more than a year, with the September contract touching 89¾ cents and the December option reaching 67 cents a bushel at the extreme.

Heavy buying of September corn to close spreads with September wheat caused a sharp rally from the low figures on the former grain, but the close was at net losses of 1⅛ to 2⅝ cents a bushel.

Spreaders Win Profits.

The spread between corn and wheat was said to have returned a large profit, as September corn was 27 cents a bushel under the same delivery of wheat at the close, compared with a discount of only 7⅝ cents on July 10.

All deliveries of oats and soy beans were in new low ground for the season, but oats rallied to close a small fraction of a cent a bushel higher on talk of export business with Canada and of Chicago shippers making direct offers to Europe.

Wheat showed stubborn resistance to selling pressure. While declining with corn early the wheat market turned strong later and closed with net gains of ¾ to 1¼ cents a bushel with the September delivery showing the most strength. Price changes in rye were confined to small fractions of a cent a bushel, while soy beans were ¾ to ⅞ cent lower at the close.

Corn Outlook Best in Years.

Not in years has the outlook for the new corn crop been as favorable as at the present time. The action of the corn market this year is the reverse of what it was in 1936, when drouth damage developed early in July and caused an advance in the December contract from a low of 62⅛ cents on July 1 to a high of 94⅝ cents by the end of the month. During the same period this year December corn has declined 19½ cents a bushel.

Visions of a corn crop of 2,750,000,000 bushels this year, or 200,000,000 bushels in excess of the 1928-32 average, and the smallest number of live stock units in years to consume the grain, were said to be responsible for the extreme bearish sentiment which has prevailed recently in the grain trade.

Scramble for Cash Corn.

A scramble to buy old crop domestic cash corn developed yesterday when local receipts dropped to only 11 cars. Old No. 2 yellow in public elevators sold 6 cents a bushel over the September delivery, while carlots in the sample market brought 7 to 8½ cents over the future. St. Louis was said to have outbid Chicago as much as 5 cents a bushel at country loading stations in Illinois.

Action of the wheat market yesterday was regarded as a typical merchandising affair. Brokers who frequently act for mills and exporters bought futures freely on the breaks, while hedging sales appeared on all the bulges. Sentiment as a whole was mildly bullish due to reports of 250,000 bushels of American hard winter having been sold at the gulf to Antwerp and 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat to the United Kingdom.

Winnipeg Market Strong.

Strength in Winnipeg attracted some attention, the Canadian wheat market closing ⅞ to 1⅝ cents a bushel higher on futures. Minneapolis July wheat opened 8 cents lower, the permissible limit, but rallied on a few purchases to close unchanged for the day at $1.49¼.

Liverpool was unsettled, closing 1⅛ cents lower to 1½ cents a bushel higher, with the deferred futures showing unexpected strength. Dry weather reports from Argentina and Australia were said to be responsible for the firmness abroad.

ADMINISTRATION WINS FIRST TILT IN SUGAR FIGHT

Washington, D. C., July 30.—(AP)—The administration won the first round today in a contest with the congressional sugar bloc over new control legislation designed to replace the expiring Jones-Costigan quota system.

House leaders of the sugar bloc decided to delete from a pending bill a provision restricting refined sugar imports from Hawaii, Porto Rico, and the Virgin Islands. The state, interior, and agriculture departments had objected to the provision on the ground it discriminated against the inland possessions.

The decision to redraft the bill was reached after a delegation of senators and representatives from sugar-producing states failed to win President Roosevelt, Secretary Ickes, and Secretary Hull over to the restrictive provision.

The bill, previously approved by the house agriculture committee and the sugar bloc, would set up a new quota system and levy an excise tax to finance benefit payments to growers.

Steel Shares Bolster Tired Stock Market

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 30.—A strong steel group acted as a tonic to a tired stock market today with the result that the list in general firmed somewhat. While gains were not large, they were widespread. Only the rails failed to hold their best advantages. Trading continued slow, however, volume reaching only 615,250 shares.

Opinion in Wall street circles was divided by the market's action, some holding that in spite of its rallying tendencies the general price structure is too top heavy and that continued flights before a corrective move would leave the way open for a sharp reversal.

Rely on Congress Adjournment.

Others contended that in view of the expected imminent adjournment of congress—with the attending hiatus of administration proposals and bills held in many quarters to be detrimental to business—the market is in excellent shape to show progress predicated on favorable corporation reports and apparent peace on the industrial front.

Buying in the steel group was encouraged today by the better-than-expected action of Bethlehem Steel directors in declaring a $1.50 dividend on the common and the outlook for better scrap prices this fall and winter. Bethlehem was pushed up almost a point on steady buying. U. S. Steel common held an early fractional gain, as did other leading steel shares. Youngstown Tube and Inland Steel were exceptions, declining fractions.

Motor Group Also Rallies.

Motor stocks also participated in the rally, aided somewhat, it was agreed, by intimations by Alfred P. Sloan, chairman of the General Motors board, that there would be an increase in prices of automobiles. Chrysler jumped 1½ points, while General Motors pushed a fraction higher. Lower priced auto stocks held about unchanged.

Despite what many considered an unfavorable car loading report, railroad shares displayed a better undertone than recently, with buying on dips preventing a rout.

Electric Power and Light was an outstanding performer, moving in the best volume of the day for an increase of 1½ points. Other utility issues also returned to favor for fractional advances.

Oils were another group to attract considerable attention and to push fractions higher.

NINE MORE BANKS MAY REPAY ON DEPOSIT ACCOUNT

Repayments totaling approximately $335,000 may be made this year by nine more closed state banks the state auditor's closed bank report indicated yesterday.

The banks expected to make disbursements to depositors are Melrose Park State, Montrose Trust and Savings, Morton Grove Trust and Savings, North Avenue State, Northbrook State, North Town State, Park Ridge State, Peoples State Bank of Arlington Heights, and the Peoples State Bank of Maywood.

With the exception of the North Town State bank, 5 per cent repayments are predicted. The North Town bank may make a 17½ per cent disbursement. Complete reports of the condition of 60 closed banks will be published in the Metropolitan section of tomorrow's SUNDAY TRIBUNE.

ONE GALLUS BOY BUILT FORTUNE, FAILED, NOW IS ON COMEBACK TRAIL

Louisville, Ky., July 30.—(AP)—James Buckner Brown, a "one gallus" boy from rural Kentucky who built up an estimated five million dollar fortune as a Louisville banker and then suddenly found himself broke when he was 58, passed the second milestone of a comeback today when the young bank he now heads announced the purchase of an older institution.

James Buckner Brown.

Brown, now 64, announced the deal by which the People's bank, just 13 months old, took over the Bank of Commerce, as of July 29, and prepared to move its assets to the younger institution. The first step in Brown's comeback was taken June 16, 1936, when he became president of the People's bank, just organized.

The National Bank of Kentucky and Bancokentucky, a holding company, both of which were headed by Brown, crashed in November, 1930. Brown went into bankruptcy. He gave up directorates in several industrial corporations. He lost the Louisville Herald-Post, which he had purchased in 1924. There were indictments in both state and federal courts charging misapplication of funds, but Brown won acquittal in both courts.

Brown became president of the old First National bank of Louisville when he was 34, the youngest national bank president in the country at the time.

BANK WILL ASK DISMISSAL OF $8,000,000 SUIT

A motion to withdraw the answers of Charles G. Dawes and the City National bank to a suit by stockholders of the old Central Republic Bank and Trust company to recover $8,000,000, was filed yesterday before Judge James F. Fardy.

In place of the answers, a motion to dismiss the suit will be filed shortly, according to Attorney Michael J. Ahearn, one of counsel for the City National bank. A hearing on this motion will be heard by Judge Fardy on Sept. 27, he indicated.

The stockholders' suit, brought in the name of Wynett W. McIlvaine, asked the $8,000,000 from the defendants as the "fair and reasonable value" of the banking business of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company at the time it was taken over by the City National bank in 1932.

WEEK'S OUTPUT OF AUTOS DIPS TO 86,403 UNITS

Production of automobiles in American and Canadian plants dropped to 86,403 units this week, Ward's Automotive Reports estimated yesterday. The agency said that the decline from the preceding week's output of 88,055 was less than seasonal.

This week's production is well below the 97,755 cars and trucks turned out in the corresponding week of 1936, due to the shutdown of the Ford plants. Last year the Ford plants closed down later in the summer.

FORD BOOSTS PRICES OF SOME MODELS DUE TO INCREASE IN COSTS

Detroit, Mich., July 30.—(AP)—The Ford Motor company announced price increases of $15 to $35 tonight on several passenger models in its 1937 line. A statement attributed the action to "rising costs."

The "base price" of the Ford line remains unchanged, a spokesman said. Five passenger car models and the entire truck and commercial series will continue to sell at existing prices. The revised schedule becomes effective Monday.

Automotive manufacturers generally, some of them beset by labor difficulties as well as by higher material costs, have discussed informally the possibility of increased sales prices in connection with new 1938 models.

The Ford company was the first to announce a revised schedule.

MEAT IMPORTS NEARLY MILLION POUNDS DAILY

Pork Shows Largest Percentage Gain.

Foreign pork and beef, both dressed and on the hoof poured into this country at the rate of almost 1,000,000 pounds daily during the first five months of 1937, it was disclosed yesterday. A year ago importations also were heavy at almost 900,000 pounds a day. Two years ago this country received beef and pork at the rate of about 600,000 pounds daily and three years ago imports ran about 180,000 pounds a day.

Although beef and veal comprise the bulk of the imports, pork shows the largest percentage of increase in recent years. Imports of dressed pork and the meat brought in as lard hogs, aggregated approximately 36,965,000 pounds in the first five months of this year, compared with 18,227,000 pounds in the same period last year, 2,304,000 pounds two years ago and only 643,000 pounds in the five months of 1934.

Beef, Veal Imports Heavy.

Beef and veal, imported dressed and as live cattle and calves, totaled 110,509,000 pounds in the five months of 1937 as compared with 114,790,000 pounds in the same months of 1936. Two years ago imports were 94,458,000 pounds and three years ago they totaled only 26,925,000.

The tonnage of meats, both beef and pork, arriving in this country as live animals shows a much larger percentage of increase than the importations of dressed meats. Compared with 1934 figures, beef and veal imported in the first five months of 1937 as live animals show an increase of 480 per cent, whereas dressed beef and veal increased 141 per cent in the three years.

Pork and Hog Imports.

Dressed pork in three years increased 4,685 per cent, while pork coming in as live hogs gained more than 20,000 per cent over the rather negligible volume imported in 1934.

May imports of beef and veal, dressed and on hoof, at 25,973,000 pounds compared with 27,986,000 pounds in April and with 23,526,000 pounds a year ago. They were more than five times the imports of May, 1934. Almost 70 per cent of the May, 1937, imports came in as live cattle and calves.

Pork imports in May at 7,842,000 pounds compared with 5,656,000 in April and with 4,187,000 a year ago. Only 139,000 pounds were imported in May, 1934, both dressed and as live hogs.

Canadian cattle exports to the United States this week were the heaviest of the year to date with the exception of one wek in January.

RESERVE BOARD EXPANDS MARGIN RULE FOR BANKS

Washington, D. C., July 30.—(AP)—The federal reserve board amended regulations today to broaden the scope of present margin requirements as they apply to banks.

Under existing regulations, persons buying securities on margin must put up 55 per cent of the price in cash and may borrow up to 45 per cent. This rule applies to all loans advanced since May 1, 1936. Under the amended regulations, effective Sept. 1, the reserve board prohibits the withdrawal or substitution of collateral behind loans made prior to May 1, 1936, if such action gives the borrower a loan amounting to more than 45 per cent of the value of his securities.

If the loan was in excess of 45 per cent of the securities' value on May 1, 1936, the regulations prevent withdrawal or substitution of any collateral which would increase the excess. They do not require, however, that the loan be reduced, or that additional collateral be provided.

INSURANCE FIRM RECEIVER SUIT IS DISMISSED

A suit for liquidation and receivership filed against the Chicago Fraternal Life association several months ago by Frank J. Kopczynski, a policyholder living in Grovetown, Ind., was dismissed yesterday by Federal Judge William H. Holly.

In ending the suit Judge Holly approved the merger of the association with North American Union Life Assurance society which was effected Jan. 20 after ratification by the Illinois department of insurance. Acting on recommendation of Jacob I. Grossman, master in chancery, the court dismissed the charges of gross mismanagement without prejudice to any other legal action Kopczynski may wish to start.

In the dismissed suit charging mismanagement, Kopczynski contended that the association was unable to pay death claims of $100,000, that the reserve fund had shrunken, and that there were unpaid real estate taxes.

TREASURY LOAN BOOSTS DEBT TO NEW HIGH MARK

Washington, D. C., July 30.—(AP)—A $50,000,000 issue of discount bills lifted the federal debt to a new peak of $36,707,757,744 on July 28, treasury reports showed today. The bill issue was one of a weekly series with which Secretary Morgenthau is putting new cash into the treasury's working balance.

The balance stands now at $940,618,981, and Morgenthau has said he wishes to keep it around the billion mark because of troubled conditions abroad.

The July 28 debt was $3,245,000,000 over that of a year ago and $10,111,000,000 above the wartime high in 1919. Since the fiscal year 1930, the last period in which government income matched spending, the debt has increased $20,512,000,000.

President Roosevelt has said that a $2,000,000,000 increase in the debt during the first half of this year resulted largely from operation of the treasury's gold "sterilization program" and issuance of obligations to government trust funds, such as the social security reserve fund.

For the first twenty-eight days of this fiscal year, the treasury reports showed, the government has run $193,550,363 into the red, compared with a $106,802,291 deficit in the corresponding period a year ago.

CHICAGO STORES REPORT SALES ABOVE YEAR AGO

June Dollar Volume Shows Gain of 11 Per Cent.

Retail sales of 324 independent stores in Chicago during June showed an increase of about 11 per cent in dollar volume over sales of June, 1936, the department of commerce reported yesterday.

When adjusted for the number of working days, June sales were almost 10 per cent below May sales, the report showed. Without adjustment they were 6 per cent below May, there being one less working day in May than in June this year.

Sales of 940 independent stores in Illinois showed the same increase over June, 1936, as did those in Chicago. Adjusted sales were 9 per cent below those of May but without adjustment were 5½ per cent below May.

Bloomington Has Largest Gain.

Bloomington showed the greatest gain over last year, with an increase of 24 per cent. Evanston reported a gain of 14.3 per cent and Oak Park an increase of 16.7 per cent over June, 1936.

In Chicago the greatest gains over last year were reported by jewelry stores, with a gain of 44 per cent. Furniture stores showed average increases of about 32 per cent, while sales of lumber and building materials dealers increased almost 27 per cent. Groceries declined 5 per cent and women's specialty shops reported a drop of 15¼ per cent.

NATION'S SALES LARGER.

Washington, D. C., July 30.—(Special.)—Total net sales of 547 manufacturers in the United States increased 11.7 per cent in June, 1937, over June, 1936, while 1,105 wholesalers reported an increase of about 15 per cent, the commerce department announced today.

All of the fifteen industries shown in the manufacturing survey had increases, except iron, steel, and their products, which decrease, the department declared, was due to the strike conditions.

WHEAT STOCKS ON JULY 1 FAR BELOW NORMAL

Wheat stocks in all positions in the United States on July 1, representing holdings from the 1936 crop, aggregated 85,000,000 bushels, or 53,000,000 bushels less than on the corresponding date in 1936. On July 1, 1933, the carryover was 378,000,000 bushels, the largest on record.

These figures, while based on official estimates, are not the total amount of old wheat on hand as there was considerable wheat in transit and in various positions which has not been included. Grain in transit, etc., on July 1, this year, was estimated at 26,000,000 bushels, against 34,000,000 bushels on July 1, 1936.

	1937.	1936.	1935.	1934.
On farms	22	44	44	62
Interior mills, etc.	12	22	32	48
Visible	9	22	32	81
Merchant mills	42	51	49	83
Total, bu.	85	138	147	274

Exports of 278,000 bushels of domestic hard winter wheat were reported yesterday from Galveston, making a total of about 2,000,000 bushels cleared for foreign countries so far this season.

Investors' Guide

Danish Bonds.

Investors' Guide: Please advise me in regard to Denmark 4½ per cent bonds due in 1962. Can they be called before maturity? Has Denmark been prompt in meeting her obligations?—S. M. B.

Answer: Bonds of the Kingdom of Denmark enjoy a good investment rating. The government has met its obligations faithfully. The 4½s of 1962 are callable at par on April 15, 1938, or any subsequent interest date.

Good Humor.

Investors' Guide: Please tell me what the earnings of the Chicago Good Humor corporation have been for the past several years, and if possible give earnings of other Good Humor companies—H. S.

Answer: The Good Humor corporation, manufacturer of ice cream and frozen stick confections, does not make public the earnings of its various subsidiaries in Chicago, New York, Boston, New Haven, Newark, Detroit, and Cleveland. Net profit of the parent company was $405,000, or $1.16 per common share, in 1936, compared with $291,000, or 86 cents a share, in 1935.

International Money Machine.

Investors' Guide: I am the owner of stock in the International Money Machine company and would like to know its present status.—W. H.

Answer: The entire property and assets of the company were sold in 1923 under the order of the District court of the United States for the eastern district of Pennsylvania. The proceeds of the sale were used for the payment of the expenses of the receivership, taxes, and other senior claims, and a small dividend to unsecured creditors. There were not sufficient funds to make any distribution to stockholders.

B. & O. Chicago Terminal.

Investors' Guide: Kindly send me a brief report on Baltimore and Ohio Chicago Terminal Railroad company, including what other roads beside B. & O. have an interest in it and who owns control.—G. H. W.

Answer: All of the company's stock and nearly all of its bonds are owned by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. It operates 375 miles of terminal track and sidings in Chicago. The few bonds in the hands of the public hold a high investment rating.

America's Cup Yachting Classic Starts Today—Alfredo Codona Shoots Divorced Wife and Kills Himself

AMERICAN AND BRITISH BOATS READY FOR RACES

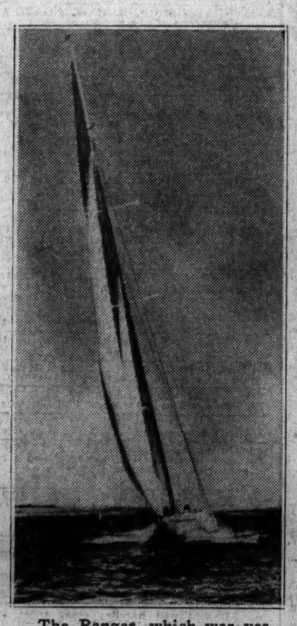
Aerial view of Newport, R. I., and its yachting waters with three courses for series and other interesting features noted. Ranger, sleek new American sloop, will defend the historic cup against the challenge of Endeavour II., the blue hulled yacht of T. O. M. Sopwith, millionaire British airplane maker. Four out of seven races will decide the event. The race today will be fifteen miles to windward and return. [Associated Press Wirephoto.]

The crew of the Ranger shown ready for the start. Left to right: Harold S. Vanderbilt, the owner; Zenas Bliss, navigator; Red Stephens, Olin Stephens, and Arthur Knapp Jr. Bliss is a Brown university professor "somewhat younger" than Mr. Vanderbilt, who is 54. The cup has been in possession of America since the schooner America won it off the Isle of Wight in 1851. [Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Friendly enemies of the yachting competition: Harold S. Vanderbilt (left) and T. O. M. Sopwith, skippers of the Ranger and Endeavour II., respectively, as they met yesterday in Newport while thousands of persons were gathering to witness event today. [Associated Press Wirephoto.]



The Ranger, which was yesterday tuned up to concert pitch for the race. It has been defeated once in 14 starts. [Associated Press Photo.]

The wives of the rival skippers, Mrs. Gertrude Vanderbilt (left) and Mrs. Sopwith, also meet in Newport. Both will be aboard the competing yachts, as their husbands scoff at the tradition that a woman brings bad luck to a racing craft. [Associated Press Wirephoto.]

The Endeavour II., the challenger, which is built along the same lines as its unsuccessful predecessor, Endeavour I. [Acme Photo.]

YEA, CUBS, GO AFTER 'EM

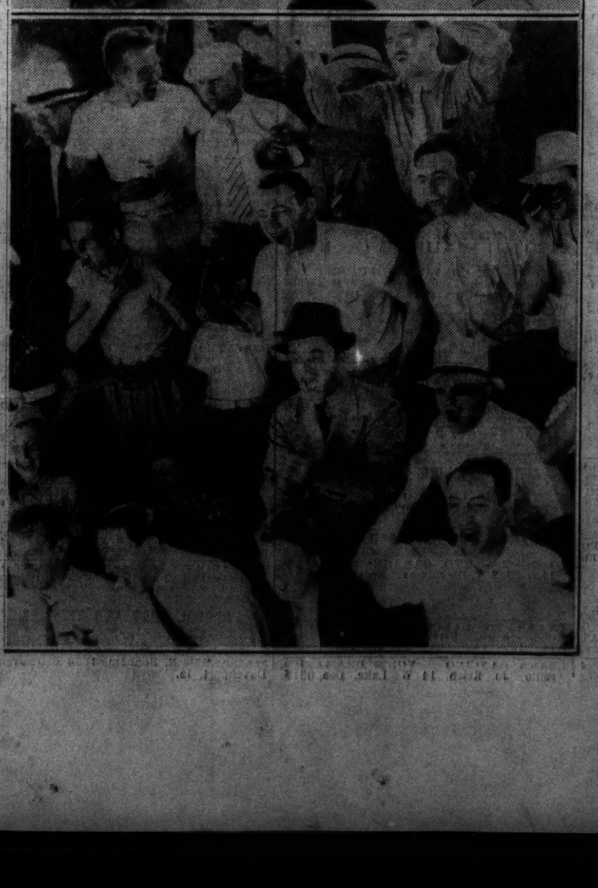
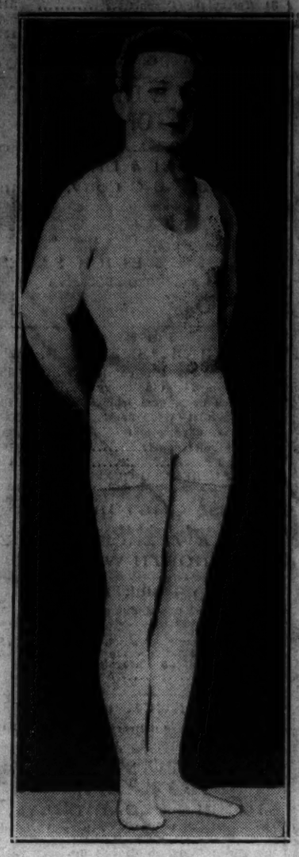
The Tribune's camera man made these studies at Wrigley field yesterday as the Cubs defeated their nearest rivals, the Giants, 5 to 3, and widened to four games their lead in race for the league pennant. The pictures reflect the excitement of the ladies' day and regular fans as their heroes fought way to victory. [TRIBUNE Photos.]





[Acme Photo.]

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

INQUIRIES SEEK CAUSE OF SHIP BLAST; FOUR LOST, 89 RESCUED—The smoldering hulk of the steamer City of Baltimore as fireboats continued to pour water on it yesterday near Baltimore. The ship burst into flames after an explosion Thursday evening while en route to Norfolk. (Story on page 5.)

Inaugurating Bathing Season with Dionne Quintuplets

The Dionne quints as they started the summer season in their own private pool at Callander, Ont. And what could be better than sand shovels to use as playthings? Annette, Marie, Yvonne, Cecile, and Emilie (left to right) are making the water turbulent by their activities.

It seems pretty hard to sail marine craft on the Dionne pool judging from the wrecks floating on the waves. Emilie (left) is doing a little salvaging, while Marie (next to her) has rescued one boat intact. Annette, Cecile, and Yvonne are too busy doing their washing to be bothered about sailboats. The quints, all in excellent health, enjoy the outdoor activities during the summer season at their hospital-home. [World Copyright: 1937: By N. E. A. Service, Inc.]
